HOOVER TO JOIN EUROPE IN PLAN TO AID GERMANY

Gold Credit to Bank First Need.

President Tells Efforts

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover late today made the following announcement of his efforts to aid in the reconstruction of Germany's tottering finances:

"Since my return from the central European I have conferred with many leaders of both political parties who are present in Washington with regard to certain steps which we might take to assist in economic recovery both here and abroad.

"These conversations have been particularly directed to strengthening the position in Germany. No definite plan of co-operation have yet been arrived at, but the consensus which I have got from the leaders of both parties is most gratifying.

"Any statement of any plan or method is wholly speculative and is not warranted by the facts."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Speculation burst upon Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's statement that the Hoover administration and Federal Reserve officials are considering a moratorium on international debts and war debts owed to United States look in the background of the situation for ultimate consideration, the first step to be taken by the powers in concert is said to be the extension of a gold credit to the German Reichsbank to meet the outflow of German credit, which has been seriously threatened by the current volume of gold withdrawals from Germany.

Should withdrawals continue the reflected effect on the situation of Germany, which is economically prostrate and unable to make payment of the reparations imposed by the allied powers, is a menace of bankruptcy.

U. S. to Furnish Big Part.

Should credit may amount to one billion dollars or more with the United States furnishing several hundred millions. The credit would be extended by the Federal Reserve banks of this country while the Reserve Bank of England extended to Great Britain a credit of 300 millions to enable that country to maintain its position on the gold standard basis to which it had returned.

There is reason to believe that the proposal for extending a gold credit was discussed by Secretary Mellon with Premier MacDonald and with Governor Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and that Mr. Mellon terminated the project to the White House with a recommendation that it be approved.

Reactions of Powers Likely.

Although no plan of action has so far taken definite form it appears that the proposition of a conference of the powers, including the United States, on the world economic depression, the bearing thereon of German reparations, war debts owed to the United States, and disarmament entered into the discussions of President Hoover and his advisers.

Opinions on the payment not only of German reparations and of the war debts, if not the even cancellation of both as a measure of economic relief, bulks large in the question with which the President has now joined the chancelleries of Europe in wrestling.

Whether the terms of the war debt settlement the debtors may avail themselves at any time of a two years' moratorium with respect to payments of principal. One of the measures the President is considering is the extension of such a moratorium to interest payments. For such a concession the approval of congress would be necessary and it was to ascertain the views of the lawmaking branch of the government that the President began today to discuss the views of senators and representatives.

The discussions of the day led to speculation as to whether the President

With the shout "grafters" ringing at their backs, four hot and bothered assessors went into executive session yesterday as more than 3,000 taxpayers milled through the third floor county building corridors and fired Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals and militant apostle of the 1928 scientific reassessment.

The charges of insubordination on which the dismissal was based are the outgrowth of six months of heated blokering between Cutmore and the present board of assessors, composed of John E. Conroy, John E. Traeger Jr., Walter W. L. Meyer, Gene G. Oliver, and Adam Wolf. Although a statement of the charges purported to come jointly from Wolf as chairman and Conroy as secretary, Wolf was not at the meeting, nor has he been present at any complaint hearings.

Restores Power to Board.

The dismissal on the eve of the preparation of the 1931 quadrennial assessment restores the assessors to the full powers of their office, which the board virtually abdicated in favor of Cutmore when he was appointed to direct the reassessment to eradicate the glaring inequalities of the 1927 quadrennial. The ouster of Cutmore was declared by County Attorney Hayden N. Bell to be a step toward the old order.

In this view Attorney Bell was joined by George C. Fairweather, chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuations, and John O. Rees, its director. However, these pointed to what they termed the brighter side of the dismissal—the ultimate breakdown of the present system of assessing and a resultant reformation.

President Emmett Whealan in terming the ouster "unfortunate" and "a mistake," gave a more gloomy picture in relation to the financial situation of local governments. He foresaw possible errors in the building of the quadrennial assessment by the assessors in the absence of Cutmore as subject to challenge and voiding the assessment to paralize local governments financially.

Crowds Pack Corridors.

The four assessors came to the county building yesterday to be confronted with a scene bordering on pandemonium. Crowds of taxpayers packed the corridor on the third floor with their tempers frayed by anger at high tax bills and a thermometer above 90 degrees. The officials reached their offices by fire escapes from another floor after being greeted with cries of "grafters" and "robbers" as they sought to push through into their office.

The assessors had allowed but one day for filing of complaints against the 1930 assessments on all the 1,000,000 parcels of property in Chicago. The assessors blamed Cutmore for the turmoil, but later Conroy, chief antagonist of Cutmore in the latter's three years of service, admitted that Cutmore had acted on the board's orders.

Red faced and sweltering, the 285 pound secretary appeared before the taxpayers. The others stood behind mopping their brows. The throng greeted them with catcalls, boos and hisses. The milling increased, several women fainting and cries for water for a time drowned out shouts against the taxes. An appeal to Acting Commissioner Alcock brought twelve policemen.

Will Hold Night Sessions.

Conroy announced the assessors would sit until 9 o'clock each night, today, tomorrow and Monday, to hear the complaints. He urged those in the crowd to leave and come back later so that complaints might be received in an orderly manner.

There was but little diminution in the shouts of the taxpayers. The board then went into executive session. The dismissal of Cutmore was announced in a formal statement charging him with open hostility to the board, favoring loop property owners and openly advocating the abolishment of the board in supporting the bill of Mayor Cermak to create a single assessor.

Cutmore was at lunch when a messenger placed the notice of immediate dismissal on his desk. He was put into office by the county board in November, 1928, on the recommendation of the board of assessors. From the first he met vigorous opposition in fighting to uphold the reassessment under rules of the state tax commission.

Later he won the support of for-

5,000 to Drill in Chicagoland Sports Meet

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicagoland's first Sports Congress, the greatest demonstration of mass athletics ever held in the United States, will take place at Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon. It will bring together more than 5,000 men, women, and children, the majority of German, Polish, Czech, Slovak, Norwegian, and Ukrainian descent.

Chicago sport followers have seen football with its 22 contestants charging up and down the gridiron and they have seen the 18 principals of a baseball game in action. But the sports congress presents them with a view of thousands of athletes of both sexes, of all ages, going through their paces in unison.

5,500 March in Parade.

The parade of nations, with its 5,500 participants, will begin at 1:45 o'clock. It will be followed by the raising of the flag and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by all the contestants and spectators. From then until 5 o'clock, when all take part in the closing mass drill, there will not be a dull moment.

Admission is only 25 cents. Twenty-three ticket booths will be opened at 11 o'clock on the west, south, and east sides of Soldiers' field to accommodate the thousands expected to attend. There are no reserved seats. Net proceeds will be donated to charity.

The court of honor between the Field museum and the stadium will be closed to traffic tomorrow, as the athletes will assemble there for the parade.

United for First Time.

To hundreds of participants the Sports Congress, with its cast of thousands, will be an old play, for mass athletics is the principal of the Sokols, Falcons and Turngebund. But it will be a new spectacle to most of the American born spectators and contestants. This will be the first time all these groups have been brought together.

Polish Falcons	1,200
German Turners	1,000
Czecho-Slovakian Sokols	1,000
Foreman Junior High school	300
Illinois National Guard	300
Four bands	200
Two drum corps	150
Northwest parks	200
Slovak Union Sokol	150
Norwegian Athletic association	100

Persons planning to attend are urged to arrive early. The choice seats are in the upper rows of the east and west stands and they will be filled on a first come first served basis.

ROB PETRILLO AND WIFE OF RINGS AND $700

James C. Petrillo, head of the musicians' union, was robbed of $700 in cash early this morning, and his wife, Marie, lost two diamond rings valued at $1,200 when the couple, accompanied by a chauffeur, Henry Schiffrich, and their nine year old son, Le Roy, drew up before the Petrillo home at 1039 North Austin boulevard.

With his wife and son Petrillo had spent the evening at a loop motion picture theater, pausing for refreshments on the way home. As the Petrillo car stopped another car drew alongside and two men alighted. One stuck a gun against the chauffeur's ribs, while the other covered Petrillo. Then the rings and money were taken.

In another robbery a gunman obtained $8,190 in money and jewels from Mr. and Mrs. Guy Callaway of the Pershing hotel, 6400 Cottage Grove avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Derzbach of 7827 South Shore drive. Derzbach and Calalway are partners in the Callaway Motor Sales company, 6450 Cottage Grove avenue.

The two couples were returning to the Derzbach home after an evening at a theater when at South Shore drive and Cheltenham place their automobile was boarded by the bandit, who sat down in the rear seat between the two women. At 80th street he completed the robbery and departed in a car with two confederates. As he left he remarked to Callaway, "I missed you last year, but got you this time." Callaway recalled he and his wife had escaped a robber in 1930 by slamming the door of their apartment on his arm.

Lake Geneva Deputy Slain in Gun Battle

Lake Geneva, Wis., June 20 (3 a. m. Saturday).—Deputy Sheriff Al C. Exner was shot and killed here early this morning and his slayer, Walter Morgan, a neighbor, was probably fatally wounded in a gun fight which flared when Exner and another deputy broke up a liquor party in Morgan's garage.

The slain deputy and Morgan were neighbors, and it was when Exner was aroused by the sound of sporadic firing in the vicinity of the Morgan home that he investigated. As he left his home he heard several other shots, and fearing that serious resistance might be encountered he summoned Deputy Sheriff Herbert Debler to aid him.

Neighbor Kills Exner.

As the deputies entered the garage they noticed five men standing in various corners. The light was low. Exner inquired as to the identity of the man firing and then beckoned to Morgan.

Morgan advanced, hands in pockets, and moved as though to withdraw them. Suddenly he whipped out a revolver and fired one shot. The bullet pierced Exner's heart, killing him instantly. Almost simultaneously Debler fired, his bullet lodging above Morgan's heart. Morgan dropped, probably fatally wounded, and was taken to the Walworth county hospital seven miles away.

Investigate Feud Theory.

Debler leveled his revolver at the other men. They offered no fight. They were held for questioning by District Attorney Arthur T. Thorson. The four are Charles Saber, Bill Borgan, William Morgan, and R. Morgan, all of Lake Geneva. William Morgan is a brother and R. Morgan a nephew of Exner's slayer. They knew of no reason for the killing. Police are investigating to determine if a feud might not have partly inspired it.

Exner was a deputy sheriff of Walworth county and also a motorcycle policeman of Lake Geneva, and was well known and popular in this region. He was married and father of two children. He was 35 years old. Last year he captured Claude Diffiner, a farm hand, who had kidnaped Betty Ann Foster from her father's farm near Valparaiso, Ind.

Girl, 9, Dies of Burns Received at Bonfire

Theresa Denz, 9 years old, 5213 Cuyler Avenue, died yesterday at the Norwegian-American hospital of burns received Thursday afternoon. A blazing paper bag blew out of a bonfire and ignited her dress. She tore the garment off, but received burns which proved fatal.

Hope Showers Will Cool Off City Tomorrow

360,000 on Beaches

Yesterday's beach attendance was estimated by police and park officials to be about 360,000, divided as follows:

Rogers Park	25,000	31st Street	15,000
Clarendon	25,000	Jackson Park	50,000
Diversey	30,000	75th Street	20,000
Belmont	25,000	79th Street	15,000
Fullerton	20,000	101st Street	15,000
Oak Street	150,000	Natatoriums	9,000
12th Street	10,000

Chicagoans sweltered yesterday in the hottest weather they have had so far this year. The heat wave, which set the city gasping Thursday with a maximum of 90 degrees, struck with even more intensity yesterday, and may not have reached its crest, according to the weather man, C. A. Donnel.

Yesterday's maximum was 94 degrees, a mark 26 points above the seasonal normal at 68. At 3 o'clock this morning the temperature had descended 12 degrees, to 82. Today, Mr. Donnel predicted, may see the mercury soaring to 95 or 96. He expressed hope that tomorrow would bring cooling showers, but admitted the outlook is uncertain.

And withal, the advent of the summer season, as reckoned on the meteorological calendar, is still two days off. Summer officially will not be here until Sunday, June 21. Mr. Donnel had to go back to the 88 degrees of 1872 and the mark of 95 degrees in 1913 to find a more excessive temperature on June 19.

Three Deaths During Day.

Three deaths directly or partly attributed to the heat occurred during the day. The municipal and park beaches accommodated a record advance season crowd without a drowning, although some of the beaches have not yet placed life guards on duty.

The day's first weather victim was George Kimball, 62 year old house painter of 6257 Woodlawn avenue. While working on a scaffold painting a neighbor's house at 6523 Woodlawn avenue, Kimball suffered a dizzy spell, fell two stories and suffered injuries resulting in his death in an ambulance en route to the Jackson Park hospital.

The other two victims, both chronic sufferers from heart disease, were Michael McEnerney, 59 years old, 1649 West Grand avenue, and Steve Gresh, 48 years old, 2725 Des Plaines street, Blue Island. Each was found dead at home as a result, the coroner's office said, of heart attacks aggravated by the heat.

100,000 at Oak Street Beach.

As usual, the city's most popular bathing place was Oak street beach. Lincoln park police estimated the crowd there at 100,000. Although H. O. Weege, superintendent of the Lincoln park system, announced the bathhouses will not open until July 1, a skeleton staff of 23 life guards has already been employed.

The south park beaches will officially open on June 27, Supt. George T. Donoghue announced. The rule until that time will be to allow bathers the use of the beaches "at their own risk," Mr. Donoghue said.

The courage of a companion and the prompt arrival of an inhalator squad saved the life of Alfred Battori, 15 years old, 434 Orleans, street, who was seized with cramps while swimming off Navy pier.

Battori was sinking for the second time when his chum, Henry McCarthy, 17 years old, 439 Orleans street, seized his hair and pulled him to the pier.

Heat Wave Spreads East.

The heat wave which, according to Forecaster Donnel, originated in Montana, spread over the central and southeastern states yesterday, penetrating even to the Atlantic coast and New England.

With the mercury at 86 degrees in New York that city's beaches were thronged. At Albany the maximum was 92.9 degrees.

Bloomington, Ind., reported 100 degrees on an official thermometer, as did Waterloo, Ia. Mattoon, Ill., claimed an unofficial record of 102. Thermometers registered 96 degrees at Milwaukee, 93 at Springfield, 96 at St. Louis, 94 at Omaha, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, and 92 at Kansas City. Duluth had a temperature of 90.

Berwyn Youth Loses Eye in Electric Fan Accident

Frank Loss, 17 years old, was about to step from his home at 3428 South Lombard avenue, Berwyn, yesterday when there came a ripping crash from an electric fan in the living room a few feet away. As young Loss turned back, a blade of the fan was detached and flew whirling into his face. He was taken to the county hospital, where it was found his left eye had been hopelessly cut. The eye was removed later by Dr. Robert Lennon.

SENATE CLOSED, HOUSE ENDING IN LEGISLATURE

Bill to Remap State to Governor.

Session Is Closed

Springfield, Ill., June 20, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—The general assembly is half closed and half open. At 1:36 the senate adjourned until June 30, when it will return for the usual sine die adjournment.

The house at midnight had recessed until 9:30, when it will hold its finishing session. Speaker Shanahan says he will try to keep the members here until 2 p. m. or later to plow through the bills still on call in the house, although the remnants are mostly small fry.

One of the last actions of the senate was to kill the chain store taxing bill.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Four new seats in congress are gained by the metropolitan area—Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties—in the congressional reapportionment plan which cleared the final hurdle in the house today and now goes to Gov. Emmerson. It is the first reapportionment in 30 years, and it is 20 years overdue.

SOL. RODERICK.

By a vote of 105 to 34 the house concurred in the report of the joint conference group which was accepted last night by the senate. The bandwagon went on a parade towards the end, and 25 Democrats voted with eighty Republicans to put it through.

The only Republican member to vote against it was R. G. Soderstrom of Streator, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor. He joined 33 Democrats, including Minority Leader Igoe, who voted no. When the bill passed the house recently only two Chicagoans supported it.

Why Democrats Fought It.

The Democratic caucus had decided to oppose it on the ground that another landslide like that of last November might make possible a Democratic redistricting in 1933.

Senate Democrats went the other way when the bill was passed in the upper branch, and though they denounced the bill, only 3 of them voted against it. With this example, the house Democrats broke down party lines today—the Republicans had sufficient votes, so further fighting was futile.

Cheers resounded through the chamber as the vote was announced, and downstairs in the governor's office there was jubilation. The re-map is regarded as the one big item to redeem a session otherwise rated a hopeless flop.

Barr May Try for Seat.

Gov. Emmerson exerted administration influence for the bill and the leaders who did most of the hard work were Sol. P. Roderick [Rep., Chicago], Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein], and Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]. Incidentally the remap makes a new district in which Mr. Barr may run for congress.

Before announcing the house vote Speaker Shanahan told the Democrats he was grateful for their support of the bill and their coöperation in letting it sweep through the house in the expiring hours, which are filled with the usual turmoil and mad rush.

Gov. Emmerson has his pen all ready to sign the bill.

The loudest voice raised against the bill was that of M. E. Bray [Dem., Litchfield], who said: "You Republicans will hear from this monstrosity in days to come."

Rainey Is Criticised.

Many of the Democrats, however, were muttering among themselves that as a party group they had been "led into a trap" by Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, a Democrat who opposed the bill because it adds new Republican territory to his district. They said if the party caucus had turned a deaf ear to the Rainey siren song, and had not voted to oppose a re-map the Democrats would have fared better by accepting the original bill recarving the state.

On the roll call, Frank Ryan [Dem.,

Chicago], began to lead the march of Democrats for the bill. The poll showed 15 Cook county Democrats and 10 from downstate voting for the re-map, while seven from Cook and 28 from downstate voted in the negative.

Roll Call Analysed.

Cook county Democrats for the bill: Bolton, Boyle, Cola, Donahue, Gormley, Hruby, McSweeney, L. C. O'Brien, T. J. O'Brien, Perina, Pintozzi, Rateau, Rostenkowski, Frank Ryan, Skarda—15.

The bill carves the state into twenty-seven new congressional districts, of which fourteen are in the metropolitan area, which has 57 per cent of the population.

Wallop Gas Bootleggers.

A wallop at bootleggers of gasoline is the aim of a bill which just got under the senate wire after the house had put on a little extra juice to get it through in time for the senate to act and not miss the horse races. It was the Carlson bill, No. 588, which provides that distributors of gasoline must furnish $25,000 bonds and that brokers must register and make monthly returns. Garret Kinney, director of finance, managed to get amendments into the bill in the house which he deems will put teeth into the gasoline bootleggers and swell the gas tax fund. Mr. Kinney figures it means more than $2,000,000 a year to Illinois.

A group from the house late tonight made a sudden concentration upon the Noonan bill to make sixty wards in Chicago instead of fifty. It was on the senate calendar, but senate leaders said votes were on hand to kill it if brought to a vote.

At midnight came the senate went through the process of calling it officially annother day, and thereupon they passed the state tax levy bill. This was for $47,000,000. It calls for $18,000,000 for general revenue and $10,500,000 for school fund annually for the next two years.

KILL CHAIN STORE BILL.

Springfield, Ill., June 20, 1 a. m.—The chain store bill was killed tonight by the senate. At midnight, when the Saturday session opened, Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Cook] moved that consideration of the bill be postponed until the next session of the legislature. He said it properly would come within a special session on revenue, which is expected by most of the members.

"The bill lost its value when the senate reduced the so-called equalization fee from $1,000 to $200," said Mr. Huebsch. "It reduced it to a narrow piece of class legislation, applying to a limited number of stores, and the courts would throw it out as class legislation. We're coming back in special session anyhow, and all these revenue questions belong to that."

"I agree with Mr. Huebsch," said Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet].

"Here, too," echoed Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Chicago].

The motion to shelve the bill was passed viva voce with one or two voices raised against it.

FRANCE SENDS U. S. CITIZEN TO JAIL AS DESERTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROUEN, France, June 19.—Leon Rogen, Russian born, who joined the French army during the war, deserted when ill health caused him to pass his military career in hospital beds, and then went to the United States and became naturalized, was sentenced today to six months' imprisonment for desertion.

Rogen was apprehended last September when he came to France on a visit. He has been languishing in a military prison in Rouen ever since. He claims he was mistreated by the jailers. His frail health broke down while he was in prison and for a long time he was in a precarious condition.

His condition was responsible for the 6 months' sentence, which is comparatively light for desertion in face of the enemy.

Youth Loses Life as He Tries to Rescue Kitten

His attempt to rescue a frightened kitten which was clinging to the side of an airshaft yesterday cost the life of Joseph Gill, 15 years old, 3620 South Michigan avenue, a Negro. Gill fell, three stories down the airshaft.

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—On this the concluding night of the session of the state legislature the house passed important last minute legislation in an atmosphere of levity. The senate expected to adjourn in the early hours of the morning, but the lower chamber does not plan to stop work until noon, perhaps later.

Most important of the night's doings was the passage in the house of the so-called "gateway amendment" embodied in a senate resolution which allows the submission to the voters of three proposed amendments to the constitution every two years instead of one amendment, the present law.

This was done, according to Minority Leader Igoe, to provide the opportunity of bringing the Illinois constitution up to date.

"It isn't a bad constitution," said Igoe, "and if we are allowed the power of burnishing it up a bit it will serve us adequately."

House Joker Made Butt.

This out of the way, Anthony Pintozzi [Dem., Chicago], the practical joker of the house, was "given the sponge," the stock gag of the session.

In recent weeks, the practice of dismaying members by placing a sopping sponge on their chairs while they are on their feet in debate has been carried out extensively—generally by Pintozzi. Most of the Democrats and a majority of Republicans have been victims. Tonight, when Pintozzi rose from his seat for a moment, the sponge was set in position and brought him bolt upright the moment he was seated, to the united cheers of the entire chamber.

Back to serious work, the house passed with a good majority the bill introduced by Senator Adelbert H. Roberts [Rep., Chicago] to bar the manufacture, transportation and sale of machine guns.

Then Another Joke.

Then some of the members framed a fake message from the senate informing Representative Robert M. Woodward [Rep., Chicago] that the upper house was refusing to pass some of his bills—a note couched in impudent and insulting language. Woodward was thunderstruck, rose to a point of personal privilege to state his rights and was egged on with perfect gravity by the conspirators.

All manner of suggestions were made to him; that he stalk into the senate and call it down properly, or, better still, declare a one man filibuster on all senate bills left on the house calendar.

All this unexpected aid was too unanimous to keep Mr. Woodward in an unsuspecting state for long and the house went regretfully back to work.

Raise School Bond Power.

It passed next the Chicago board of education bill allowing an increase of bonding power from $5,700,000 to $7,500,000, thereby bringing up to date one of the Strawn bills passed in the special revenue session last summer. It was drafted by Harris S. Keeler of the Chicago bureau of public efficiency and aims to prevent defaulting of payment of tax warrants next year.

So many roll calls during one day—there were at least fifty—had by this time exhausted the vocal powers of Clerk George C. Blauer and his assistants and Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein] was called to the rostrum as a substitute. He was immediately dubbed "leather lungs."

Of particular satisfaction to the labor group was the passage of the amended workmen's compensation act, allowing an increase of payments to injured workers and the families of those killed at work. An agreed bill, it raises the maximum payment in case of death from $1,656 to $2,500 in case of a single man, and from $3,750 to $4,000 for a family man. Totally disabled workers are allowed $55 per week for the remainder of their lives.

CUTHBERTSON SORRY HOUSE TABLED 80 JUDICIAL MEASURES

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Regret that the house saw fit to table 80 bills sponsored by the judicial advisory councils of Illinois and Cook county, was expressed today by Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], chairman of the state council. The entire program with one exception met death in the house late last night, the one bill left authorizing the continuance of the councils for two more years.

"These bills," said Senator Cuthbertson, "passed the senate by an almost unanimous vote and failed in the house because they were presented to the house so late in the session that it gave opportunity to those who opposed them to threaten other important legislation by filibuster if the bills were pressed. Accordingly it was agreed by the leaders in the house that the bills be stricken from the calendar and the councils be continued for two years for further study.

"While this is very discouraging to those who have so faithfully given two years of time and study in an effort to modernize practice and procedure in Illinois still it is not surprising when we consider like legislation in other states. More than five years of study was made by a like body in Massachusetts before any legislation was enacted. If the bill continuing the life of the council for two more years shall receive the approval of the governor, the study will be continued.

"Objectionable features in the bill, if any there be, will be eliminated. Differences of opinion will be ironed out and progressive legislation relative to practice and procedure will be submitted to the next session of the general assembly."

HOUSE CREATES COMMITTEE TO HUNT REVENUE

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Authorization of a committee to investigate the sources of Illinois state and municipal revenue and recommend additional means of raising money to the next general assembly was given in the house today by passage of the Meents senate bill.

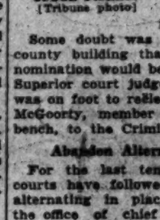
The commission, if approved by Gov. Emmerson, will consist of four members of the house, four members of the senate, and three persons to be appointed by the governor. It is allowed a $25,000 appropriation.

The commission bill grew out of a house resolution sponsored by Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago]. A committee functioned for several months during the session recommending, among other things, tobacco tax and legislation allowing the state to transfer idle money from "fat" funds to those near depletion.

NOMINATE FISHER TO BE CHIEF OF CRIMINAL COURT

Circuit Judges Act, but Superior Bench Delays.

Judges of the Circuit court at a meeting yesterday in the county building nominated Judge Harry M. Fisher for the post of chief justice of the Criminal court. Superior court judges were to have met at the same time to make their nomination for this office, but because of the absence of Judge Denis E. Sullivan in Springfield, the meeting was postponed indefinitely.



JUDGE FISHER.

Some doubt was expressed at the county building that Judge Fisher's nomination would be seconded by the Superior court judges. A movement was on foot to reelect Judge John P. McGoorty, member of the Superior bench, to the Criminal court post.

Abandon Alternating Plan.

For the last ten years the two courts have followed the custom of alternating in placing members in the office of chief justice of the Criminal court, but Judge Walter P. Steffen, member of the executive committee of the Superior court, said yesterday that the Superior judges had decided to abandon this custom. He said there had been strained relations between the Superior and Circuit court judges.

At the Circuit judges' meeting the following officers were elected: Judge William V. Brothers, chief justice of the Circuit court; Judge Stanley Klarkowski, head of the chancery division, and Judge John R. Caverly, head of the law division.

Three Named to Committee.

Judges Klarkowski, Philip Finnegan, and George Fred Rush were appointed to the committee on help whose function is to pass upon the number of employés assigned to the various county departments.

Judge Brothers will succeed Judge Klarkowski as chief justice of the Circuit court, but because of the absence of Judge Brothers on a vacation trip in Alaska, Judge Thomas J. Lynch was nominated acting chief justice until his return. All appointees will assume office on July 20.

30 COOK TOWNSHIP COLLECTORS VOTED OUT OF THEIR JOBS

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Thirty Cook county township collectors, largely of Republican faith, were legislated out of office today by action in both houses of the assembly.

The house acted first, passing senate bill 575, introduced by Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]. This, presented in connection with the Bohrer bill providing for the semi-annual payment of real estate taxes, applies in its original state only to downstate counties, excepting Cook. It was passed by the senate in that form.

The bill then went to the house and in committee was amended to strike the phrase "in counties of 500,000 or more" which made the bill apply to every county in the state. The amendment, it is understood, was suggested by Harris S. Keeler of the Chicago bureau of public efficiency. It came up on third reading this afternoon and went through.

Due to the last minute rush, preceding tomorrow's expected adjournment, the bill went back to the senate immediately for concurrence in the amendment and, much to the surprise of Democratic members, went through sailing.

OPERA SINGER FLIES CHANNEL IN GLIDER PLANE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 19.—Lissant Beardmore, a Canadian, hopped across the English channel in a glider today. He accomplished this motorless feat in 1 hour and 40 minutes. He took off from the Lympne air field on the British coast at 4:20 p. m. and alighted at St. Inglevert airdrome, near Calais, at 6 o'clock.

Beardmore's arrival at the French airport was quite unexpected and he was received only by the manager and a handful of employés. The flyer, who is 54 years old and an opera singer, declared the crossing was easy and was not marked by any difficulties. He said he was launched from an altitude of 13,000 feet by an airplane.

DALLAS PASTOR CONFESSES HE HANGED HIMSELF

Dallas, Tex., June 19.—(AP)—B. P. Brown, supply pastor of the North Dallas Baptist church, went before members of his congregation tonight and confessed he had trussed himself from an electric fan in the church early Thursday.

Brown previously had told officers four masked men had abducted him, stripped him of his clothes and hanged him to a church chandelier as a result of factional strife in the congregation. He was only slightly injured.

OFFICERS CLEAR SELVES OF ERROR FREEING MANIAC

No One to Blame, Result of Inquiry.

After a day of investigating it was decided yesterday by George Seif, clerk of the Criminal court, and Sheriff William D. Meyering, who controls the jail patronage, that nobody was responsible for the error which turned loose a homicidal maniac after he was sentenced to the Chester Asylum for the Criminal Insane by a jury in Judge Schwaba's Criminal court.

Sheriff Meyering spent most of the afternoon questioning Acting Warden George Gibson and the other jail employés who handle the discharge of prisoners. When he finished he issued a short statement that none of his employés is responsible for allowing Michael O'Neil, who tried to kill his wife, to walk from the jail.

Seif Clears His Office.

Earlier in the day Seif issued a typewritten statement saying that his investigation of the facts showed that the release of O'Neil "was not through any mistake of my office." Seif claimed that his office only issued the orders as entered of court record and properly delivered these orders to the jail.

The jail authorities on Thursday said that the release was the result of an error by an inexperienced court clerk, who prior to two months ago never had any court experience. The clerk, the jail authorities say, should have noted on the stricken off with leave to reinstate slip that another slip had been sent ordering O'Neil to the asylum. This would have prevented his discharge.

Manned by New Help.

One of the few veteran employés of the Criminal Court building said that the error was probably due to the fact that both the courts and jail are manned by new help. Seif, when he took over the office of clerk of the court, replaced practically all of the old Republican help. The same is true in the jail. Warden David Moneypenny and his assistant superintendents are about the only old employés left.

In the meantime the police have searched unsuccessfully for O'Neil, who on March 24 beat his wife on the head with a home made mallet. He threatened to kill her if ever released from jail.

Unemployed Mechanic Ends Life in His Home

WANTS COW ON 6 MILLION SITE OF POSTOFFICE

Mayor Curley Suggests It Be Put to Use.

Boston, Mass., June 19.—[Special.] Boston, like Chicago, has waited many years for a postoffice which was authorized, appropriated for, but not built.

Mayor James M. Curley today wrote a Postmaster General Walter F. Brown a letter dealing with the federal delays.

Two years ago the old federal building housing various federal courts and law enforcement bureaus was razed and excavations for the new building put in, but now the foundation hole stands empty and devoid of all activity.

The Mayor's Letter.

"It is customary to observe Independence day in Boston on the 4th of July each year," Mayor Curley wrote, "and as a part of the program the public celebrations committee of the city is desirous of exhibiting a municipal cow feeding where it is proposed at some time in the dim and distant future a postoffice shall be erected.

"The appropriation authorizing a postoffice in Boston was made in 1929 and federal authorities, evidently actuated by a sincere desire to relieve unemployment, have in this short period of time put in the foundation.

"I am taking the liberty of forwarding you a photograph showing the commendable contribution the federal government is making to the relief of unemployment on this particular project. This photograph was taken at 3 p. m. on June 18 and notwithstanding that it was a beautiful day and that the sun was shining you will observe that there was no one on the job.

Why Not Pasture Cows?

"The indications are that if the work proceeds with the same degree of speed and efficiency that has been demonstrated in the past two years the granting of permission to the city to pasture cows in this downtown lot will not greatly impede the work.

"The postoffice site is valued at $120 a foot or a total valuation of $6,164,400 and I am quite certain that you will agree with me that a cow grazing upon such valuable pasture land would make a real attraction.

"Trusting that you can see your way clear to issue a permit for the grazing of the municipal cow until the postoffice department sees fit to proceed with the erection of the building so as a means of relieving unemployment, I bow to remain,

"JAMES M. CURLEY."

ROYAL SPLENDOR GREETS ROTARIAN SESSION IN VIENNA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, June 19.—Royal splendor will surround the delegates to the Rotary congress Tuesday morning when the first official session takes place.

The government has opened the long closed halls in the Bel-Hausplatz, where the foreign ministry is situated, and allowed furniture and supplies to be transported to the resort hotels. The Rotarians will occupy chairs on which the prime ministers of Franz Josef led the deliberations of Austria-Hungary. The table at which Count Leopold von Berchtold signed the declaration of war between Austria and Serbia in 1914 will be used by the chairman.

The government has also allowed valuable tapestries, once the property of Empress Maria Theresa, to be used as the interior decoration of the concert hall.

DIVORCE SUIT IS SEQUEL TO RENO GUNPLAY

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., who yesterday sued his wife for divorce, alleging cruelty. He told recently of following Peter Arno, artist, with a pistol until he discovered it was unloaded.

The Peter Arno home in Reno, Nev., just around the corner from the Vanderbilt homestead. Young Vanderbilt says he started for this home, pistol in hand, but finding it unloaded decided to adopt saner methods than the one he intended to employ.

Peter Arno, artist, who, through his attorney, contradicts the Vanderbilt version of gun play and says he was threatened over the telephone.

MRS. VANDERBILT WILL FIGHT RENO DIVORCE ACTION

Lawyer Says She'll Get Decree.

Reno, Nev., June 19.—[Special.]—The former Mary Davidson Weir Logan of Chicago, wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., will fight the divorce action he brought here today, she announced through her attorney.

Vanderbilt, who was reported to have gone gunning for Peter Arno, artist, early last Monday only to find on abandoning his plan that his gun was empty, charged extreme cruelty in the suit. It was unaccompanied by a bill of particulars.

Declaring that if a divorce was to be granted it would be to Mrs. Vanderbilt, her attorney, William Woodburn, announced her intention of fighting the action. Mr. Woodburn said Mrs. Vanderbilt is entirely innocent of any misconduct.

Surprised at Action.

Previously Woodburn had expressed surprise at the filing of the suit, saying that at conferences with Samuel Platt, attorney for Vanderbilt, it was agreed a separation agreement would be drawn up by Vanderbilt and submitted to him.

Alluding to his conferences with Mrs. Vanderbilt's attorney, Platt said that they had discussed only the question of Mrs. Vanderbilt's support, adding that while there had been no disagreement, no agreement had been reached.

Lawyer Tells Story.

Vanderbilt's attorney, following the "Arno incident," explained it as follows:

"It goes without saying that a man is not going to leave his house and go gunning for a man without provocation and, according to Vanderbilt's story to me, he had just cause to do so, for on at least two different occasions he says he had noted open evidences of affection toward Mrs. Vanderbilt by Arno."

Arno's attorney, however, said that Vanderbilt merely had called Arno on the phone and threatened to employ a gunman. Mrs. Vanderbilt, Vanderbilt, and Arno had attended a social affair, according to Woodburn. Arno drove Mrs. Vanderbilt home, and behind them were Vanderbilt and another girl in a car, he said. Nothing was said that night of Vanderbilt's intentions, according to Arno's attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt were married in Reno July 3, 1928, shortly after she had obtained a divorce from John Hancock Logan, broker of Chicago. Vanderbilt had been divorced by Rachel Littleton Vanderbilt on a desertion charge.

Santos Dumont, Pioneer in Aviation, Is Seriously Ill

SAO PAULO, Brazil, June 19.—(AP)—The health of Alberto Santos Dumont, pioneer South American aviator, who arrived from France several days ago, was causing considerable worry to his friends today. Because of his illness, "the father of aviation," as he is called in Brazil, left his steamer at Rio de Janeiro by a special launch in order to avoid a public welcome. He came to Sao Paulo immediately and has been confined to bed since his arrival.

NAUTILUS PARTS TOW LINE; ROLLS IN STORMY SEA

U. S. S. ARKANSAS [at Sea], June 19.—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus, en route to Europe on her way to the north pole, was wallowing in a heavy sea tonight about 240 miles from Queenstown, Ireland.

She had parted a tow line and towing ring attached to the U. S. S. Wyoming and her bridge and periscope had been carried away by heavy seas. Her engines had broken down and she was stationary in latitude 49° 35' and longitude 14° 40'.

The Wyoming was keeping her in the glare of searchlights in the hope of aiding her further. The crew was sealed inside attempting to repair the engines. Her communications were silent, for the batteries were being saved to supply air to the crew. A calm sea was awaited to rig another improvised towing gear.

COUPLE ADMIT RUM CHARGES.

Accused of possessing liquor and maintaining a public nuisance, Joseph F. Paturalski and his wife, Rose, who keep a candy store at 1536 Wabansia avenue, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Wilkerson. They are to be sentenced on Tuesday.

TRIP WITH BYRD COSTS BALCHEN U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Two Years in Antarctic Disqualify Him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Two questions of citizenship were raised here today when the department of labor announced that Bernt Balchen, famous flyer, would not receive his naturalization papers at this time, and counsel for Miss Marie Averil Bland, Canadian war nurse, filed a petition for a rehearing of the suit in which the United States Supreme court recently denied her citizenship because of her refusal to promise to bear arms.

BERNT BALCHEN.

Balchen was denied final citizenship papers because of his two years' absence in the antarctic with Rear Admiral Byrd. The naturalization laws require five years of continuous residence. Balchen, a native of Norway, declared his intention of becoming an American citizen in 1927. A few months later he flew across the Atlantic with Byrd.

His contention now is that the months he spent in the antarctic were spent under the American flag and that Little America, having been claimed for the United States, is actually American soil. The bureau of naturalization, however, has pointed out that the ownership of Little America is not a settled matter and that to recognize Balchen's argument would be to step into a possible international dispute.

During the last congress a bill was introduced proposing to grant citizenship to Balchen and other members of the antarctic expedition, but the measure failed of passage.

In her petition for a rehearing Miss Bland argued that to read a requirement that women must promise to bear arms into the naturalization act was running contrary to every instinct and tradition of American civilization.

They said they would refuel and take off, weather permitting, in the morning for the point from which they will try to hop the Atlantic.

WILL OF WIFE URGES HUSBAND TO MARRY AGAIN

In the files of the Probate court is a will which urges the maker's husband to remarry. The testator was Mrs. Naoma H. Ashbeck, 30 years old, who died May 2, two weeks after she executed the will. In it she bequeathed most of her $10,000 estate to her husband, William L. Ashbeck, 1227 Hood avenue, a contractor, and the balance to their daughter, Lois, 6 years old.

One clause of the will, which was accepted by Assistant Probate Judge Oscar Caplan, reads:

"My own short life has been made so full by the wonderful love and treatment of my husband that I earnestly request that he remarry some good woman who will make his future life happy, and whose own life he will enrich."

The wife also said in her will that she knew she need not ask her husband to care for her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Hartford, should they ever be in need.

mer Assessors Charles Ringer and Charles Krutchoff so that his relations with the board became more amicable, but they were punctuated periodically with differences with Conroy, which several times bordered on fisticuffs. On the election of Traeger and Meyer, who took office at the first of the year, Cutmore found the board solidly against him.

Traeger and Meyer were joined with Conroy, who already had the support of Wolf and the vote of Oliver, now under federal sentence of 18 months for violation of the income tax law, but still acting as an assessor. Wolf seldom appears in his office.

On the installation of the new board rumors of Cutmore's impending discharge were denied. They were denied even more firmly as late as Thursday night. But the confusion of the taxpayers yesterday brought the matter to a head, Conroy said. He dismissed with a wave of his hand the suggestion that taxpayers were not complaining against the assessments made by Cutmore and his staff, but against high taxes and mounting governmental expenses.

Blames It on Reformers.

At the same time Assessor Meyer told a complainant, "These bills are due to tax reformers like Fairweather and Rees and Cutmore. We fired Cutmore and things are going to be different."

On receiving the letter of dismissal Cutmore immediately dispatched a letter to the board pointing out that the statement contained prejudicial charges against him and demanding specific allegations or an apology. He received a number of telegrams congratulating him on his release from a thankless task and more particularly because his discharge freed him from relations with the assessors.

These came from Fairweather, Rees, Bell, J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, and others. Cutmore retired for a half hour with Bell, Rees and Jacobs to prepare an answering statement predicting a return to the level of corruption represented in the 1927 quadrennial. Attorney Bell issued a statement in a like tenor.

Will Start Own Business.

Cutmore announced he will enter the appraisal business under the name of Harry S. Cutmore and Associates, Inc. He predicted the discharge of the majority of the technical staff of 75 men selected by him, as the majority of these have irked the assessors by the defense of the Cutmore policies.

The assessors refused to comment on the possible discharge of Cutmore's men. It was pointed out that without these men the board will possess no experts trained to make assessments in conformity with the state tax commission rules. This was construed as further evidence of the board's intention to sink the reassessment ship and return to the traditional manner of making the quadrennial.

The discharge announcement stated the assessors have decided to appoint as appraiser "a man of outstanding experience and ability" under guidance of a citizens' committee to be named. Assessors Conroy, Traeger and Meyer are Democrats and Oliver and Wolf are Republicans.

Statements on Discharge of Cutmore by Assessors

"I feel toward the personnel of the assessors' office no ill will, except that portion which represents the type automatically attracted to such an assessment system. The evils of the office, serious and threatening to order in this community, belong to the organic structure of the present system, and not to the personnel.

HARRY S. CUTMORE

"The present system is plural and political. The essential basis of the office is to determine and correlate values of different kinds of property. This ability requires knowledge of a scientific character and some experience in the appraisal profession. Neither of these things are political in character.

"The law requires uniformity and equality in assessments. Nonuniformity and inequality will necessarily develop from action of different judgments in different districts, and experience has shown that these honest divergencies soon degenerate to the level of dishonesty and plain graft.

"Our principal troubles with the work of the reassessment arose from the conflict between the new setup and the old office. The new setup had the work to do and the responsibility to assume, while the legal office had superior authority and political axes to grind. I stood between these opposing forces . . . in the conflict I have simply been forced out.

"It is this system which produced the infamy of the assessment roll of 1927, which the Supreme court voided as a festering body of fraud. In my opinion, if the hydra headed system is not changed the assessing business of this county will tend to return to the level of corruption represented by the 1927 inequality."

In formally announcing the discharge of Harry S. Cutmore the board of assessors said:

JOHN E. CONROY.

"By unanimous vote the board . . . decided to terminate Harry S. Cutmore's connection with this office, effective at once. This action is in harmony with Mr. Cutmore's repeated assertion to the board and to outsiders that he 'wants to be fired' and desires to return to his former field of endeavor, which he considers more lucrative at this time.

"Throughout the six months the present board has functioned, Mr. Cutmore has evinced open hostility to the members of the board. He has openly advocated the abolishment of the body by legislative enactment and in various utterances given to the press for publication without the knowledge or approval of the board has sought to further propaganda intended to discredit the assessors' office.

"In his position Mr. Cutmore has created an atmosphere of distrust among the employes of this office. He has sought to usurp the functions of the elected members of the board. He has attempted to traduce the assessments of numerous large owners of property through misuse of the certificate of error method provided by statute. As a further reason for replacing Mr. Cutmore at this time with some appointee more in sympathy with the majority of taxpayers . . . the board desires some one more friendly to the interest of all taxpayers—not merely those of the loop.

"The board has decided to replace Mr. Cutmore at once and to appoint as his successor an appraiser of outstanding ability and experience."

County Attorney Hayden Bell followed Cutmore's answer with a statement pointing out that Cutmore completed the task of appraising in the time alloted and delays were due to the assessors. He said:

HAYDEN N. BELL.

"These (Cutmore's) assessments have been in the County court on the treasurer's application for judgment for months. Thousands of been entered, and judgments have not one judgment for fraud has been pronounced against the Cutmore assessments. Prior to the Cutmore assessment thousands of fraud judgments were entered against the assessments annually.

"In my opinion there is not militant honesty or intelligence in the county able or sufficient to man the present system with its scattered authority, duplication in office, and self-paralyzing competitions, and resist inherent tendencies to graft and corruption, so as to produce an assessment roll upon which tax collections can be enforced in courts.

"Our Supreme court recently held that the assessment roll is like a judgment of court. If fraud exists in any part of the roll, it vitiates the roll. This decision makes reorganization of the present system necessary.

". . . It is impossible to operate any system without central authority and responsibility, whose contracts touch billions of dollars and the possible takings in the situation run into millions of dollars and are as easy of concealment among the conventional inequalities as birds in a slough. Particularly is this true where the system is to be separated by hundreds of employés engaged and controlled under the political conditions that prevail in a political office."

$99,807,637 IS STILL UNPAID ON 1929 TAX LEVY

More than 28% Short; Report Economies.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

County Collector McDonough has been unable to collect $99,807,637 of Cook county's current taxes for 1929, due May 15 last, according to a statement made public yesterday by his secretary, Edward R. McCabe.

E. R. McCABE. [Tribune Photo.]

The total current tax levy, minus $15,736,522 of forfeitures, of $360,422,734. The collections to date, according to Mr. McCabe, are $160,615,097. This is approximately 61.6 per cent. If the county's total tax bill of $276,161,268—which includes forfeitures—is taken as a basis for reckoning, the collections to date are only 58.4 per cent.

The property owners paid a larger part of their 1928 taxes, due July 1, 1930. Of the 1928 levy, totaling $319,574,594, a total of $184,236,130 was paid. This is 74.6 per cent collected as compared with 61.6 per cent of the 1929 taxes. Many property owners are contesting their 1929 taxes in the courts.

Of the $160,615,097 of 1929 taxes collected, $13,090,881 was gathered by the township collectors and distributed by them to the outlying tax-expending bodies.

How Cash Is Distributed.

Of the remaining $145,524,234 received by the county collector, Mr. McCabe reports that all except $11,759,493 has been distributed to the local governments. Mr. McCabe says that the distribution has been on a pro rata basis, with no one favored.

The amounts of collected revenue already given the local governments, according to Mr. McCabe, are as follows:

Government.	Amount.
State	$ 9,336,198
City and schools	84,909,060
Sanitary district	12,135,000
County	8,192,679
Forest preserves	1,359,000
South parks	6,750,000
West parks	2,059,000
Lincoln park	1,975,000
Other taxing bodies	8,479,875
Total distributed	$133,764,752

These collections are 9.4 per cent, or $26,279,000, short of the 70 per cent which Mayor Cermak thought might be collected and upon which he is about to inaugurate a retrenchment program.

Among the first to report progress on the city economy program was B. F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements. He reported a cut in the employés paid from bond funds from 123 in March to 89 in June, and a cut in the subway employés from 230 to 96, as well as elimination of temporary employés on the regular pay roll of the board. On the basis of seven remaining months the reduction in working force is the equivalent of $309,139.

Other Savings Reported.

Ald. James B. Bowler [26th], chairman of the local transportation committee, said that he had placed his few committee employés on a five day a week basis.

The proposals for reducing city expense are still being considered by the economy committee headed by Commissioner A. A. Sprague. The committee has not yet determined upon its recommendations, and so the mayor has taken no action relative to it, except to search out unnecessary jobs.

"That is going right along," said the mayor yesterday afternoon, "and we are finding a number of needless jobs. The city must save until it hurts, because the more spent this year the less there will be for next year."

The phone company yesterday purchased $1,500,000 of tax anticipation warrants. The check was handed to Mayor Cermak.

The police and firemen will be paid today the salaries which were due June 16.

Auto Damage Court Tries 3,000 Cases in 4 Months

The special automobile damage trial branch of the Municipal court yesterday disposed of its 3,000th suit since March 1. Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, congratulated the presiding judge, Thomas A. Green, pointing out that such dispatch with litigation has made it possible to settle traffic damage suits without the delays that fatigue witnesses and hamper justice.

DROP CHARGES AGAINST FOSTER IN LINGLE CASE

Murder charges against Frankie Foster, gangster and gunman who was extradited from California last summer on a charge of complicity in the slaying of Alfred Lingle, were nolle prossed by Judge Harry M. Fisher in Criminal court yesterday at the request of the state's attorney's office. Assistant State's Attorney Nathan Ruvell told the court that there was insufficient evidence against Foster to warrant placing him on trial.

Foster was arrested in California after investigators learned that he had been the original purchaser of the snub-nosed revolver which the slayer of Lingle left beside the reporter's body.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, who directed the Lingle inquiry, said that while the state had some evidence involving Foster in the murder, it was insufficient to obtain a conviction. Foster, who had been at liberty on $20,000 bond, was in court with his wife.

DOODY ADMITS KILLING BUT WILL ESCAPE DEATH

Willie Doody, the baby-faced bandit and gunman who once was sentenced to death for killing Police Chief Charles Levy in Berwyn three years ago, underwent a quick retrial before Judge John Prystalski in Criminal court yesterday. Doody testified in his own behalf as the only witness. Judge Prystalski will announce the verdict next Friday.

Doody had appealed his earlier conviction and had been granted a new trial. He waived a jury yesterday and in return the state waived any demand for the death penalty, State's Attorney Harry A. Ditchburne arguing for a sentence of life imprisonment. Doody, represented by Attorney William Scott Stewart, admitted that he had killed the Berwyn police chief, but contended he had shot in self-defense.

Judge Prystalski said he would review the Supreme court decision before announcing his own decision.

4 BANK OFFICIALS GO TO TRIAL ON FRAUD CHARGES

Four officials of the Roosevelt Bankers' State bank which closed last year with a $172,000 deficit, went on trial before Judge Joseph Burke in Criminal court yesterday on charges of larceny and conspiracy.

Fred E. Edgerton, chief bank examiner for the state auditor, the only witness heard during the day, was still on the stand when the trial was adjourned until Monday. Edgerton testified to objections he had made against the use of notes signed by officers of the bank as paper assets instead of paying them up as cash assets.

The defendants on trial are Alexander Flower, chairman of the board; Samuel Flower, president; Frank Flower, a director, and Louis Frank, cashier. Edgerton testified that the bank had carried a $78,000 note signed by Alexander and Samuel Flower among the paper assets.

SURVEY SHOWS RISING TIDE OF SCHOOL COSTS

...tenance More than ...re 1915 Expenses.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A survey of the Chicago school board's financial records shows that the trustees plan to spend much more for operating the school plant this year—without a cent spent on instructing the pupils—than the entire cost of operating the schools, plus the entire educational expense in 1915.

In 1915 the board paid an average of $45.46 for each pupil for everything, including instruction and the operation of the school plant.

This year the cost of operating the school plant is $67.54 a pupil. This does not include $45,239,327 paid to teachers. It includes no construction costs or the cost of new sites or other permanent improvements.

Figures Are Compared.

In 1915 the cost of operating and maintaining the school system, and educating the pupils was $13,549,248. For these same purposes the board has appropriated $75,716,078 for this year. Of the total 1931 appropriation, $62,230,267.50 is for instruction of the pupils, or that there is $31,476,690 set aside for other expenses of the school system—two and one-third times the entire cost in 1915.

There are more pupils today than a decade and a half ago, and necessarily the cost of cleaning, heating, lighting, and repair of the school buildings will be more than in 1915, even at the same wage scale and at the same price level for coal, brooms, paint, and other supplies.

In 1915 the number of pupils attending the public schools was 298,-00. Now the number is 465,986.

The $31,476,690 authorized cost of the schools this year—minus teachers and instruction expense—is an average of $67.54 for each pupil, as compared with $45.46 as the complete cost in 1915. Therefore, based on the average for each pupil, it is now proposed to spend 48 per cent more to operate the schools this year, without instruction, than was the complete schooling cost a decade and a half ago.

The excess of $22.08, on the above basis, represents an authorized aggregate expense of $10,288,000. That is the authorized excess cost of conducting the school system this year, without teachers and mental training for the pupils, over the entire cost in 1915.

The cost of conducting the public schools in 1915, without teachers and instruction, was $10.16 per pupil; this year the authorized expense is $67.54. Thus it appears that the school cost, without education, is now $64.16 per cent greater than it was in 1915, while in that same period the number of pupils has increased only 56.34 per cent. The increase in the schooling cost, without instruction, has been 10 times as fast as the increase in the number of pupils.

Cost Will Increase.

At the current rate of spending, the cost of conducting the schools per pupil next year without instruction will be larger than this year. More schools are being completed which means more costs outside of instruction. Under the system of wages in force the cost of "plant operation," as the board refers to the expense of maintaining its school and auxiliary buildings, advances faster than the size of the plant is increased.

The only announced effort to curtail school costs has been the appointment of a committee to ascertain how much of the $1,000,000 appropriation for summer repairs can be deferred. It was the guess of the trustees, at their last meeting, that between $200,000 and $800,000 can be saved or deferred.

DRIVER RECKLESS, COPS RULE AFTER SKID OF 177 FEET

Evanston police got their official tape measure out last night and forthwith adjudged that a skid of 177 feet by an automobile involves reckless driving. Consequently, such a complaint, coupled with one charging driving while intoxicated, was lodged against David Seatter of Waukegan.

While driving in Evanston, Seatter tried to halt for a red light. He skidded 78 feet and crashed into the rear of the car of John A. Then, 2614 Morse avenue, Chicago, according to the police tape measure. The impact was so heavy that it jolted Then's auto ahead 99 feet, and, as the bumpers of the two machines were locked, Seatter's skidded along with Then's for the additional footage, according to the police accident report.

THREE CONVICTED OF MISAPPLYING N. Y. BANK FUNDS

New York, June 20, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—After deliberating more than eleven hours, the jury in the defunct Bank of the United States trial early today returned a verdict of guilty against three of the four defendants—Bernard K. Marcus, president of the bank; Saul Singer, executive vice president, and his son, Herbert Singer, a 24 year old law clerk in the office of Isidor J. Kresel—for misapplication of $2,009,-518 of the bank's funds. The jury disagreed as to the guilt of Henry W. Pollock, head of the bank's law department, the fourth defendant. Those convicted face a maximum penalty of seven years' imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

LIQUID BOILS OVER ON STOVES; TWO MEN KILLED

Bruno Subick, 36 years old, set a pot of coffee on the kitchen range in his home at 6346 Roscoe street last night, turned on the gas, and lay down on a nearby coat for a nap. The coffee boiled over and extinguished the flame. Subick was found dead a short time later by his wife, Rose, when she returned home.

In another mishap under almost identical circumstances William Billings, 62 years old, a retired shoemaker, was fatally overcome by gas in his home at 211 South Cicero avenue. Boiling water extinguished a gas range flame as he was asleep in the kitchen. His wife, Mary, found him dead.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

SPAIN TO IGNORE CATALAN DEMAND FOR SELF-RULE

Draft of New Constitution Ready for Approval.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 19.—To the experts who are drawing up the new Spanish constitution, all this talk about a federal Spain in which Catalans, Basques, and Galicians can be themselves, is only literature.

These experts include some of the most brilliant jurists of Spain, and from books they have turned out a fine new constitution. A subcommittee has completed its work, and tomorrow the full committee will meet in plenary session to finish it for the government's approval.

Ignoring the ferment that has been going on in Barcelona, they have laid the foundation for a unitary, centralized republic.

Follow French Model.

They have also voted down the proponents of a presidential republic on American and German lines, and have followed the French model, a parliamentary republic with an ornamental president elected by parliament.

The commission favors the French parliamentary system because Spaniards, almost to a man, fear the abuse of presidential powers. They point to the Spanish-American states. They propose the separation of church and state, the church to be supported by the direct contributions of the faithful instead of by the government.

The younger professors on the commission thought the girls ought to be allowed to play in the great game of the national sport of politics; but the graybeards denied them the vote, holding that the clergy might make too good use of inexperienced female voters.

Two Houses of Parliament.

There will be two houses of parliament, according to the draft, a chamber of nearly 500 deputies, elected by universal suffrage, and a senate, instead of the old collection of clergy, nobles and other members appointed by the king. It will be a corporative affair, not unlike the Fascist chamber, although on more democratic lines, but with only consultative powers.

Catalonia's dream of becoming a nation within a nation, now that the monarchy has fallen, has no appeal for these legal minds, it seems. Of course, this is only the subcommittee's draft, but it is known to represent the views of the provisional government.

Catalonia will be offered no more and no less than the other self conscious regions—a kind of sectional autonomy, such as Francisco Cambo and the Regionalists' league asked and almost got in 1919. There is no question of a definite state.

Control of Finances Undecided.

The committee's plan is that once the centralists' constitution is accepted, the regions, on a two-thirds vote of the inhabitants, can have limited autonomy, the central government reserving to itself control of railroads, ports, diplomatic relations and defense. The moot point of fiscal autonomy, which wealthy Catalonians naturally demand, is undecided.

The experts' deliberations are still going on in secrecy, and the Catalonians have not heard what is up. Barcelona will not be pleased to hear about the two-thirds vote, as extreme Catalanism is rampant, particularly in the Catalan capital where there are not less than 1,000,000 of the 2,-500,000 Catalans.

Work on the Catalan statute has been allowed to drag pending the final decision of the jurists. The Catalans can still, of course, appeal to the cortes which, according to the pact of San Sebastian, is alone competent to decide matters. But the jurists are representative.

Revolt Report Scotched.

Regarding rumors of a counter-revolt, Martinez Anido, the general who put iron into Primo de Rivera's régime, says he is not going to play St. George to the republican dragon. He was nominated for this rôle by the sensational press, which had all of Navarre and the Basque country ready to rise in the name of Don Jaime, pretender to the throne, and religion, with Gen. Anido in command.

The general today telegraphed the government from Hendaye, France, saying that the report is absurd. He said he had sworn loyalty to the republic and was out of politics, adding that he is at the disposition of the ministry of war. The governor of Pamplona, where the great "conspiracy" was unearthed, said:

"The story is grotesque."

Delay Willie Druggan Case; His Accuser Faints

Willie Druggan, brother of the public enemy, Terry Druggan, denied yesterday in Municipal Judge Fairbank's court that he had beaten and attempted to attack Mrs. Arlene Fazio, 19 years old, as charged by the young woman. Druggan offered an alibi for the night of May 27 when Mrs. Fazio said she was assaulted. The young woman fainted after she repeated her charges on the stand. The case was continued until next Monday.

HOOVER REAPPOINTS DRAPER MEMBER OF POWER COMMISSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CLAUDE A. DRAPER

Draper's nomination was confirmed by the senate, then reconsidered, and finally confirmed once more. His original appointment was for one year; today's appointment was for the full five year term.

It was learned today that Newton D. Baker, as counsel for the Appalachian Electric Power company, is preparing to challenge the power commission's jurisdiction in a suit in which the company denies the right of regulation claimed by the commission in the case of the company's 11 million dollar development on the New river in Western Virginia.

MAYOR FRANK MURPHY.

It was on the basis o fthis report that Mr. Walters sponsored a successful movement i nthe council withdrawing further financial support for the lodging houses, despite the personal pleas of Mayor Murphy that they be continued, and ordering the lodgese closed June 30.

The detectives, in the guise of unemployed men, visited the Fisher lodge between June 5 and 15. The first day, they report, they were unable to gain admittance to the place.

The second day they learned in conversation with men at the lodge that "men who are working for the city garbage plant part time are living at the lodge nights. Men who receive street car tickets are selling them for cash. Men are gambling and some have a lot of money. Men are working everywhere part time and staying at the lodge nights. Half of the men would not work if they had a chance because they are getting their meals and a bed from the city free."

MOSLEMS MEET TO SEEK UNITED FRONT TO BRITAIN

Envoys of 80 Million Hunt Electoral Accord.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, India, June 19.—In a last desperate effort to arrive at a solution of the Hindu-Moslem problem before the round table conference meets in London delegates representing all of India's followers of Mohammed arrived in Simla tonight for a conference.

Dr. Ansari, Moslem Nationalist leader and a close friend of Mahatma Gandhi, led the Nationalist Mohammedan faction. Shaukat Ali, at one time the right hand man of Gandhi but now a stanch loyalist, headed the faction which is more friendly to the British government.

Worshipers of Allah, all, they will try to compose their differences this week. If successful—if they can present a united demand on behalf of the 80,000,000 people composing the Moslem minority—Gandhi has promised to accept it in toto.

Threatens War on Hindus.

Shaukat Ali, a huge, bustling, fanatical and wild eyed Mohammedan, a direct descendant of the warring Arabians, who took up the sword of fire of Islam and spread it over half of Asia, said tonight that if the Hindus did not meet his demands this time he was going to war on them.

"We ruled these Indians once," he stormed, referring to the great days of Mogul rule. "We at least do not intend to be ruled by them now."

Shaukat Ali divulged that the Moslems of his faction had already drawn up plans to fight the All-India National congress' boycott on British goods unless the Hindus granted the Mohammedan demands. He said these plans would consist of organizing counterpicketing against the Nationalists, who now picket shops selling foreign goods.

Battle Over Electoral System.

In reality, all that the Moslems are fighting about now is the question of the electoral system to be installed in a self-governing India. The Royalist Moslems want separate electorates for the Mohammedans, fearing that they would be swamped by the huge Hindu majorities otherwise. Unless the Hindus grant this, they prefer to remain under British rule.

The Nationalist Moslems are opposed to separate electorates on the ground that they will perpetuate religious differences between the two communities for all time. They favor joint electorates, electing candidates regardless of their religion, but they ask that one-third of the seats in the central legislature be guaranteed them, and that similar guarantees be provided in the provinces, according to population. Gandhi has already accepted the Nationalist Moslems' demand, but he has refused the loyalist program for separate electorates.

Hoover Move to Aid Germany Causes Sensation in London

LONDON, June 19.—(AP)—A sensation was caused in newspaper circles in Fleet street tonight by the brief news of President Hoover's statement in Washington regarding American efforts to "strengthen the situation in Germany."

Word that the President had called congressional leaders into conference about the economic situation in Europe arrived too late for official comment from leaders of the British government, who, with a week-end recess of parliament, had begun to scatter from London to the country.

See Strengthening of World.

Close observers of the swift moving events in Europe, however, said the far-reaching effect of President Hoover's statement was apparent.

It was declared that America, by taking steps to aid Germany, would at the same time indirectly strengthen all Europe and the world at large. This action was said by some to be an "epochal development."

The visit of Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, to Great Britain was assuming an importance tonight comparable to that of the recent Anglo-German conversations at Chequers and the forthcoming trip of Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson to Berlin.

Whether Mr. Mellon's visit in London is official or is purely private, as he insists, the American secretary is understood to have listened at length since his arrival to facts and figures regarding the serious economic situation in Europe.

Mr. Mellon's informants have been Prime Minister MacDonald, with whom he has conferred twice, Foreign Secretary Henderson and Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. In addition to these it is understood he has talked also with a representative of the Bank of France.

It was commented in unofficial British circles that the American secretary's position here as a private visitor was such that he hardly could do more than listen to an outline of conditions in Europe, of which he is likely to hear and see more on his probable visit to the continent.

Britain Denies Debt Plea.

The importance of the United States in world affairs is taken for granted and it is felt no solution in Europe is possible without the United States at least knowing exactly what it is all about, and for that reason Mr. Mellon's visit and the forthcoming trip of Secretary of State Stimson are regarded as particularly timely.

Prime Minister MacDonald, however, today took occasion to issue a denial of a London newspaper report that an invitation had been extended to the American secretary of the treasury to visit Great Britain or that the United States had been invited to participate in discussions concerning debts and reparations or any other kind.

It was noted authoritatively that on the first day of Mr. Mellon's arrival in Great Britain he had a vivid illustration of the serious situation in Europe in an eleventh hour extension of a $22,000,000 credit to the Credit Anstalt of Vienna, which is believed in British circles to have staved off a desperate situation in Austria.

Germany Gets the News.

BERLIN, June 19.—(AP)—The announcement of President Hoover's statement that conversations were being held in Washington "particularly directed to strengthening the situation in Germany" reachd Berlin just in time tonight to be published in the late editions of morning newspapers.

Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius and other cabinet members could not be reached at the late hour for discussion of the announcement.

Most of the dailies, although they did not have time to prepare editorial comment, displayed the Hoover statement under large headlines such as "America takes a hand." "Hoover seizes the initiative," and "Hoover wants to help Germany."

Calls It "Empty Promise."

The Industrialist Allgemeine Zeitung was one of the few papers which commented editorially. It said:

"A great deal has been accomplished when the British and Americans, given food for thought by the brutality of the recent emergency decrees and the resultant turbulent feeling in Germany, begin to see the fact of the Young plan's crisis from an economic viewpoint."

HOOVER TO JOIN EUROPE ON PLAN TO AID GERMANY

might call congress into extraordinary session with a view to reassuring Europe by providing for extension of the moratorium provision to include interest. The next payments of interest, which now aggregate 180 millions annually, are due Dec. 15, while congress, unless earlier summoned, will meet on Dec. 7.

Calls Congress Leaders.

With cablegrams from Mr. Mellon reporting the attitude of the British prime minister in hand, Mr. Hoover began consideration of the situation with Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], the Mellon spokesman in congress, who was a White House breakfast guest. Then he called in these Republican and Democratic leaders who are in Washington—Representative John Tilson [Rep., Conn.], majority leader of the house; Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], member of the senate foreign relations committee; Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], a former secretary of the treasury, and Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah], who is pressing for an international conference to stabilize the value of silver as a measure of economic relief.

Later the President talked with Senator William J. Harris [Dem., Ga.], Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], Representative Isaac Bacharach [Rep., N. J.], Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, and Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

The feeling in official circles is that joint action by Europe and the United States to avert impending disaster to Germany is imminent. It is understood, however, that the President will confer with other leaders before formulating his policy. Among those whose advice he will seek is Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the senate finance committee who is due in Washington Sunday.

For several weeks it has been known that the President has been considering the circumstances under which the United States might agree to a reduction of the war debts as a measure of world economic relief. He had in this mind, it is understood, when he told the international chamber of commerce that disarmament would go farther than any other measure toward the economic restoration of the world. The natural corollary of his suggestion, it soon became known was that the United States might consider reduction of the debts if Europe were to inaugurate disarmament.

HOOVER PHONES U. S. SENATOR ON TRIP TO CANADA

Toronto, Ont., June 20.—[Special.]—A United States senator tonight stood in a Toronto drug store pay telephone booth and fed $2 in small change into the slots in response to a long distance summons from President Hoover to confer on a matter of vital importance.

It was understood that the 500 mile consultation between the President and the senator concerned Mr. Hoover's step to stabilize world economic conditions possibly through adjustment of reparations and war debts. The senator concerned, A. H. Vandenberg of Michigan, is a Republican member of the senate foreign affairs committee.

Senator Vandenberg arrived here today with the Detroit chamber of commerce delegates who visited Toronto aboard the steamship Noronic. The senator declined to comment upon dispatches from Washington announcing Mr. Hoover's statement.

A smile and "draw your own conclusions" was the senator's response to inquiries as to the subject of his conversation. It was learned that, not knowing Toronto, he could find in a hasty search no more comfortable place from which to telephone than the drug store phone booth. The steamer hardly had docked in Toronto, it was said, before the senator received a message to call Mr. Hoover at the earliest possible moment.

DECREE FORCES WIFE TO REPAY ALL HER ALIMONY

Supreme Court Also Adds 5% Interest.

By order of Mrs. Maurice R. Feingold, the dealer of Dennison, O., harbored low opinions on the courts of Illinois. But yesterday the Illinois Supreme court changed all that, when it handed down a decree ordering his former wife, Mrs. Jeanette Feingold of 3323 West 66th street, and her attorney, Samuel Andalman, to make restitution of alimony and attorney's fees collected from him with interest at 5 per cent.

The decision upholds the legality of a divorce obtained in Ohio by Feingold on grounds of desertion, even though service was secured by publication. It had been the contention of Mrs. Feingold's counsel that the decree was not valid in Illinois because his wife had not been legally notified of her husband's Ohio suit.

Lawyer Tells of Troubles.

Feingold's troubles in the Illinois courts had as their background the refusal of Mrs. Feingold to live in Ohio. After their marriage, as the story was related yesterday by Meyer Abrams, attorney for Feingold, Mrs. Feingold left the home her husband had built for her in Dennison and returned to the home of her parents here. Later she persuaded her husband, a prosperous merchant, to move to Chicago also, and to invest $15,000 in the real estate business with her brother, Jack Rabinowitz. The venture disastrously.

Feingold built a $16,000 bungalow here, which he occupied with his wife and small son. It was swept away in the financial crash of the Rabinowitz-Feingold partnership.

Returning to Dennison, Feingold devoted himself to his shoe store, while his wife remained with her relatives. On May 26, 1929, Feingold obtained a divorce in Ohio. In June of that year Mrs. Feingold asked him to come to Chicago to talk over a settlement. On his arrival a warrant was served on him, charging wife abandonment. His wife also filed suit for separate maintenance.

Jailed for Lack of Bond.

Feingold was arraigned before Judge Harry Fisher, who set his bond at $1,000, and later raised it to $10,000. Not being able to give bond, Feingold was jailed. During his imprisonment he was summoned to court on his separate maintenance action, and was ordered to pay $250 temporary alimony and $35 a week.

Feingold had been in jail a month when his former home to his rescue and obtained his release on bond. On Oct. 31, 1930, he was again brought into court and ordered to pay $500 additional fees and $250 trial costs.

Shortly thereafter Feingold's father was ousted in the stock market crash and consented to pauline on the $10,000 securities he had put up for his son.

Into Father's $10,000.

But meanwhile Mrs. Feingold and her attorney had stepped in and obtained an injunction, tying up $10,000 with a claim that the money did not belong to Feingold senior, but was the property of Feingold junior.

Before he could secure a hearing on his writ abandonment charge, the husband was told he would have to pay $1,500 in alimony and attorney's fees. At this juncture Meyer Abrams of the firm of Gallagher, Grafton & Abrams, took up Feingold's case, advanced the $1,400, got a hearing in Circuit court, showed that Feingold had received a divorce in Ohio, and won a judgment. The $1,500 was restored to the elder Feingold.

Mrs. Feingold's attorney, Andalman, then took the case to the Appellate court, where the decision of the Circuit court was upheld. But the Appellate court held that they were not entitled to restitution of the $1,500 paid.

The state Supreme court, however, not only upheld the Circuit and Appellate decision, but the validity of the Ohio divorce was reiterated and it was ruled that restitution must be made to Feingold, with interest at 5 per cent, of all money collected by him for alimony, court costs and attorney's fees.

$85,000,000 AUTO HAVEN BUBBLE IS PUNCTURED

Prosecutor Shuts Up Promoter's Offices.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson put an end to a promoter's $85,000,000 dream yesterday following a three day investigation of the National Autohaven company. The concern's impressive suite of offices at 201 North Wells street was raided after a girl employé complained that her boss, who talked in millions, was slow about paying her wages.

The promoter used the name of Adrian J. Williams. Prosecutor Thompson, who is assigned to the racket bureau, said Williams had prepared beautifully engraved stock for investors who might be attracted by his scheme to build 1,000 wayside inns for motorists throughout the country. The prosecutor also said that Williams was known as Samuel F. Wheeler, a Philadelphia lawyer, before he served a prison sentence for embezzlement.

Offices Are Closed.

The prosecutor closed the Autohaven offices for the protection of the public, he said, but he did not keep Mr. Williams-Wheeler under arrest, in the absence of any complaint who would press charges against him.

"Williams sent plans for the construction of his autohavens to contractors all over the middle west," said Mr. Thompson, "with the requirement that each contractor deposit $25 as security for the safe return of the plans, which cost $2.50 for the original and just a few cents for photostatic copies. More than 400 contractors sent him their $25, giving him over $10,000 in this way."

The scheme, as outlined and given wide publicity in magazines and newspapers in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Indiana, called for the building of combination hotel, restaurant, gasoline, and service stations throughout this area. Each of the havens, built on a standardized plan, was to cost $85,000. The literature declared the National Autohaven company was incorporated under the laws of Delaware with a capital of $2,500,000.

Business Men Deceived.

The girl employé who directed the attention of the prosecutor to the concern is Miss Grace Colgan, who lives at the Illinois club. She told Mr. Thompson she hadn't received her salary and the raid followed.

Williams deceived several reputable business men into permitting him to use their names in the promotion, according to the prosecutor, but it appeared that the monetary losses incurred by these men were small.

To Aid Orphans

A dress rehearsal of a pageant of early Chicago history, to be called "The Story of Chicago," was held in the Hotel Sherman last night. The pageant, to be sponsored by the Illinois department of the Catholic Daughters of America, will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 28, on the banks of the Des Plaines river, two miles north of Des Plaines. Proceeds will go to the benefit of inmates of the St. Mary's Training School for Orphans, situated opposite the site of the pageant.

EARL HERBERT, HOODLUM, GETS LIFE SENTENCE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Stanley Nowakowski, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph Sabath.

"Big Earl" Herbert, one of the old-time Saltis gang of beer runners and hoodlums, was refused a new trial yesterday by Judge Charles A. Williams of the Criminal court and was sentenced to life imprisonment in accordance with a jury verdict. Herbert was found guilty several weeks ago of the murder of Thomas Bonner, suspected police informer, who was shot to death in the doorway of his home, 7344 Yale avenue, one year ago.

The last time Herbert appeared in court he acted like an insane man. The case was continued at that time to give an opportunity to examine into his mental condition. When he came to court yesterday Herbert was normal. A physician had so found him.

A stay of sentence was allowed so that the defense attorneys can perfect an appeal to the Supreme court. Herbert, however, will have to go to the penitentiary pending his appeal because he has been convicted of assault with intent to commit murder. That case, the shooting of a railway detective, carries a sentence of 1 to 14 years. It was affirmed by the Supreme court several months ago.

Fined for Sticking Pins in His Tenant's Doorbell

It is a breach of the peace to stick pins in a doorbell to make it ring incessantly, even though you are a landlord trying to collect the rent, Municipal Judge Samuel L. Trude ruled yesterday in imposing a $5 fine on Ray W. Smith, 1042 East 61st street. Smith was arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Mabel Sheehan, a tenant, who objected to his tactics in endeavoring to collect the rent. She told the judge she would pay the rent and move.

4 ESCAPE DEATH AS PLANE FALLS INTO FARMHOUSE

Preparations for the noon meal in the farm home of Louis Gerkin on Sternberg road near Glenview were interrupted yesterday when an airplane crashed through the roof of the story and a half house to the first floor, narrowly missing Gerkin's two daughters, Anna, 15 years old, and Eleanor, 14.

The two occupants of the plane, Charles Lehr, 23 years old, a transport pilot and instructor at Curtiss field, and Murray Thomas, 20, of 4731 North Knox avenue, a limited commercial pilot, also escaped serious injury.

Thomas, who has 100 hours of flying to his credit, took off from Curtiss field yesterday in a small Moth biplane to receive additional instruction from Lehr preparatory to taking an examination for a transport pilot's license. They were 1,500 feet above the Gerkin home when their De Haviland motor failed, Lehr said later.

RABBIS TO JUDGE OF SACRAMENTAL WINE LEGALITY

Federal Judge Explains His Ruling.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Coleman, in ordering 500 gallons of wine seized in a raid on the Fruit Industries, Inc., store in the Bronx on April 15, returned to owners, today ruled that Jewish rabbis may issue sacramental wine permits to members of their faith, even if these persons are not members of their particular congregations.

MABEL WILLEBRANDT.

A patrolman testified that on April 11 he went to the store and bought some wine. The wine was given to him, he said, after a rabbi, who happened to be in the place at the time, had given him a permit. He said he returned and was sold two more quarts of wine after the store's proprietor had telephoned the rabbi. It was testified that the rabbi later sent the proprietor a prescription for the second lot of wine.

Mabel Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, is general counsel in the United States for the Fruit Industries, Inc.

"There was no probable cause for believing any of the wine was held for illegal sale," Judge Coleman explained. "The one instance, even if unlawful, was not sufficient, under facts disclosed, to warrant an inference that any of the remainder was held for an illegal purpose. The failure to sign the order in the presence of the rabbi may be disregarded as a mere irregularity. Certainly the regulation was intended to include more than members of a rabbi's own congregation. It did not, I believe, intend to include every orthodox jew, but unless the worshipers can be identified I do not think a rabbi's order unlawful."

SEEK WRIT TO HALT NEAR BEER SALE IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., June 19.—[Special.]—An application for a liquor injunction to padlock the warehouses of Charles Hewitt and Sons company, wholesale grocers, was filed in district court late Thursday by John B. Hammond, dry crusader.

The action came as the latest step in Hammond's attempt to prevent the sale of near beer in Iowa on the grounds it is a violation of the state prohibition statutes.

Besides the grocery concern, the Manitowoc Products company of Manitowoc, Wis., manufacturers of the beer, and the Chicago and North Western Railway company were made defendants in the injunction suit.

Earlier in the day Hammond seized three carloads of near beer in storage at the Hewitt plant under a search warrant he had sworn out in the court of Justice of the Peace W. H. Davis in Saylor township. Deputy sheriffs and members of the city booze squad were kept busy from 11 a. m. until 6 p. m. removing the beer from the warehouse to the booze room in the county courthouse.

Seize 30,000 Gallons of Cider.

South Sherborn, Mass., June 19.—[Special.]—Federal dry agents today confiscated 30,000 gallons of what they declared to be hard cider at the McCarthy Cider mills. A member of the firm and an employé were arrested on charges of violating the prohibition laws. They were realesed on $1,000 bonds each. The agents claim the cider tested 6.69 per cent.

RAILROAD RATES.

The railroads have filed their request for an increase of 15 per cent in freight rates. There is no doubt that many even of the stronger lines are in a critical condition. It would be shortsighted indeed to meet their request with the observation that the condition of the railroads is no worse than that of many other enterprises at the moment; for it cannot be repeated too often that railroad securities are basic in our financial system. Railroad bonds are enormously important among the holdings of insurance companies and savings banks. The regulations in many states governing the securities which may be held by these institutions are strict: if bond interest is not earned one and one-half times, the securities are blacklisted. The serious consequences of blacklisting, both to the insurance companies and the railroads, are too plain to need emphasizing.

Here, then, is an emergency which must be met, if at all, with emergency measures. As such, the petition of the railroads deserves prompt consideration by the commerce commission. We do not think the railroad presidents themselves can regard a horizontal rate increase as anything but a temporary expedient to be modified as the conditions of traffic demand. It will do the railroads little good to be granted the right to charge 15 per cent more than at present for carrying shoes, for example, if the quantity of shoes carried is sharply decreased as a result of higher rates. All that the railroads may hope to do with profit to themselves, if the rate increase is granted, is to regard it as permissive limit within which to make readjustments which will not stifle business or throw it to the ships and trucking lines.

Certainly one consequence of any increase in the existing rate structure will be to exaggerate one of its absurdities. The tendency in recent rate decisions of the interstate commerce commission has been to emphasize the importance of mileage in determining tariffs. It is assumed that if a railroad charges $1 to move a shipment ten miles it must charge $2 to move the same shipment 20 miles. To a child in second grade this arrangement must appear flawless. The trouble with the mileage principle is that it completely divorces the price of transportation from its cost. The ten miles of line may have been built in mountainous country at a cost of a million dollars a mile, while the twenty miles may lie on the prairies and have cost no more to construct than a single mile of the mountain division. Likewise, the cost of pulling a freight train over the flat is far less than the cost of drawing it over steep grades. One reason that the trucks have been able to take much business away from the railroads has been the tendency of the ratemakers to treat all railroad mileage as essentially alike, regardless of actual costs of investment and operation.

A QUESTION FROM A LADY.

A lady in Bloomington, Ill., who says she has lived a long life, asks THE TRIBUNE to explain why it has switched from its old condemnation of alcoholic drinks to approval of "the drinking of all one wants." An explanation can't be made. The fact is not there to explain. THE TRIBUNE does not approve of drinking. It never has. In the old days to which the lady refers the trade in alcoholic beverages was in the control of a powerful organization of money and politics. THE TRIBUNE opposed it, refused its advertising and supported its opponents.

In opposing a visible evil many people did not see the one in prospect. In human affairs nothing is wholly true all the time. Excesses are based on the assumption that they are. It was probably inconceivable twenty years ago that ten years' experience with total prohibition under federal administration would produce conditions quite as bad as those under liquor control of legislation if not worse. It has been proved. The prohibition fanatic is as dangerous to the general welfare of society as the whisky maker was. He is more dangerous because he affects more of the principles upon which a successful society is founded. The country has gone from one extreme to the other. It has substituted one evil for another. The repressions have had social consequences, physical consequences, political and moral consequences which attack more organic tissue in a larger area than was affected by whisky.

The work of one set of extremists is as bad as the work of the other. The American people have discovered that law has its limitations. The limits have been exceeded many times in other centuries and doubtless they will be exceeded again, but the excesses will come to their own destruction. Generally the readjustment is painful and it is not generally instructive. The people who sought a great improvement in life by total prohibition tried by law to do for the individual what he must largely do for himself. The control was too repressive. Most of the good the human race has achieved has been in resentment of repression. Most of the injury it has had came from subjection to it.

The explanation sought of THE TRIBUNE can't be given because THE TRIBUNE is opposed to the misuse of alcoholic beverages now just as it has been in the past. The lady probably has been imposed upon by the fanatical organizations which maintain themselves by damning the morality of their opponents. There is more morality opposed to prohibition as it is than can be found in support of it.

REFORM IN LEGAL PRACTICE.

Another attempt to get some judicial practice and procedure reform from the legislature has come to nothing. There are too many small town lawyers in the legislature, and too many from the big towns as well. They have learned the practice as it is and they know most of the tricks of circumlocution, evasion, delay, where the fees are and how to make them grow. It's an old profession all tied up with its own rites and ceremonies and when a man has learned its abracadabra he will not willingly simplify the magic. He has everything up his sleeve and he does not intend to unload.

The committees on judicial practice and procedure contain nothing but members of the lodge, and they should change their ways. As they see and practice law complexity makes them and simplicity would ruin them. The laity may pay the freight. The British chancery court represented practice idealized into the greatest possible procrastination and futility, a perfection which must still be observed with awe by practitioners who fear they will never be able to create another such structure.

To ask these priests to simplify their ritual for the advancement of law enforcement and the just administration of justice is to ask them to spoil something they like, in which they are expert and from which they profit. In each legislature the lawyers, the dominating class in the assembly, look over the proposals for procedural reform and ask for the ax.

OBEDIENCE TO THE LAW.

As it was Mr. Hoover's inspiration from the career of the Great Emancipator to exhort his countrymen to obedience of the law, we must assume that the guaranties which that career added to the fundamental law were not absent from his thought. Mr. Hoover did not, indeed, mention the 14th and 15th amendments, but they are inseparable from any consideration of Lincoln's undying fame. "There can be no man in our country," said Mr. Hoover, "who, either by his position or his influence, stands above the law." This unquestionably includes the chief magistrate, as well as governors and legislators, as well as all citizens, whether notable or obscure. This includes the 14th and 15th amendments not less than every other law. Spoken upon such an occasion it must especially refer to these laws to which the spirit of Lincoln gave the breath of life. We may therefore safely assume that the President has been inspired to a new determination to enforce obedience to these laws and to tolerate no longer their evasion and defeat.

Explicit reference to these memorable consequences of Lincoln's statesmanship would have weighted Mr. Hoover's admonition impressively.

Also any discourse upon obedience to the law, inspired by memories of the Great Emancipator, would have been the more illuminating for a discussion of the fugitive slave law. There were almost certainly men and women among Mr. Hoover's hearers whose parents disobeyed the fugitive slave law and who may be lacking in a proper sense of the sanctity of that statute. In fact, these hearers and many other Americans, we suspect, have conceived of that memorable disobedience as a part of our national heritage, and a part "worth the keeping."

Obedience to the law is a noble theme. Obedience to the principles which should inspire and likewise restrain the laws and their enforcement is a nobler theme and more essential to the preservation of our national heritage.

FAVORITES AT YALE.

The graduating class at Sheffield scientific school at Yale selected Kipling as the favorite poet. Will Rogers was the favorite world figure, with Al Capone and Mussolini tied for second honors. President Hoover, Admiral Byrd and Mr. MacDonald had three votes each in the cellar of this competition. Charles Lanphier of Springfield, Ill., was voted to be the most brilliant of the class, but Gen. Pershing's son, Francis, was selected as the boy most likely to succeed.

As an index of what the scientific young gentlemen of Yale are thinking this probably lacks puckered seriousness, but it would not appear that the pacifist penetration of the colleges is getting more than skin deep. The favorite world figure contest did not bring out Mr. Kellogg [for his pact], the Rev. Sidney Gulick, secretary of the national committee on churches and peace of the Federal Council of Churches; any of the ladies of the Women's International League for Peace, Prof. Donald C. Macintosh, the Yale divine who would not accept citizenship with a theoretical military obligation, or any other of the persons notable among the international sweet peas.

The boys seem to have gone the old fashioned way to heroes and pirates and songs about them. Mr. Kipling as a poet has the wind in his hair and pistols in his holsters if not a sword in his teeth. Mussolini may not be all he thinks he is—who could be?—but he tries to be Augustus and he hears the tramp of the legions on the Appian way again. Mr. Rogers as a philosopher may be a fairly good cowboy. At least he's not Gandhi. The Pershing name is associated with marching men in regiments. This is all error to the pacifist, but even in the half travesty of the class selections the subliminal urges of the young men did not show much which could be traced to Dr. Gulick.

Editorial of the Day

[Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.]

It is not often that the boatyards of the Pittsburgh district build vessels for service on salt water. For that reason the fact that the Red Star, twin screw ocean going freighter constructed at Midland, has concluded the maiden cruise at her home port, Baltimore, in good time and trim has especial interest here. The start of the cruise on May 15 was not auspicious; as the vessel tried to head downstream in midchannel of the Monongahela she was caught by a cross current and a wind. The cargo shifted and a return to dock was necessary for a readjustment. All went well on the next trial and continued to do so on the long run.

New Orleans was made in seven days' actual running time and when that port was cleared only six days were needed to steam around Florida and to edge up the Atlantic coast, a registered distance of 1,513 statute miles. This means an average of somewhat better than ten miles an hour. The first cruise of the new vessel adds to the reputation of the Pittsburgh area for marine construction.

FROM EPILEPSY TO PELLAGRA.

DRS. WALKER AND WHEELER have found one way to stop epileptics from having convulsions. It may be that the finding has no practical value, since the remedy is as bad as the disease, or worse. On the other hand, it may open up a way that could lead to a cure of some types of epilepsy, for what is called by that name is really a group of diseases.

Dr. Walker is the clinical director of the Milledgeville, Ga., state hospital. He noticed that several cases of advanced epilepsy developed pellagra when they were kept on a ketogenic diet for a considerable time. They almost stopped having convulsions, but their pellagra became threatening. This observation seemed to prove that a ketogenic diet strictly adhered to would control the convulsions of epilepsy, provided it was pushed far enough to being pellagra. Based on this chance observation a number of bad epileptics were put on a very carefully controlled ketogenic diet, and this was kept up until they developed pellagra.

The diet consisted of:

Breakfast—Cornmeal, California black eyed peas, lard, salt, brown gravy, consisting of flour, lard, water, salt, and pepper; cane sirup, loaf bread, and coffee without sugar or cream.

Supper—Cornmeal, peas as above, lard, salt, brown gravy, cane sirup, loaf bread, coffee without sugar or cream.

In addition each patient was given ½ ounce cod liver oil, 4½ ounces tomato juice, 20 drops dilute muriatic acid, 45 grains of calcium carbonate, and 2 drops of sirup iodide of iron.

All of the patients developed cankers, sore tongue, and burning in the mouth. All but one developed the pellagra sunburn. Several developed diarrhea.

At the end of the experiment the pellagra was cured by giving yeast and changing the diet. Under this treatment the symptoms of pellagra disappeared promptly. Soon after the diet given above was established as the daily habit the frequency of convulsions began to drop. By the time pellagra was manifest convulsions were rare. These were all old epileptics with the habit well established and with considerable mental deterioration as a consequence. No drugs were given to control the attacks during the period of dietary treatment. When the diet was changed back and the pellagra was disappearing the convulsion habit returned.

At that stage the demonstration rested at the time the report was written.

CHILD NOT HARMED.

Mrs. M. M. writes: All through the first three months of my pregnancy I was overburdened with work and worry over a sick family. As I had little time to rest I soon found that I would go into tantrums due to jagged nerves. Hysterics would follow and then exhaustion. I would be very ugly one minute and worried the next. Now I am settling down to normal, but would like to know if the conditions during the early pregnancy would affect the mind or looks of my baby in any way.

REPLY.

Your experience as such will not harm your child. If you are of an excitable, hysterical, rebellious-of-restraint type your child may inherit your personality.

FIND CAUSE AND REMOVE IT.

J. F. writes: My little boy, aged 9, has had bronchial asthma for the last two and a half to three years. Will you kindly advise whether this malady is curable and what is to be done for it? Does climate have any effect on it and, if so, what climate would you recommend?

REPLY.

You should be able to find the cause of this group of symptoms and remove it. We recently printed a letter from a man who writes that he paid eight thousand dollars to learn that bronchial asthma in his child was due to eating foods containing dextrine and exposure to timothy hay pollen. A warm climate is generally beneficial. A warm, very dry climate is better still.

NO LIGHTS.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there an ordinance compelling owners of apartment buildings to install electric lights on rear stairways and keep them lighted after dark?

E. A. K.

In 283 Ill., 271-273, the Supreme court held an ordinance requiring light invalid on the ground that the city has only delegated powers which do not include this subject matter. It is the general rule that, in the absence of such an ordinance or statute, the landlord is under no legal obligation to furnish light. [36 C. J., 26 and 214]. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PAYEE'S LOSS.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A personal check was cashed for groceries. The grocery man kept the check three days and when he went to cash it the bank on which the check was drawn had been closed by the auditors. Who is responsible for the check?

G. A. B.

If the check was good and the payee had a reasonable opportunity to cash it, then the subsequent loss would fall upon him.

Sec. 185 of the negotiable instruments law is as follows: "A check must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after its issue, and notice of dishonor given to the drawer, as provided for in the case of bills of exchange, or the drawer will be discharged from liability thereon to the extent of the loss caused by the delay." TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BANK'S PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In your column of June 6 you answered an inquiry headed, "Depositor Resents Examination." The answer to question 2 stated the purpose was to ascertain whether any of the bank's assets were concealed in box. 1. If money is drawn out of a bank that has failed, and paper money is put into a box in the same bank, can that be claimed an asset of the bank? 2. What could a bank examiner claim as assets of a bank? 3. Can he confiscate same?

W. J. L.

1. No.
2. Any money or securities which actually belong to the bank and were concealed in private boxes.
3. Yes.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WHAT THEY TALKED ABOUT.

"I am not here on official business."—Uncle Andy Mellon when he arrived in England.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT, O. LYKELL.)

UNCLE ANDY—Howdyde everybody! It's very nice weather.

MR. NORMAN—Oh, quite! Especially if it doesn't rain.

MR. MacDONALD—We've had lovely weather now for quite a bit. Oh, rather.

UNCLE ANDY—I love nice weather.

MR. HENDERSON—So say we all. A London fog is so beastly.

UNCLE ANDY—I hate fogs.

MR. MacDONALD—How has the weather been in the States?

UNCLE ANDY—Oh, we've had splendid weather except on days when it was cold and rainy.

MR. NORMAN—How has the weather been in Washington?

UNCLE ANDY—Fine. And how's it been in Scotland?

MR. MacDONALD—Ripping! Really, quite ripping.

UNCLE ANDY—And in Wales?

MR. HENDERSON—Oh, the weather in Wales has been wonderful! That's your understanding, is it not, Montagu?

MR. NORMAN—Oh, quite! They've had a bit of rain in some places, I understand, but otherwise the weather in Wales is not half bad.

UNCLE ANDY—And I trust the weather has been good in India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Malta, Canada, South Tasmania, and other parts of the far-flung British empire?

MR. NORMAN, MR. MacDONALD, and MR. HENDERSON (in chorus)—Oh, quite!

UNCLE ANDY—I hope the weather in London will remain nice.

MR. NORMAN, MR. MacDONALD, and MR. HENDERSON (in chorus)—So say we all of us.

UNCLE ANDY—That's me! Here, boy, give me that message.

MR. NORMAN—No bad news, I trust.

UNCLE ANDY—Yes, bad news. It's raining in Washington.

TO MURIEL.

Make good, sweet maid.
Be good, and also clever.
Let heart and soul maturing
Match the growth
Of disciplined intelligence.
And never Let any tell you
That you can't be both.

BERNARD.

"THOU SHALT NOT," sayeth Uncle Samuel to racketeers, bootleggers, and lesser breeds without the law, "manufacture or sell or transport whisky, wine, beer, or such beverages. Thou shalt not conspire with thugs and hoodlums to tear down the laws of the United States. Money gained in such manner is blood money. Tainted money! Money upon which there rests an awful curse! However, now that you've got it, give me my share."

"LET US SEEK happiness in culture and noble deeds," say the June graduates, "and strive not to lay up gold which is mere dross." But in a year or two when they've managed to put a little coin in Attenuated Goldfish Preferred they'll squawk when it goes down a half point so loud you can hear 'em a mile.

AH, THE OLD CHESTNUT BLOOMS AGAIN.

Cornelius—Who was that lady I seen you with last night?

CORNELIA.

IT'S FATHER'S DAY tomorrow. Which is all very well. But we've had Mother's Day, and we rise up to ask when is Uncle's Day? And Aunt's Day? And Grandma's Day? And Mother-in-Law's Day and Father-in-Law's Day and Grandpa's Day? And Cousin's Day? Oh, yes, when is Cousin's Day? We want to lay in a big supply of pretty flowers, such as skunk cabbage and poison ivy, for Cousin's Day. And then what about Brother-in-Law's day? What we're going to put in the mail on Brother-in-Law's Day is certainly nobody's business.

SPRING WHIMSY.

Why should it matter who is kissing me
And who has kept my telephone a-buzz;
As long as calls and kisses come my way,
It shouldn't—but unfortunately it does.

Why must a futile anguish gnaw my heart
The while my lips are pleasant to each new
And warm-eyed lad (since yours are chill as ice)
Oh, damn it! All I really want, is you!

DAVIDA.

LAGNIAPPE.

WASHINGTON reported with great excitement yesterday that the naval observatory was building a telescope which will have a range of sixty billion billion miles. It will be used in hunting for stocks as they drop to new lows.

OH, IT'S HOT! God help the rich, the poor can sit out on the porch in their undershirts and eat ice cream cones.

GETTING SERIOUS

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 20, 1915.

LONDON.—The strongly fortified Galician town of Grodek, where it was predicted the Russians would make such a stubborn stand, has fallen before the Austro-German assault, according to the Austrian official statement; the River Tanew, believed to be another strong barrier, has been crossed; Komarno, only a few miles south of Grodek, has been taken, and the Austro-German forces are less than a day's march from Lemberg, capital of Galicia.

NEW YORK.—William Jennings Bryan, addressing a labor peace meeting at Carnegie hall, attacked former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft as leading sponsors of organizations which stood for the use of force in international affairs, and which, the former secretary of state declared, were inimical to the true interests of this country and to the cause of international peace.

PARIS.—Important gains by the French forces operating in Alsace are reported. "In Alsace," says the French statement, "our advances continue on the two banks of the Fecht river. We hold on the left bank of the western Fecht the group of hills of Braunkopf, Hill 830, Leichwalde, and the villages of Steinbruck and Altenhof [Althof]. Between the two branches of the Fecht we have taken the clearing of Anlasswasen."

CHICAGO.—The first meeting of the board of arbitration to settle the street car controversy will be held on June 22.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SHREVEPORT, La. — "Prophet" Smith and F. D. McLand, two Negroes accused of complicity in the murder of John Gray Foster last week, were lynched by a mob at Benton, near here. Smith was the head of the "Church of God," movement in this section and was claimed to be responsible for the septiment against the whites which led to the death of Foster. Both died denying their guilt. Foster was slain by Prince Edwards, one of a crowd of discontented Negroes who had had trouble with Foster's overseer. Edwards has not been arrested.

CHICAGO.—The Supreme court of Illinois decided that all liquor laws and ordinances in force in Hyde Park at the time of its annexation to Chicago, are still effective and always will stand in force unless repealed by a vote of the people of that district. The ruling, it is asserted, makes it impossible to sell liquor at retail or wholesale in the Hyde Park district so long as the Hyde Park Protective association and the people generally desire to see the law in force.

CHICAGO.—Defeated in an attempt to erect a costly house at Campbell Park, Mrs. Katherine Newman is building an unsightly structure of yellow brick which the neighbors call a "spite" house. The trouble started when Mrs. Newman was stopped from building a fine stone dwelling four feet nearer the sidewalk than her deed allows.

CHICAGO. — Dr. Nicholas Senn wielded the silver trowel to spread the mortar for the corner stone of the new building at Rush Medical college which will be called Senn hall.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

ST. PETERSBURG.—Two caoutchouc bags filled with 150 pounds of dynamite were discovered on the bridge over the Catherine canal. They measured 21 inches in diameter and were provided with fuses.

MILES CITY, M. T.—Work of loading the 2,000 Sioux Indians who surrendered several months ago, and have since been in camp on the banks of the Yellowstone, on steamers to be taken to Fort Yates on the Missouri began today. Prominent among the chiefs are Rain-in-the-Face and Spotted Tail. The loading of the Indians on the four boats was under the efficient management of the officers of the Fifteenth infantry and the Second cavalry stationed at Fort Keogh.

CHICAGO.—Augustin Daly and his entire double company are stopping at the Tremont. They appear this week at Hooley's theater in the successful comedy "Needles and Pins."

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full name and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE WARMTH OF THE WELCOME TO MR. HOOVER.

Washington, Ind., June 17.—Realizing that your paper is committed to an anti-Hoover policy, we would not expect a favorable report of our recent meeting at which President Hoover was a guest and speaker. We would not expect your correspondent to find that the greeting that the President received on his visit to Indianapolis was genuine and enthusiastic, even though practically all of the other correspondents agreed that it was.

Whatever the President might have said or done or whatever the response of the crowds, we would expect your paper to draw anti-Hoover conclusions, but in all fairness we have a right to expect that you do not publish untruthful statements.

On page 6, column 1 of your last metropolitan edition of Tuesday, June 16, appears this statement:

"The dinner itself, it was reported, had been staged only after considerable sales pressure by the Republican organization. The tickets did not go like hot cakes. Even the state motorcycle force, it was said, had been put to work to dispose of them."

The preposterousness of this statement is shown by the fact that every Republican member of the state motorcycle force was dismissed some months ago by the new Democratic secretary of state and an entire Democratic force put in their place. Your statement is nothing short of funny to your readers in Indiana, all of whom are familiar with these facts.

As a matter of fact, the only "sales pressure" used consisted of one man in our office at Indianapolis who filled orders for tickets as received, and one other man who made distribution of tickets to various counties if and when requested. The original allotment of tickets were all sold a week before the banquet. The seating was rearranged twice after that to provide additional tickets and hundreds of persons were turned away last Monday because no tickets of any description were available.

It is too much to hope that you will correct your statement in this matter, but I am sending copies of this letter to the more than a hundred publishers in Indiana, who are members of the Republican Editorial association so that they may know that the request was made.

PAUL R. BAUSMAN,
Retiring President of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association.

CHICAGO'S FRONT YARD.

Chicago, June 16.—Many thanks for the artful picture of Chicago's front yard in last Sunday's TRIBUNE. We were somewhat hazy as to the trend of modern appreciation. Now that that's settled, we were thinking of taking a picture of our own front yard, and while we can't get a couple of strings of box cars in it, just the same we can use a couple of ash cans for a substitute.

R. H. FINK.

HELP FOR GERMANY AND HOW.

Chicago, June 9.—THE TRIBUNE is to be complimented for its splendid editorial of June 9: "Help for Germany and How."

Germany, no doubt, is economically ill. Nearly all nations are likewise afflicted. Each one bears a burden not in some cases a tremendous one; and each one seeks relief. The debtor nations wish to make it appear that there is but one solution to end their ills. Every possible scheme is being contrived by them to induce the United States to cancel the war debts. This is hailed as the remedy.

The United States at present has its own economic problems. This fact cannot be overemphasized. By cancellation of the above mentioned debts the nation involved would be relieved to an extent while a double burden may have to be placed upon our own people in the form of increased taxation. Should not the United States have some consideration? To whom may it go for help? There is no one. It must work out its own destiny.

Our country must not cancel the war debts. There have already been reductions, reductions far greater than we could expect from others were our positions reversed. If there are further concessions to be made, let other nations make them. THE TRIBUNE has suggested the method.

WALTER BACKUS.

BASEBALL IN THE SCHOOL YARD.

Chicago, June 16.—In the Voice of the People I read an article criticising ball playing in school yards. I would like to know where the writer expects us to play baseball, as it is not allowed in parks except in small areas adequate to hold only two or three teams at a time. Too many boys turn to school yards as the only available place. As for breaking windows, I admit a few accidents happen, but usually the boys chip together to pay for the window. The money in the board of education is tight, so they prohibit baseball in the schools when windows are broken and not paid for by the pupils who break them.

CHARLES DUFFIN,

REAL VALUES.

Chicago, June 15.—Permit me to thank you for the inspiring and instructive article that was on the front page of Sunday's TRIBUNE, on the Field museum. Chicago needs more of such articles in order to find the real values of our city. You are rendering a most helpful service to the millions of our city in printing such articles. I will look forward with interest to future write-ups.

CLAYTON D. CRAWFORD.

IS THE RENT PAID?

Chicago, June 16.—I wish to settle an argument regarding what is a landlord man. Is a man owning a building with two or more flats considered a landlord man or just a landlord, providing he rents out one of the two flats?

SPEAKING OF OPERATIONS

[Columbus (O.) Dispatch.]

VATICAN ANGRY; ACCUSES ITALY OF IGNORING ITS NOTE

Controversy Rages Anew; Fascists Strike Back.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 19.—The Italo-Vatican controversy appeared today on the verge of breaking out again with renewed fury. Apparently vexed by an announcement from government circles that the latest Vatican note was conciliatory, "conciliating," the Roman tonight, with a tone of rebuke, charged that the Fascist government had not yet replied to the Holy see's note of June 13, and declared that no answer is yet envisaged to date nor can speculations yet been initiated.

This position, which was made known through a brief article in Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ, is considered as a way of emphasizing the Vatican's firm position that it will not accept the dissolution of the Catholic Action clubs, and that this matter will remain open even after reassurances have been given and reparations made for the violences and disorders which preceded their dissolution.

Holy See Ignore Note.

In this connection reports are current tonight, which official circles would neither confirm nor deny, that the Italian government will not reply to the latest Vatican note, resting on the position that its actions have been matters of policy within its own borders and therefore it considers the matters settled.

Lesser Fascists, a Fascist newspaper, which precipitated the fight three weeks ago by printing charges of political activities against the Catholic Action society, tonight threw more oil on the fire by publishing what purports to be a document by the bishop of Vicenza, giving instructions to the Catholic youth clubs as to how to proceed in view of the government's decision order.

Government circles today issued an organ intended to clarify the respective positions. The essential point of this, from the government's standpoint, appears to be that the pope in his recent note has not asked for a definite apology. What he asked for is characterized as "assurances for the future."

Fight New Mexican Law.

MEXICO CITY, June 19.—(AP)—Officials of the Catholic church, gathered in Mexico City to contest the new anti-Cross law which limits the number of priests and bishops for the entire state is given, resolved today to protest cautiously.

Ambassador Ruiz y Flores, papal envoy to Mexico, has protested vigorously to President Ortiz Rubio and has asked that the president intervene. The president is ill and it was reported he would not reply for several days.

Deputies from Jalapa today said Catholic and public employés were organizing a demonstration Sunday in favor of the new law and in support of the governor, who sponsored it.

FAILS TO IDENTIFY SUSPECT IN LIQUOR RAID ON EMBASSY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—The hopes of the Washington police department, which scored yesterday to the arrest of John J. Simonds as a suspect in the attack on the Salvadorean legation, wilted a bit today when Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of the embassy and the victim of the attack, failed to identify the suspect positively as his assailant.

DR. LEIVA.

Dr. Leiva, who was severely beaten when he surprised a trio of robbers making away with some of the legation's liquor about three weeks ago, declared that while the suspect was of the same general appearance as one of his attackers, he could not definitely state that he was one of them.

Some small solace for their shattered hopes in the legation case, however, came to the police today through the arrest of two of the "hatless trio," whose daring holdups have alarmed the city during the last week or ten days.

U. S. ENGINEERS JOIN IN SURVEY OF HARBOR SITE

Calumet Project Topic of Study.

The interest of the federal government in the development of a harbor in Lake Calumet to serve as a terminal of the lakes to gulf waterway was displayed yesterday when a representative of the department of commerce and two United States engineers joined an inspection party which met at 92d street and the Calumet river and proceeded by boat along the stream to Lake Calumet.

ALD. W. A. ROWAN.

The purpose of the trip, which was conducted by Ald. William A. Rowan, chairman of the city council's committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, was to survey the site on what may some day be the main transfer point of freight from lake steamers to barges plying the waterway between Chicago and the Gulf of Mexico.

Others Join in Survey.

In addition to the federal men—Col. W. G. Caples and Lieut. D. A. D. Ogden, both of the United States engineers, and C. C. Kirkpatrick of the department of commerce—the party included G. M. Ahrons, a commissioner of the port of New Orleans, members of the city council, the South End Chamber of Commerce, and the South Chicago Chamber of Commerce.

In the course of the trip Mr. Kirkpatrick outlined the plans of the newly organized group which he represents.

"We were sent here by the department of commerce," he said, "to survey all the economic factors involved in the Calumet harbor proposal. We will study the types of merchandise which move through Chicago and consider the most advantageous methods of transporting these products. We will tabulate all the merits and demerits of a deep water harbor in Lake Calumet."

Study Engineering Problems.

Col. Caples and Lieut. Ogden are studying the engineering problems which will be encountered if the harbor plan is approved.

When the economic and engineering reports are ready, it is understood that the matter will be brought before congress, which will decide whether the federal government should furnish the money for carrying the project to completion.

Peter Foote, chairman of the rivers and harbor committee of the Chicago real estate board, expressed his conviction that there would be no difficulty in selling space on the wharves to large industries if the plan is approved. He pointed out that when he was chairman of the industrial committee of the Lake Calumet harbor commission, 26 important companies offered to buy space on the wharves as soon as actual construction began.

40th Ward to Celebrate Trolley Bus Service Today

The 40th ward civic council has organized a celebration this afternoon of the installation of trolley bus service by the surface lines on Kimball avenue. The buses will run from Leland avenue to Peterson avenue. Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] will cut a ribbon at 1:30 o'clock at Bryn Mawr and Kimball avenues, marking the official opening of service.

JUDGE BLAMES HEAT AND THAT SETTLES IT ALL

Cool Words Put End to Hot Arguments.

When the thermometer rises above the 90 degree mark as it did yesterday and Thursday, some people go to the bathing beaches, some sit in front of electric fans, some cuss and groan and perspire, and some feel impelled to do things which get them into police courts. For example:

Miss Bobby Baker, 32 years old, 1823 South Lawndale avenue, and Dr. Eugenie Birchwood, 7618 Cregier avenue, were driving their automobiles east in Jackson boulevard yesterday morning. Traffic was heavy and the sun was just beginning to get in its work.

Miss Baker swooped past another car and into Dr. Birchwood's path, causing him to stop suddenly. Dr. Birchwood said a number of things and relieved his feelings by causing the front bumper of his car to collide with the rear bumper of Miss Baker's car.

Miss Baker, jolted, turned around and said a number of things in return.

All the way to Michigan boulevard, Dr. Birchwood continued to jar Miss Baker's automobile whenever she stopped. At the boulevard Miss Baker alighted and ran back to the physician's car. With a smile of satisfaction, she shattered Dr. Birchwood's side window. Policeman James Kennally stopped the heated argument by taking both participants to the South State street court.

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli was understanding.

"Let's just blame it on the hot weather," he said, inserting a handkerchief in a wilted collar. "Both of you are discharged."

Along about noon, in the same courtroom, as the heat waves began to shimmer, Fred Kluge, 1448 Belle Plaine avenue, appeared before the judge.

"You see, it was so hot Thursday that I hoisted a few frosted glasses," explained Kluge, who is a clerk in the board of assessors' office. "After that it seemed that it was just one fight after another."

Others arraigned with Kluge were Thomas Yougene, 4048 Greenview avenue; Harry Goldman, 525 Brompton avenue, and Ebey Weinstein, 1234 South Wabash avenue, the latter two professional bondsmen. Yougene had fought with Kluge for some reason or other and had been jailed with him. The other two had fought with Kluge after they had bailed him out and attempted to collect for their services.

"Every one ought to stick to ice water on these hot days," commented Judge Borelli. "But there's been no harm done. All discharged."

MERIT BOARD MAY ENTER QUIZ INTO MOVIE UNION RULE

The possibility that the city civil service commission would enter the investigation of the management of the Chicago Moving Picture Operators' union was seen yesterday when the grand jury requested Assistant States' Attorneys Charles Bellows and Charles Lounsbury to lay their evidence before the civil service board.

The grand jury, through its foreman, Frank O'Dowd, said the civil service commission should be advised of the conditions by which Joseph Maloy, a civil service employé, supervised the granting of temporary motion picture operating permits to applicants sent in by Thomas Maloy, his brother, business manager of the union.

Witnesses before the grand jury testified that more than 400 of these temporary permits had been issued, each of the applicants being required to return ten per cent of their wages to the union. The wages amount to $135 weekly and up.

Evidence was submitted, it was said, indicating that permits were granted to applicants who ostensibly failed to qualify. One operator, called as a witness, was reported to have testified that he could not read or write and took the examinations with the aid of an experienced operator. Another operator testified he had listed two theaters which did not exist, in Seattle, as references on his apprenticeship.

ASKS DIVORCE, ALLEGING WIFE MISSTATED AGE

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Alleging that his bride of fifteen months deceived him as to her age and other important details, John Meeker High Jr., socially prominent radio research engineer, asked an annulment of his marriage from Supreme Court Justice Frederick P. Close in White Plains today.

He charged that his wife, the former Clara Beatrice Bauer, who is living at the Hotel Scribe in Paris, told him she was 29 years old, when, as a matter of fact, she was born in 1894, and that hes two children, whom she described as being 5 and 7 years old, respectively, were really 13 and 15.

All of these allegations were made in open court after Justice Close had refused to grant a request that the hearing be held in chambers. Justice Close reserved decision.

Last July 15 his wife hurriedly packed her things and sailed on the Berengaria for France, High said, without warning him.

NEW 'SOLUTION' HUNTED IN THE FAITHFULL CASE

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Inspector Harold King of the Nassau county police announced today that he has been working for several days on information which, if true, will solve the mystery of Starr Faithfull's drowning.

Further than this the inspector refused to go, except to reply to a question that, "if it is true, somebody may be picked up" and that the person concerned is one whose name has already appeared in the investigation. Thus, in a very roundabout manner, he indicated that this information points to murder rather than suicide.

While Inspector King talked this morning, the family of the girl waited at Mineola prepared to testify before the grand jury. Mr. Faithfull brought with him a mysterious box wrapped in brown paper, but District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards postponed the grand jury hearing until next Tuesday, when about twenty witnesses will be examined.

BLIMP ARRIVES IN CHICAGO FOR THREE DAY VISIT

The Goodyear blimp Mayflower, one of the seven small lighter-than-air craft maintained by the Goodyear Zeppelin company for experimental purposes, arrived in Chicago last night for three days of flying in and about Chicago. The ship flew here yesterday from South Bend, Ind., landing at Curtiss field. It was piloted by Charles Brannigan.

The 112,000 cubic foot blimp was moored to a temporary mast at Curtiss field last night and today will be brought to the lake front, where it will land on Northerly Island near the Adler planetarium. World's Fair officials will be carried in a flight over the lake front to inspect the site of the Century of Progress exposition.

WIDOW KILLED BY GAS.

Mrs. Josephine Jawalwiski, 70 years old, a widow, 1408 North Paulina street, was asphyxiated yesterday after a gas flame had been extinguished by boiling water.

DIVER TRAPPED ON BOTTOM OF RIVER 7 HOURS IS SAVED

DAGENHAM, Essex, England, June 19.—(AP)—William Milton, a diver sinking caissons for the new Ford plant here, was rescued today from one of the steel tubes in which he had been imprisoned for 7 hours under 20 feet of water in the mucky silt of the Thames bottom.

He climbed into the tube to remove an obstruction which prevented its sinking. While he was in the tube the caisson suddenly slipped into position, pinning him under 5 feet of mud but leaving his air line clear.

Three other divers managed to work him free.

SIBERIAN TOWNS WILD AND WOOLLY BUT NO REDSKINS

Reminders of American Days of '49.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD TRANS-SIBERIAN EXPRESS, May 8.—[By Mail.]—Properly speaking, the Trans-Siberian railroad is double tracked for its entire length, all the way from Omsk to Karymskaya, where the line splits, the branch proceeding to Vladivostok via the Amur-Usuri route, all inside Russia. The other crosses into Manchuria, proceeds to Harbin, thence Japan and China.

Yaroslavl with its big railway and locomotive shops is the first large town out of Moscow on the Trans-Siberian line. Here the road branches eastward, leaving the Archangel line to plunge ahead directly northward.

Sverdlovsk Grows Rapidly.

Sverdlovsk is reached on the second morning out from Moscow and is a rapidly growing, sprawling town on the Iset'y river with 150,000 inhabitants. It is growing rapidly owing to the development of the Ural industrial region. Building is going on everywhere, five story factories and apartment houses of brick, stone, and concrete and rows of workers' homes.

Omsk, on the River Om, is three days away. To clean out the town and make room for workers, the government has just issued a decree adding it to the six large cities in which political and criminal exiles are not permitted to reside. Tremendous building activity is also noticeable here and the population is climbing steadily toward the 200,000 mark.

Novo-Sibirsk, the capital of Siberia, is reached on the evening of the third day. It has a population of 150,000 and lies on the right bank of the Ob. A huge new combine factory is just being completed on the edge of the city and production is confidently announced for next year.

Like U. S. Mining Towns.

One sees quaint sights in these towns [all of them are more than 300 years old] reminiful of western mining camps of the days of '49 in America. The unpainted wooden one story shacks, frequently with false fronts to make them look like two story buildings, the unpaved, uncurbed, unsidewalked streets! Telegraph poles stuck into the ground everywhere without thought of alignment, horses hitched and grazing in the front yards!

I saw one girl with a big rope of artificial pearls and two huge pearl earrings, walking along barefooted.

Here at Omsk the great Siberian road, the thoroughfare over which plodded the thousands of political and criminal exiles sent to the dreary wastes of the east year after year by the former government, crosses. The road is 100 yards wide, and unfenced, with a line of telegraph posts beside it. The soil is reddish brown in the road, as though tinged with the blood and misery of the countless hordes that tramped it in the last two centuries. The soviet government transports its exiles and kulaks by rail in barred and padlocked box cars.

Throw Hoboes in Jail.

The farther one goes east the fewer hoboes and child waifs are seen. They are thrown in jail and put to work quickly when they appear. Nevertheless one boy, not more than 12 years old, leaped off the "blind" of an incoming train as we pulled into Omsk, and scuttled away as a railroad policeman chased him.

For hundreds of miles one traverses a vast rolling plain, the Siberian steppe, with clumps of small trees, and occasionally a forest for a few hundred kilometers, then the brown bare earth of the steppe again. Thus far there has been little plowing. The winters are so severe that frost does not get out of the ground until well along toward the end of May.

Timber is piled up everywhere along the railroad waiting for shipment. Huge reserves of logs and trimmed wood and millions of railway ties and thousands of cubic meters of sawed wood, neatly stacked up beside the railway.

Donate Church Bells.

At Karmak I saw a pile of great bronze church bells piled upon the station freight house platform. They are to be shipped to metal works in the east.

"They were donated to the five year plan by peasants in various villages, who had no need of churches, so the bells were useless," a communist engineer said. "They are giving them to the government because it needs the metal. The bronze is used in the metallurgical program."

All the bridges are guarded by Red troops and there are barbed wire entanglements around the piers and machine gun emplacements kept neatly in order. The railroad is the one avenue of invasion, and all the White Russian leaders followed its steel path in the days after the revolution when they sought to overthrow the communities.

Greeted by Hailstorm.

Beyond Omsk is Taiga, where a branch line runs 75 miles north to Tomsk. It began to get colder here, and we passed through a severe hailstorm, accompanied by a torrential rain.

On the fourth day out the train reached Krasnoyarsk, on the Yenesi. It is connected by boat with Yenesseisk, a few hundred miles up the stream. New railroad shops are under construction here. A bitter wind blows continually from west to east across the steppe, raising clouds of dust where there is no snow, and bending the trees by the constant pressure until they are all misshapen and twisted as though crouching to avoid the intensity of the blast.

Yardley Tells Cipher Codes' Share in War

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

HERBERT O. YARDLEY is Sherlock Holmes, S. S. Van Dine, Anthony Gethryn, and all the other crack detectives rolled into one, and his book, "The American Black Chamber," is one of the most gripping and exciting mystery stories I ever came across.

Mr. Yardley is not a fictitious character; he's a real person, and his book is not the clever imaginative work of a writer of mystery thrillers; it's the real thing. All the stories in "The American Black Chamber" actually happened. And when you add to that the fact that this book has the destiny of our own country in wartimes as its pièce de résistance you'll see why it makes absolutely thrilling reading.

Mr. Yardley is a master cryptographer. He created the American Black Chamber, a war bureau whose purpose was to decipher the code messages of foreign powers. This bureau started with the author and one other person and grew until it employed 165 men and women. It proved itself invaluable during the entire world-war and at the peace conference.

All foreign governments possess such bureaus. Until the advent of Mr. Yardley the United States alone was inadequately equipped to decipher messages of world import. And the code we ourselves were using was so simple that any foreign expert could decipher it in a few hours, Mr. Yardley says. When one realizes that the movements of armies are often intrusted to code telegrams, that thousands of lives and even the fate of a nation may depend on one single message, it becomes evident that the country that is out of date with its cryptography is just out of luck.

First the writer describes the antiquated code room at Washington before the war, then shows how he built up the modern cryptographic bureau which functioned under the United States war department. What the Black Chamber accomplished furnishes the exciting material for the rest of the book.

Examples of the codes used by Germany, England, Spain, and other powers are given, together with their decipherment. An American actually opens the safe of a foreign minister and photographs, page by page, his code book. Yardley translates the code. A foreigner is caught in Arizona and, because of a scrap of paper on which is written an odd jumbling of letters, he is given the death sentence. The letters were decoded and the message thus revealed proved him a German spy. A letter is intercepted and the chemists of Yardley's staff get to work on it. It is written in invisible ink. When deciphered it reveals a plot concerning the Panama canal.

During the peace conference in Paris Yardley worked night and day decoding messages, discovering wolves in lambs' clothing, proving our so-called friends among our allies were anything but friendly. And then, after twelve years of service, a secretary of state ordered the doors of the Black Chamber closed! Our country is once more without the services of a cryptographic bureau.

Maj. Yardley, according to a wire from the publishers, has been appointed code and cipher consultant of the scientific crime prevention laboratory headed by Col. Calvin Goddard and affiliated with Northwestern university.

OHIOAN WINS $3,000 FOR BOOK SHOWING "GOOD IN AMERICA"

The $3,000 prize offered last year under the auspices of the National Arts club by John G. Agar for the best book on "The Soul of America," was awarded recently by the committee of judges to Robert Douglas Bowden of 416 Wick avenue, Youngstown, O., for his manuscript, "In Defense of Tomorrow."

The prize winning work was selected from 135 manuscripts as being the one closest to the requirements of the contest, as established by Mr. Agar.

His desire was to provide sufficient incentive for the writing of a book about America which "would not tear down the heritage of our nation and reveal only the sordid, ugly part of our national life, but one which would point out the good in us as well as the evil."

The presentation of the prize will be made at a special meeting of the National Arts club in New York, Oct. 23.

HOW ROBERT BURNS LOOKED TO PAINTER, WHOM HE APPROVED

In the June issue of The Colophon, a book collectors' quarterly, J. De Lancey Ferguson writes of this miniature of Robert Burns, which never before has been reproduced:

ROBERT BURNS. [From miniature by Alexander Reid.]

"There is little doubt that, with the sole exception of the Nasmyth portrait, it is the best extant likeness of Burns."

The miniature was painted by Alexander Reid early in 1795. Burns was then in this thirty-sixth year. It was in that spring he wrote "A Man's a Man for a' That" and the charming song, "Last May a Braw Wooer Cam Down the Lang Glen." Of this miniature, Burns wrote in May, to George Thompson in Edinburgh:

"There is an artist of very considerable merit, just now in this town, who has hit the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment that I think ever was taken of anybody. It is a small miniature; and as it will be in your town getting itself becrystallized, etc., I have some thoughts of suggesting to you to prefix a vignette taken from it, to my song, 'Contented wi' Little and Cantie wi' Mair,' in order [that] the portrait of my face and the picture of my mind may go down the stream of time together."

Burns died the following year and the vignette never was made.

Older Europe Brought Before Child Reader

"Roundabout Europe," by Anne M. Peck. [Harper.]

"Cruisers of the Air," by C. J. Hylander. [Macmillan.]

"The World About Us," by Ines McFee. [Macrae Smith.]

The joy of books and reading is one pleasure which vacation days can bring to all boys and girls whether those days be spent at home, at camp or by lake or seaside. The well stocked vacation kit or trunk will contain a number of these friends for quiet hours.

For the young person who dreams of future vacations spent in other lands, there is an exceptionally fine travel book in Anne Merriman Peck's "Roundabout Europe." This presents in delightfully informal fashion the interesting sights and scenes of the Mediterranean region, Spain, Germany, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland. Customs and side lights on native life as well as legends and folk tales of the countries make the book fascinating reading.

A story such as that of the dreamy old city of Bruges with its bells ringing out over the city as crowds gather in the market place, listening in the silence and darkness of the even tide, imbues the young reader with the atmosphere of the old city.

There is romance in the tales of the grand old castles of the Rhineland, and in the legends of the Black Forest, in the stories of Siegfried and Mimer, and of the great Charlemagne whom rumor has it wanders on moonlit nights among the vineyards which he planted so long ago which today produce one of the most famous of Rhine wines. It does far more than give the reader a picture of other lands for it carries him into the hearts of the invisible hosts who call them home, and creates a feeling of kinship.

It is one of the most enjoyable travel books for young people that I have seen in a long time, making a fine companion volume to the author's earlier "Story Book Europe" which covers Italy, France and England.

For the boy of scout age or older C. J. Hylander's "Cruisers of the Air" and F. K. Mathiews' "Boy Scouts' Book of Good Turn Stories" merit a place on the summer reading shelf. The first tells the story of the development of lighter than air craft, beginning with the fanciful dreams of Rogers Bacon in the fourteenth century and recording the progress through the centuries to its culmination in the modern dirigible. To this scientists today are looking for the ultimate solution of the problem of long distance air transportation on a large scale.

It is a story of magnificent achievement from the fanciful impractical gropings of those early scientists to the huge leviathans of today. A book of facts exceptionally well presented on a subject of interest to every thinking boy. The second book is a collection of stories which Mr. Mathiews has selected from writers of unusual ability and interest for boys.

The stories are all excellent and stand much higher in their literary evaluation than is usual in collections of this kind. Stories are idealistic but in no sense moralistic and will appeal to older boys regardless of their scout affiliations. Mr. Mathiews is Chief Scout Librarian.

For the younger children Inez McFee's "The World About Us" tells the story of familiar things and their beginnings. Rubber, linen, aluminum and numerous other articles of daily household use with which children come in contact are included. Facts are presented in story form, older members of the family giving the information in this way to the inquiring children. The presentation in this form constitutes in this writer's opinion a very definite drawback to a book whose material is interesting and of value, but which will be lost to many children who do not like this combination type book. Those who do like to learn facts as stories will probably enjoy it.

"Bon Voyage Book" Tells Much That Voyager Needs

Everything the ocean traveler needs to know, including a more or less sure cure for seasickness, is contained in the Bon Voyage Book, recently published. The author, whose pseudonym is "Old Salt," neither is Felix Riesenberg, William McFee, nor David Bone. He is reported to be a much traveled member of the staff of the John Day company, who publish the book.

Movies Turn Remarque from War to Romance

Erich Maria Remarque's first specially written screen story, "Fate," will be put into production before "The Road Back," the successor to his famous "All Quiet on the Western Front." "Fate" has nothing whatever to do with war. It is a modern tale, describing the problems of a physician in love with his patient.

ALDOUS HUXLEY'S SPIRITUALIST PLAY ON LONDON'S STAGE

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Aldous Huxley's play about spiritualism has been produced here with success. It is agreed that this play is full of wit and intellectual quality, and even its less cordial critics claim that if the third act were shortened the play would demand admiration without stint. Mr. Huxley has now returned to the south of France, where he has made his new home, and he will write more plays.

Compton Mackenzie is standing as a candidate for the rectorship of Glasgow university. This is a purely honorary post, and Mr. Mackenzie is the "nationalist" candidate. A magazine has been established to press his claims. The victor—there will probably be two other candidates, both well known public men—attends the university on the occasion of his installation, delivers a speech, is mobbed by the undergraduates, and (if he is lucky) escapes with his life.

The biography of the moment in London is the "Life and Letters of Sir Edmund Gosse," by the Hon. Evan Charteris. This is a very good book and very amusing, especially for those who can read between the lines. That does not mean that it is difficult to understand, but only that Mr. Charteris has a light and ironic pen. He gives a picture of Sir Edmund, who was for fifty years a critic, poet, and journalist, which makes the man stand before the reader as if the reader had known him. And a very curious and interesting figure it is that is revealed.

Two Biographies of Rockne Appear; More to Come

Two biographies of Knute Rockne have already been published, "Rockne," by Warren Brown, a Chicago newspaper man [Reilly & Lee], published May 20, and "Rockne of Notre Dame," by Delos W. Lovelace, assistant city editor of the New York Sun and husband of the novelist, Maud Hart Lovelace. One other is promised for Aug. 10 by the Macrae Smith company, written by Harry A. Stuhldreher, one of the famous four horsemen of Notre Dame. And the autobiography which Knute Rockne had nearly completed at the time of his death will be published by the Bobbs Merrill company, edited and with an introduction by Father Cavanaugh.

Mrs. Sinclair Lewis Busy Translating German Novel

While Sinclair Lewis works on his novel, Dorothy Thompson, his wife, is busily translating a German work. The latter is "Job, the Story of a Simple Man," by Joseph Ruth. In Germany it has been one of the best selling fictions books of the year. It is a story of a modern Job, beginning in the ghettos of Russia and ending in New York City. Arnold Zweig, Stefan Zweig, Lion Feuchtwanger, Ernst Toller, Frank Thiess, and innumerable others already have testified to its moving quality and dramatic appeal.

Do you like Treasure Hunts?

WHAT TEN-WORD SENTENCE CAN YOU MAKE USING ONLY THE WORDS IN TODAY'S ADS?

$1000 A WEEK IN CASH PRIZES

"GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS"

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words which appear in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

Ten little words—that's all you need to make up a Good Time Charliegram. Just pick the words out of any ads in today's Tribune except the Want Ads. Put them all together and they may spell one of the big cash prizes which the Tribune is paying!

Try it. It's loads of fun—just like a treasure hunt. Read the simple rules and start looking through the ads for the words now.

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 a week in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes for each week are as follows:

2nd Prize	100.00
Next 2 Prizes $50.00 each	100.00
Next 4 Prizes $25.00 each	100.00
Next 25 Prizes $10.00 each	250.00
Next 40 Prizes $ 5.00 each	200.00
73 weekly prizes totaling	$1,000.00

5. This offer is open to every one—men and women, boys and girls—except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. DO NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Fourth Series must be received in the Tribune office before 4 P. M. on Wednesday, June 24, 1931.

7. Contestants may submit as many sets of Good Time Charliegrams as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

8. You need NOT buy the Chicago Tribune. You may use the handy blank supplied each day in the Tribune or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made to each tying contestant.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Her 13 year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel, a man of great charm but no moral code. They are enemies and the possible heirs of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse de Lamballerie.

Iris planned to divorce Marcel and marry Mal. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Bannister, conduct a private search for Clare.

He comes to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there as a guest to have reformed. Alan meets Marcel and recalls having seen him at Le Touquet, associating with a coarse looking couple. That night Alan sees Marcel with Suzanne Marly, an actress.

A letter is sent to Iris, stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers a par the ransom price if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled. Marcel calls on Iris. That night an attempt is made to asphyxiate Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Marcel sends flowers to Iris the night Clare vanished. From Iris's description of the man who delivered them Alan recognizes him as de Bertincourt's companion in Le Touquet. Marcel, who is known to be heavily in debt, is suspected as the instigator of the kidnaping. With the ransom, known as Yetta and Pietro, his partners in crime, the motive under the ransom. Alan and Tommy make an unsuccessful search for the couple, but meet the latter have a half-witted son. Tommy sees Marcel leaving Suzanne Marly's apartment the letter scheduled for him to deliver the ransom. Alan calls on Iris and learns that Marcel has not returned home. Marcel arrives shortly after, badly beaten up, and declares he was robbed by the kidnapers. Tommy and Alan tell the story to the police. They return to question Marcel and find he has vanished. They leave to search for Yetta and Pietro, in the neighborhood outside of Paris where they are supposed to dwell, each taking separate roads. Charnwood learns from an innkeeper the whereabouts of the couple.

INSTALLMENT LIV.

THE CAPTORS' HIDE-OUT.

Charnwood paused, headed the other way, and took a few paces towards the village. It was hard to say why he hesitated and in the end decided to proceed alone. With his fingers tightened on the cold metal of his revolver, he swung off into the darkness, passed the fields he had lately crossed, and was began ascending the steep grade to the left.

Twenty minutes' hard walking brought him to the summit, where broken woodland opened up to reveal a ragged heath, dotted with gorse and spongy with withered bracken. A little distance off showed an irregular mere, set like a dull moonstone in a fringe of rushes. Moorhens roosted around the island in its center, and against the near bank was lodged a damaged punt, waterlogged by the water it had shipped. This, then, was the duck pond he had traversed miles of country to find. Half fearfully he scanned the broken shore it, and with a slight shiver saw the goal he had ceased to believe in—the house with the tower.

It loomed up in front of him, a dark, solid mass, aloof and desolate upon an enclosure bare of trees. The roofs, culminating in an ugly, squat pepper pot, rose on four sides to disclose the black shape of a bell silhouetted against the sky. Even in the gloom he could make out the general dilapidation—rotting poles, broken cornices, gutters in disrepair; but what chiefly struck him was that every shutter, top and bottom, was tightly secured. Not a glimmer of light was visible, nor was there any movement of live thing in the large straggling garden, which was enclosed by a high concrete wall. Approaching, he found a faded green gate, the stout structure of which refused to give an inch. Locked! His suspicion became certainty. The birds had gone away.

Yet determined to enter and explore, he set about finding a spot where he could climb the wall—not an easy task, for the ledge was level with his chin, and the smooth surface offered no foothold. However, he discovered a loose coping, wedged it against one of the pillars, and risking his weight on it, vaulted to the top. A second's pause while he looked for the half expected watch dog, then, as all was silent, he dropped lightly inside and went cautiously forward over the stubble of dead weeds.

A healthy tour convinced him that there was no means of ingress. Padlocked bars withstood, strong enough to withstand a siege. Whatever had been in Clare, she was not here now, but it was even more certain that the kidnapers had been anxious to exclude intruders, a fact which whetted his curiosity. Forthwith he resolved to force a window, and began at once a search for a suitable implement.

A rubbish heap collected against the rear wall attracted his eye. He had only to add a debris of decayed carpeting, battered pails and earthenware fragments, hoping to light upon a metal bar or stout piece of wood, and in this he was rewarded as iron ring, embedded in planks. A trap door, evidently leading to a coal hole—and better still, the catch was broken.

Pushing back the flap he looked down into a stuffy, black void, into which a flight of rotting steps descended. Without troubling to use his torch, the battery of which might be running low, he lowered himself confidently to the opening.

Crash! The stairs ended in mid air, plunging him through vacancy to land sprawling on an unseen mass composed, it seemed, of barbed wire and other protuberances. Dizzy, his shins smarting, he could do nothing for a minute but struggle and curse. His legs were entangled in what proved to be the rusted springs of a mattress, and each effort to free himself brought down upon his head. Extricated at last, he was only just swept the torch around in a circle.

The greenish wall, mottled with damp, was broken opposite by seven stone steps ending in a door. An instant only and he had tried the latter, found it unlocked, and pressing it cautiously, stood within the house itself.

He was in a large, clammy passage, at one end of which was a barred door, at the other a door slightly ajar. Again he listened. At first silence, then a sound which caused his skin to prickle and his hair to stir. Faint footsteps, scurryings, the rustle of torn paper reached him, while in the air hurried downward rushes of loosened plaster. He drew back against the wall, nerves taut. Was there some one here after all?

Then he guessed the meaning of the noises and breathed more easily. It was not what he heard, armies of rats, scampering boldly in every direction, undisputed claimants of the deserted premises. If a doubt had existed it would have been put to rout by the lean and ravenous rodent which suddenly thrust its nose around the bend of the passage, fixed him for a moment with fierce, glistening eyes, and tore past him like a demon.

Penetrating into the large kitchen, he saw signs of recent occupancy. The remains of a hasty meal stood on the table, or rather the plates, knives and forks, for every dish had been licked clean. Two common chairs, one overturned and slung into a corner, comprised with the table the sole furniture but there was a built-in dresser displaying a scanty store of earthenware and a half filled bottle. On the stove, which was cold, were an uncleaned saucepan and a frying pan. From a hook hung a string bag, empty but for some withered cabbage leaves.

From this cheerless room Charnwood entered a red tiled scullery. A piece of candle was fixed upon an upturned box beside the sink, into which water had dripped upon a piece of soap gritty with coffee grounds. Here there was not even a chair, but two-thirds of the floor space was taken up by empty bottles, carelessly stacked—wine bottles, spirit bottles, squat, square bottles, the aggregate sufficient to stock a small public house. It was inconceivable of two people consuming such a vast quantity of liquor in a month's time. He recalled what he had heard of Pietro's propensities and concluded that the past weeks of rural life had induced a relapse into former habits.

There was no means of lighting beyond an oil lamp equipped with a burner on the kitchen table and the bit of candle just mentioned. The lamp he lit, and taking it with him began a tour of the other rooms.

In the salle à manger—a barren expanse of artificially grained wood and hideous green lincrusta—he came upon two disheveled heaps of blankets, made into pallet beds. Elsewhere there was nothing movable, not so much as a shred of carpet upon the grimy parquet which echoed to his tread. Rags of cobweb swayed from the ceiling. One after another he explored the salon, morning room, library, and billiard room, to find only dust and desolation.

The same condition was repeated on the floor above, where chamber after chamber, dry and mildewed, paper peeling from the walls. Clearly the kidnapers had come with them, an argument against any stay, and equally proof that the interior of their domicile was not to be seen, even by tradespeople. Yetta herself, acting in her rôle of housekeeper, must have fetched in daily supplies of food, thus rendering it unnecessary for any outside person to visit the house.

In any case, the pair had now chosen to vanish. Yet no! How could they have gone away altogether, with that son of theirs left to roam about? Was it likely they would abandon him, having taken the trouble to bring him here, and, if the landlord was to be believed, to nurse him through illness? Perhaps I was mistaken about the boy I met, thought Charnwood, pausing on the way down. But whether it was Lepin's or not, they've had a boy there, that's evident. Only where did they keep him? I've seen only two beds. So far he had found nothing to indicate the presence of a third inmate, not the shadow of a possible fourth. Once more he looked about, this time by the ray of the torch up and down the walls. Midway along the corridor he found what he had previously overlooked—a narrow door, tried and fastened with an almost invisible latch. It yielded, swung back on creaking hinges. He saw ahead of him an upward twist of steep stairs, terminating to a partial attic.

Good Morning!

They do the same thing over—over and over again . . . !

In "Party Husband" you are faced with the old, old situation involving newlyweds who decide to retain their "individualities" after marriage, and run up against obstacles that have always interfered with modernity in wedlock.

Laura and Jay love each other truly. They discover—as have hordes before them—that human nature is human nature and true love doesn't like separate latch keys and freedom of the sexes. A fair trial of living "our own lives"—together—brings them to the conclusion that, after all, old fashioned marriage, like old fashioned strawberry shortcake, has the edge on the new fangled kinds.

Laura's mother springs a slightly unusual note in her homily delivered near the end of the movie. I won't sound it for you but, to me, it was the only feature that saved the film from being too utterly trite.

The acting throughout passes muster with laurels going to Helen Ware as the bride's mother, and to Paul Porcasi, portraying a temperamental and amorous artist who throws his guests out of his studio when he gets tired of them.

Lines and situations have little to offer in the way of sparkle or surprise.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 19.—[Special.]—Some of the amenities observed about Hollywood divorces are observed nowhere else. For instance, the break between Loretta Young and her husband, Grant Withers. Although both seem to think a reconciliation out of the question and a legal decree inevitable, Loretta has taken no step toward a divorce or annulment (which because of religious reasons her mother and Loretta would prefer) because Loretta, who is going good in pictures, doesn't wish to heap any stumbling blocks in the path of Withers' struggle back to a remunerative screen footing.

Slim Summerville's fan following has reached the point where Universal studio recalled the cast which, with Slim, made a short reel picture called "First to Fight" with background at the San Diego base of the United States Marines.

Summerville jumped into popularity in "All Quiet on the Western Front" and his new box office drawing power has followed him ever since despite the fact that Slim was a half starved character man working in all kinds of movies for ten years before the magic touch of "All Quiet" pushed him to the front.

It used to be that Ina Claire, prior to her appearance in Hollywood and her sudden decision to wed John Gilbert, was reported as engaged to marry Gene Markey of New York and then after Ina married Jack it used to be that Markey was seen much with Gloria Swanson and later with Jean Harlow. Meanwhile Ina applied to divorce Jack and was seen with Robert Ames.

Frank Carideo is to play in "The Spirit of Notre Dame" together with Lew Ayres and Johnny Mack Brown, the latter hero of University of Alabama's famous Pasadena football victory over University of Washington in 1925.

Mrs. Ernst Lubitsch, blond and striking ex-wife of the German film director, today promised to make an interesting announcement if she were asked next week whether she is to marry Hans Kraly. Her divorce from Lubitsch becomes final next week.

Fifi D'Orsay Plans to See Paris After Playing French Roles

That young woman who plays the rôle of a pert Parisienne on the screen, Fifi D'Orsay, announced yesterday on her arrival in Chicago that she was going, at last, to Paris. To date Atlantic City's the closest to Paris she's been. She learned her French in Montreal, Canada.

She arrived on the Santa Fé California limited at the Dearborn street station from Hollywood, and in the 25 minutes which elapsed before she left for New York, she dispensed information and posed for pictures. She will go to Louisville to begin a personal appearance tour, and following that on Aug. 22 will sail on the Bremen for Paris. Her engagement to Terrence Ray, young film actor, is to be a long time affair, perhaps 20 years long, she announced, for the sake of careers.

In the graduation ceremonies today at 11:30 a. m. he will present diplomas to 103 graduates, Mooseheart's largest graduation class.

They Gazed at Glacier, Says Scientist.

Pasadena, Cal., June 19.—(AP)—Primitive man occupied a five room dwelling overlooking the site of Hoover dam, on the Colorado river, ten thousand years or more ago, the American Association for Advancement of Science was told today.

He could look upon glaciers where today there is only an arid desert. The dwelling was not his own, however, he being just a visitor, for it was the home of the ground sloth and ancient camel, animals which exist today only in picture books or museums.

M. E. Harrington of the Southwest museum, Los Angeles, told about these early Americans in explaining the meaning of Gypsum cave, near Las Vegas, Nev.

This cave is a limestone cavern, 300 by 120 feet, divided into five principal rooms, with the floor very rough and irregular, Harrington said.

Harrington told of the discovery there recently of several hundred articles of human manufacture, buried beneath deposits of a hundred centuries, including bones, claws, hair, and even skin of the ground sloth, two species of extinct horses, and the bones of two or three species of camels, one of which, a very slender type, he said, may be new to science.

The hand made articles of the primitive man include darts, a flint knife, and torches to illuminate the dark chamber. The darts are painted in colors, the earliest evidence of decorative art in America, Harrington declared.

The time of these primitive dwellers of the American southwest is set by Harrington as the close of the Ice age, some 10,000 to 30,000 years ago. No human bones of that period have been uncovered.

Records of prehistoric people living in New Mexico, Colorado, and Texas twenty thousand years ago were reported by Barnum Bown of the American Museum of Natural History.

He revealed that among fossil remains of more than thirty buffalo were found seventeen arrows of the fluted type, a workmanship that equals if it does not surpass anything heretofore discovered in America. The discoveries were made near Folsom, New Mexico.

U. of C. Students to Seek Relics of Illinois Primitives.

Sixteen University of Chicago students will leave this morning for Lewistown, Ill., to begin excavations in the mounds near that city in an attempt to throw new light upon the customs of the "black sand people," a race which is supposed to have inhabited this state more than two thousand years ago. The skeletons and utensils which they hope to unearth will be part of the Illinois archaeological exhibition which Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole, leader of the expedition, is preparing for the Century of Progress exposition. The party is to remain at work until September.

Last summer a party from the university discovered nine skeletons of these primitive people buried in black glacial sand beneath mounds. The skeletons were different in structure from those of any other Illinois Indians and scientists believe them to be relics of the oldest race which inhabited this region.

Former expeditions have brought back to the university over 600 skeletons and 10,000 tools, utensils, or weapons by which primitive cultures can be identified. This year's investigators will seek implements and ornaments which will reveal the kind of life the "black sand people" led.

Seven other advanced students of anthropology left earlier in the week on one-man expeditions to study the languages and customs of present day tribes throughout the west. The summer's work will constitute the university's most intensive season of research on Indian lore.

Kalervo Oberg, a graduate student, will study the culture of the Tlingit Indians in Alaska. Stanley Newman will report on the Yokuts and Morris Swadesh on the Nitinats. Both tribes live in the northwest.

In the Columbia river valley in Washington, Walter Dyk will familiarize himself with the Wishrams and the Washos, while Victor Riste is scouting among the Natches Indians of Oklahoma. Dr. Harry Hoijer will reside in the Apache district of New Mexico, and Morris Opler will work for the laboratory of anthropology among the southwest tribes.

Streets' Heat Turns Thoughts to Poor's Plight

Makes Algonquin Shades More Welcome.

Did you wilt yesterday, under the torrid rays of the summer's hottest sun? Did you join the throngs that streamed to the beaches, to the soda fountains, to the cool recesses of darkened rooms, where electric fans hummed busily, in search of relief? Did you give up and confess that you were horribly, unhappily, hot? We hope so.

Because if you did, you have a vivid idea of what was happening in those areas of Chicago where beaches don't enter into the scheme of things, because they are too far away and it costs money to get there. Money that can't be spared. Where soda fountains never flourish because business lacks the motivating influence of a demand for their services—a demand that is nonexistent because pennies can't be wasted on such luxuries.

May be you can vision the gasping babies that endured these sweltering hours, cooped up in small rooms or on the steps of some tenement in the full glare of the sun, because shade trees are scarce and electric fans nonexistent. Perhaps you can imagine the drooping shoulders of those overworked, undernourished mothers of "back o' the yard," of the steel mill districts, or the near west side?

If your mental picture is sufficiently graphic, you'll do just what so many other people were inspired to do yesterday—sit down and mail a check or draft to the two funds that already are being drawn on heavily to combat these conditions this summer. One is the Camp Algonquin fund, which takes those mothers and those babies fifty miles away, to a haven of stately trees and rolling green country, on the Fox river. The other is the free ice fund, which send ice trucks laden with the frosty blocks, into those areas each day.

At the camp, hundreds of weary women and sickly children are restored to health and strength each summer season. Regular meals, wholesome food, plenty of sleep, rest between meals, and exercise constitutes a régime that routs disease and weakness and puts them in shape to face the world again with hope and good spirits quite inconsistent with their outlook.

Funds are needed badly in both these activites. Especially does the free ice fund need replenishing. Camp Algonquin's capacity is necessarily limited by money and by facilities.

New Hospital at the U. of C. to Be Dedicated Monday; For Children

The Gertrude Dunn Hicks Memorial hospital, the fourth unit for the care of sick children and the study of their diseases at the University of Chicago, will be dedicated Monday.

The hospital, made possible by a $300,000 gift from Mrs. Gertrude Dunn Hicks of the Hyde Park hotel, has fifty beds for crippled children. It is located next to the Billings hospital near Ellis avenue, and brings the hospitalization facilities of the Midway medical plant to nearly 600 beds.

President Robert M. Hutchins will preside at the dedication. Dr. Edward S. Ames, head of the department of philosophy, will make the presentation speech on behalf of Mrs. Hicks. She will be present and Dr. Nathaniel Allison, head of the new hospital, will speak.

Mere Size or Weight Has Little to Do with a Child's Development

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Not long ago I was talking with a doctor, between examinations, at one of the first of the progressive schools to come into existence.

"My chart of heights and weights for certain ages is all shot to pieces in this school. The children don't match up with it, at all. They're taller, or heavier, or both, for their ages."

But generally speaking, did you know that elaborate studies have proved that children of a given age are larger now than they were in former years? Interesting, isn't it? It may be partly accounted for by the fact that we have become food-conscious as a nation—there may be other or additional causes.

Dr. Mendel, physiological chemist of Yale university, has some interesting statements to make as a result of his studies of growth in children—statements which tie up with yesterday's article about freeing ourselves from accepting too implicitly the height and weight standards given in charts.

He points out some interesting things for parents to think about: That growth is the unique characteristic of childhood. That a bigger baby is not necessarily a better baby. That we think of growth as increase in size or volume—but that growth is infinitely more than that. The quality of growth consists not alone of increase in size, but in development. An organ may have reached its full size, but it may not have finished its growth—that is, its development. That every part of the body seen and unseen doesn't increase uniformly in size, and that normal growth means the maintaining of a balance of growth in bone and endocrine structures, etc.

We need new standards for the normal other than the present ones, which are usually those of height and weight. We want to get not the biggest size as quickly as possible, but the best quality of development.

All children will not, cannot develop the same as others because each child is endowed by his individual heredity with certain individual potentialities of growth.

1,651 Boys in Contest as Farm Judges at University of Illinois

Urbana, Ill., June 19.—[Special.]—Setting a new mark for the eight years of the competition, 1,651 boys from 186 high schools of Illinois today finished the first part of a two day competition to settle the state team and individual championships in the judging of fat stock, dairy cattle, poultry, grain and corn. Tomorrow the ten high teams in each division and all individuals who are tied will judge in the finals at the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Enrollment this year represents an increase of 186 boys and eight high schools. The contests started with 425 contestants from 73 schools in 1924.

The third annual convention of the Illinois Association of Future Farmers of America, named Donald MacMillan of Chillicothe, as president. There are 4,000 members of the association among the 8,000 boys in the vocational agricultural departments of 220 high schools of this state. Eldon Powell, Jerseyville, was elected secretary treasurer, and Charles Keigwin of Walnut, reporter.

Five boys were elected to the degree of American farmer, the highest one conferred by the organization. They will receive their new honors at the national convention of the association in October in Kansas City. Those so honored are Arthur Schick, Dixon; Charles Keigwin, Walnut; Randall Hart, Beardstown; Ivan Heiser, Minier, and Kenneth Denman, Antioch.

Seventy-eight others were elected to the degree of state farmer. J. E. Hill, state supervisor of vocational agricultural education; Stuart E. Pearson, director of the state department of agriculture, and A. W. Nolan, head of the teacher training department of the University of Illinois were elected honorary state farmers.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

TO SHOW PEONIES IN BANK.

Ten thousand peony blossoms will be put on exhibition by Paul F. Battey, engineer, in the lobby of the Continental-Illinois bank building Monday and Tuesday, June 22 and 23.

The blossoms will come from a 20 acre track of peonies which Mr. Battey has developed on gardens on the Dundee road 5 miles west of Glencoe.

Among the collection of cut flowers to be shown in the bank lobby will be the bloom from a peony plant that is more than 100 years old. The history of the plant has been kept accurately by Mrs. H. A. Bates of Golf, Ill., where the plant is now growing.

Mrs. Bates' great-great-grandmother cultivated the plant in 1850 at her home in Wellingford, Vt. Then it was shipped to De Witt, Ia. Thence it went back east in 1910 to Clarendon, Vt., and came west again in 1928 to be transplanted to the garden of Mrs. Bates at Golf.

The old time variety lays no claim to the beauty of the newer and more modern strains of peonies, according to Mr. Battey, but instead will provide interesting contrast with the newer shades of color and variations of blossom petals.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Joe, aged 3, was delighted to see horses pass in the street, but evidently had never seen one in a pasture until the day he rushed in with: "O, mother, there is a pony without his wagon on." J. M. G.

Peggy was quite ill and Verne's mother was getting ready to take her temperature, but broke the thermometer. Verne ran to the window to tell the little boy in the next yard about it. We heard him excitedly crying, "Mother broke Peggy's temperature." H. D. F.

Working Girl Wife Is Compared with One Who's Used to Wealth

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Do you think a girl who is of the high grade working girl class makes a better wife for a man like me than one who has always enjoyed leisure and moderate wealth? I favor the former. My parents advise me to do better for myself.

"My education is of the technical type. I was graduated from one of the country's foremost technical colleges. Girls of moderate wealth impress me as being victims of environment, in a way, not able to appreciate the practical problems and conditions one of my sort would encounter.—B. A."

There simply is no class rule or class distinction when it comes to marriage adaptability. Just the other day, for instance, I happened to visit a woman ten years married. She came unmistakably from the moderately wealthy class, perhaps a little more than that. She married a man who is not a money maker and never will be. They have three children; live in big, roomy house with a lot of ground around it some distance out of the city.

The place is attractively arranged, but not expensively in any detail. But for a happy home I heartily recommend that one. It's a tonic to spend an evening there. The girl never worked in her life before marriage. She's done plenty since.

There are girls in the so-called working class [but aren't most all American girls eligible to this group now?] who would and do make the best kind of marriage material. And other girls from this same group with all its advantages of dollar stretching training may turn out to be most inconsistently extravagant wives and poor household managers.

It's the girl herself, and what sort of stamina she has. I don't even know that training in household affairs is as essential as some would have us believe, for some of the untrained girls apply themselves surprisingly well to home management. Again it is the stuff of which the girl is made.

What matters most is that she have an abundant supply of vitality and energy; that your tastes be somewhat in common; that she can "get along" with you in your simpler and harder days and in your financial progress and that her character be such that her disposition good.

Horse Racing Today; Opera Opens Tonight

BY THALIA

TRANSPORTATION via a magic carpet would be the only means of getting around to all of the numerous events that beckon to society today's calendar.

Golfers and horse lovers will have to choose between attending the polo club's performance of the Lake Forest Horse show at Onwentsia and the Arlington Derby at Washington park.

In addition there is a garden wedding [the second one of the season] in Lake Forest, and a church wedding and reception in Riverside this afternoon. Then, with the day's activities attended to, there'll be just time for the north shore opera patrons to change for dinner and get to Ravinia for the opening performance of the season.

American Derby and Opera Ballerinas Are All Ready.

The American Derby, like its predecessors, will attract a large quota of fashionable turf followers, most of whom will be luncheon guests at one of the several large parties to be held at the clubhouse before the first race. Mrs. Normand Peabody and the Vincent Bealls, who are daily attendants at the track, will have several boxes as guests. Charles Knickerbocker, Joseph Leiter, the Arthur Meekers, and Potter Palmer will also be hosts to groups of their friends.

Subscribers at Ravinia, most of whom have maintained their season boxes for years, include Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, whose patronage of the opera during the summer is as regular as her attendance at the Chicago opera every winter; Mrs. Ralph S. Isham, president of the Ravinia association; Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Mrs. James A. Patten, and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mason.

At 4:30 o'clock the wedding of Miss Betty Poor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Poor, and Charles Winn Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Canfield of 191 Lake Shore drive, will be solemnized in the gardens of Ridge farm, the Poors' residence in Lake Forest. The Rev. William C. Covert, who officiated at the wedding of the bride's parents and of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tilden [today is their wedding anniversary], will perform the ceremony. A large reception will follow.

Miss Poor is to be attended by her cousin, Miss Helen Hoffman of Philadelphia, as maid of honor, and by other bridesmaids, including Miss Betty Hoffman, Miss Tevis Gibson, Miss Doris Mayer of Highland Park, Miss Harriet and Miss Ruth Ely, Miss Ruth Norwood, and the bride's sisters, Miss Kate and Miss Frances Canfield. Eugene Cary Jr. will serve as best man for the groom.

Miss Mackubbin Escapes Wed at Riverside.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Mackubbin, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Bowne Keagan of Riverside, to Lieut. Nicholas Meltzer, son of Mrs. Lucien Meltzer of Santa Barbara, will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Paul's church in Riverside.

Miss Barbara Keagan will be her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Ruth Jessup Goddard, Miss Frances Berry of Salt Lake City, and Miss Ruth Keiser of Riverside will be bridesmaids.

John Meltzer, the groom's cousin, will be best man, and the ushers will include Arthur, Thomas, and Philip Meltzer, and George and Henry Swarthmore. The reception after the ceremony will be held at the bride's mother's residence at 32 Nutwood road.

Miss Whiting Is Better After Appendicitis Operation.

Miss Whiting's acute attack of appendicitis caused no end of worry and fuss for a bit, but the excitement is quieted down and she is convalescing. She had gone up to the Grand club on Charlevoix, Mich., for the week end, and had the attack last night. An emergency operation was performed immediately by a local surgeon. Miss Whiting's mother, Mrs. A. G. Whiting, who was cruising to Mackinac from New York with the Ralph T. Johnsons, got the message about her daughter's illness at Port Huron and she and Mrs. Johnson motored on to Detroit.

Mrs. Whiting left Detroit for Chicago as soon as he heard about the illness, too. Dr. Eugene S. Talbot is now in attendance, but he is still in Chicago in a day or so. The distance calls and telegrams to Chicago kept the local hospital busy, and evidenced Miss Whiting's popularity.

The Belmont Country club has informed members that tea will be served around the swimming pool tomorrow from 4 to 6 o'clock. Members, children, and guests are urged to attend to meet the entertaining committee, which is headed by Mrs. Malcolm Ross Byron, and to learn all about the club's summer business and entries for the golf tournaments.

Items About Persons Who Are Taking Vacations.

Among . . . Miss Marion Oliphant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hall Oliphant of 325 Fullerton parkway, is going for a 3 months' visit with Mrs. Joseph Richardson at her home in Wadsworth, Nev. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McNally and their children are at the Barclay in New York for a short stay before leaving for the summer at their estate in the Thousand Islands . . . Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Logan, who went to the wedding last Saturday of Miss Mulroe, have been at Evans in New York all week, and expected back tomorrow . . . Margaret D. Tiers, daughter of Mrs. Clarence Tiers of New York, has returned to the east after a visit with Mr. Walter S. Frimley of Hubbard Woods.

The White Elephant Rummage shop will hold its last home dressmakers' sale of the season next Thursday. The sale will include a collection of old and new dresses that have been in stock for some time, as well as models and other wearing apparel. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is chairman of the committee in charge.

Union of Factions Within Judaism Is Predicted by Rabbi

Wawasee, Ind., June 19.—[Special.]—Orthodox, conservative, and reformed Jewry are gradually coming close together. So declared Rabbi Samuel M. Gup of Providence, R. I., this afternoon at the annual convention of the central conference of American rabbis here. Rabbi David Lefkowitz, president of the conference, is presiding.

Each division of Judaism, said Rabbi Gup, is variously affected by the impact of modern thought and conditions of life. He added that fifty years ago the issues between orthodoxy and reform were compelling; today those issues have receded. Led by university trained rabbis, the American type of orthodoxy is destined to supersede orthodoxy in general.

"Reformed Judaism on its part is having a renaissance of Jewish education, ceremonialism, and fellowship with the people of Israel."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 19.—[Special.]—Alan Hoover, who returned here with his parents from their week-end at the camp and their visit to the midwestern states, is at the White House.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bennett of Hinsdale, Ill., are at the Mayflower after making a stay at the White Sulphur Springs and at Sweetbriar college in Virginia. There the latter's daughter, Miss Nancy Slade, will enter as a student. Miss Slade is with them.

Society, Elders and Children at Horse Show

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

LAKE FOREST'S annual two day horse show which opened yesterday on the Onwentsia club grounds is more elaborate and pretentious than ever before.

A new row of boxes has been added; there are more horses entered, and more varieties of classes, including several of the harness events that have been abandoned in the last few years in favor of the hunting and jumping classes; and besides there is the dog and pet show, housed in the big new riding arena along with a group of circusy attractions such as side shows, ring-the-cane, and hit-the-milk-bottles contests.

The setting for the show was colorful and picturesque—the newly painted white box stands with Onwentsia blue and gold pennants fluttering in an occasional breeze, the numerous parties of women and youngsters all garbed in sheer, pretty sports clothes; the well groomed steeds stepping smartly around the tan back ring, the group of officials and judges doling out blue, red and yellow ribbons under a huge oak tree in the center of the ring.

The Dog and Pet show building was busy and sweltering. At one end the 300 or so dogs were being judged; along one side were the interesting variety of pets, including snapping turtles, canaries, white bunnies, Persian cats, pigeons, hens, ducks, the twin heifers from the William H. Mitchell farm, the Toggenburg goats from the Charles A. Stevens place at Lake Delavan, and the burros, or "mountain canaries," also from Mr. Stevens' farm.

Each of the pets was awarded a ribbon. Miss Barbara King and a group of young women supervised a sideshow of freaks, and a committee of boys, including Philip D. Armour the younger, Charles and Lester Armour, John Behr, Laurence Carter, Julian Armstrong, John King, Noyes McLennan, and Anthony Ryerson, were in charge of a concession corner. There you threw balls at things and, if your aim was good, were awarded a lurid painted doll, or toy dog, or a vivid box of candy.

The parent and child riding class was one of the most interesting of the afternoon events. Austin H. Niblack and his tiny daughter, Helen, astride a minute pony, Puddle Duck, were the winners, and other entrants were Mrs. Samuel J. Walker and her young son and Ira C. Darling and his daughter, Miss Jane Darling.

Summer Fashions Displayed by Spectators at Show.

Fashion trends in sportswear indicated the popularity of the colonial influence sponsored for this summer by the Paris stylists. The all-white costumes, white with touches of blue or red, the tri-color combinations, and the browns and yellows were noticeably predominant. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, who joined Mr. Cudahy to greet Mayor Cermak on his arrival, was attired all in sunny yellow, and Mrs. Donald Douglas' white suit with a red, white, and blue striping was one of the smartest.

Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley and Mrs. Crosley and their guests were among the early afternoon arrivals, the men in their white uniforms adding to the festive scene. Commander and Mrs. Martin Donaldson and Capt. and Mrs. Henry L. Dollard were box guests of the Crosleys. Mrs. Scott Durand's box guests included Mrs. Caswell Alan Sharpe, Mrs. T. Paris Says Wide Brims for Summer Fashions

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris millinery modes have taken to dividing the seasons very definitely into four again. In the old days of the ubiquitous little felt runabout and the knitted wool beret, you couldn't tell whether it was December of July by looking at a girl's head. But now there's no doubt in anybody's mind about the general date marked by the calendar. Paris says wide brimmed hats of lacy straw, horsehair or gossamer crocheted silk for sunny days, and reserves her felt for sports and her velvet for Christmas.

Sketched herewith are three new Paris versions of the brim. Hélène Chrbett, a young American designer who is making an impressive place for herself in Paris modes, designed the tip top one for the Comtesse Louis de Reist. It's in fine black horsehair tulle with shallow crown and brim decorated by appliqued flowers of black mousseline embroidered with silk round their edges. It's mounted on a "hair ribbon" of emerald green velvet that trails streamers down the back.

Suzanne Talbot tempers the hugeness of the open work, white hemp straw capeline in the center by cutting it away in the back, so that the two sides resemble pointed palm leaves. The shallow crown and the "depressed" movement over the forehead are typical Talbot style points. It's trimmed with a band of red ribbon and two lacquered flowers, one red, one white.

Beauty Is Usually Result of Attention and Determination

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The general run of people have the impression that girls and women who have attained reputations as beauties just naturally fell heir to beauty's cloak at birth and that was all they had to do about it.

Take the stage or screen stars, who are quoted on beauty things, for example, or who are now big box office attractions, due in no small part to their rare pulchritude. You look at them in the current state of beauty development and say, "Some girls have all the luck," or something to that effect.

Yet, there may have been no end of beauty struggle to lift certain of these now gorgeous eyefuls to their present exalted place. In an article in a current beauty trade publication, you may read how some of the screen beauties have had to battle their beauty way just as they have had to batter down obstacles of various sorts. And, in this, I think, there should be renewed impetus for some of our young ladies who give up, after a brief trial, to make something more decorative of themselves.

One of the big stellar lights, in fact, the most imitated, admired and copied of them all, is reported as making her first appearance around Hollywood studios in almost ugly duckling guise. Her hair was unbecomingly frizzed, her shoulders were unusually square; she was too heavy, and her hands and feet were disproportionately large.

Another whose hair styles had a wide vogue was originally possessor of a drab and lifeless head of hair. Of still another highlight in the female ranks of movie stardom, it is said that in her first studio appearance she resembled a Mexican housewife—no distinction, no chic. Today her first name is distinction and her second chic.

Of yet another now famous for her cleverness of dress, it is said her bow to Hollywood was made in the most careless, even bizarre costume and this over a form pounds heavier than she is today.

You may not make Hollywood—but you can make a beauty record in your own community, if you've the same mind to do it as had these girls.

N. P.: SWIMMING IS ONE OF the best exercises. It cuts weight down if done regularly. There is scarcely a muscle in the body that escapes action when you swim.

B. G.: A HEALTHY TONGUE IS moderately red, clean, and moist. If it is coated there is a stomach or liver derangement, and tainted breath will be found.

SUMMER EXCURSION SEASON ON LAKE GETS EARLY START

Preseasonal popularity has the lake excursion business booming, various steamship companies reported yesterday. Large groups that have chartered boats for trips to various points across the lake are inaugurating the summer activities several days before they were due to swing into the annual schedule, officials of the Goodrich line said.

Today 2,000 members of the Christian Endeavor society will sail to Michigan City, and tomorrow 1,200 members and guests of several fraternal organizations will take a trip to Benton Harbor. But the season will actually get under way on Sunday, June 28, when 2,000 young people of Baptist churches here will go on an excursion to Michigan City.

Yesterday the steamship Theodore Roosevelt arrived in Chicago from Manitowoc, Wis., to begin its summer work by accommodating a party from the Edgewater Presbyterian church. This morning the boat will carry delegates and visitors to the International Luther league convention on a cruise along the shore line, leaving at 2:30 p. m. and returning at 5:30.

Tomorrow the Roosevelt will bring 2,000 baseball fans from Milwaukee to see the White Sox-Athletics game in which Al Simmons of Milwaukee will play with the Athletics.

Food Talk.

The best way to prevent disagreeable cooking odors is not to originate them. If one will analyze objectionable kitchen smells one will find that in almost every instance they start from carelessly cooked or spoiled food.

To illustrate there are the unpleasant odors that result from cooking strong juiced vegetables such as cabbage, turnips, or onions in the wrong way. These may be almost completely avoided by cooking the vegetables in an open kettle. As these vegetables cook in a closed vessel the volatile organic acids condense with the steam on the lid, then fall back onto the vegetable, where they react on sulphur compounds in the vegetable fiber and the result is decomposed sulphur salts that are offensive.

Another objectionable type of odor is that of burning fat. And there is no excuse for this kind. A hot frying pan should never remain on the fire with only fat in it. This means the cook needs to stay on the job, watch her cooking, and if she must leave the kitchen, then only for a few minutes. In hot weather cooking fat that stands around at room temperature will soon become rancid. This chemical change is accelerated because there are often particles of cooked food in the fat.

If the cook is obliged to use the fat a second time it should be run through a fine meshed sieve to remove every particle of food, then put into the refrigerator. Vegetables should not be allowed to stand around the kitchen in water, especially in warm weather. Even potatoes soon start fermenting when the weather is warm in three or four hours. It is far better to keep vegetables in the refrigerator wrapped in a damp cloth.

COFFEE SAUCE.

Steep the coffee in half the cream. Strain it through a cheesecloth over a fine strainer. Add the sugar, a pinch of salt, the rest of the cream, and the yolks of the eggs, beaten lightly. Put all this together into a hot double boiler, and stir it constantly till it thickens. Serve it hot or cold. This sauce is also good with a little whipped cream folded into it—say, about 1-3 its bulk.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 19.—Our Cubs bounced out against Vance this afternoon before the Dodgers was able to hold the Cubs for the first three innings. In the fourth and awesome snarls they came at Joe and his successor, Ray Shealy, and scored ten runs on seven hits and five errors in the fourth and fifth innings. This flurry of rapid fire finished the bulk of the scoring, as it was 12 to 7 score.

Hal Smith took his place as the regular Cub pitcher when he was called up with his seventh victory of the season, but the glory was that of his mighty brethren, for Robert got a lot of punishment. This included a homer by O'Doul, a triple by Herman, and two doubles by Finn and a total of 11 hits.

If of which was a lot of hitting, of humanity was eclipsed by the batting of the Chicago lads. Hack Wilson made his eighth homer and also made a double that missed being a homer by not more than a foot. Hack also drew two passes.

Dal Retires Side in Fourth.

Dal Watson had three runs home for the Cubs had made their first tally in the second inning Wright led off with two down and scored on Lee Finn. Finn was out, however, when he overslid third, Wilson to Herman to Jurges. In the third inning the Robins got two runs. Vance singled to right with one out and Frederick walked. Gilbert flied out, but Herman doubled, scoring Vance and Frederick.

Cubs Tie Big Fourth.

Herman led off the big fourth with a Cub hit, a bouncer to Wright, and stopped at third when Bell fouled off the top of the screen in right field. Hemsley struck out and Gilbert came to the bat. When he held it for a single, Stevie scoring on Wright's taking third. Grimm was safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Wilson. Hemsley was out at second. The runners moved on Jurges' sacrifice, but Lee Smith filed to Frederick. Cuyler singled to left, scoring Herman and Grimm. Then English struck out and Woody staged a rally. Hornsby singled past Cuyler scoring and English taking third. Rog went to first on a throw to the plate. Cuyler relieved Shealy and cast a double play. Hartnett scoring.

Brooklyn came back in their end of the fourth and made two runs to tie the score at 6 to 5 in the fifth. The markers were made on a single, Finn's second hit of the day, and a single by Heimach.

Cubs Resume Scoring.

The score too close for comfort, the Cubs stepped out in the sixth and got themselves four more runs. Cuyler walked and went to second. Hemsley beat out a bunt to Wright. The bases were filled when Grimm bounced a bunt over Shealy's head. Jurges then doubled, scoring Cuyler and Hemsley scoring and Grimm stopping at third. Smith batted for Lombardi, but Cuyler singled to Bartell's glove, Grimm scoring and Jurges taking third. English reached first on a fielder's choice, Wright worked the squeeze play, Jurges scoring. Hornsby filed out. The Cubs made their eleventh run in the seventh. Grimm opened with a single and was forced by Jurges when Cuyler stole second. Then after English had flied to Frederick, Jurges scored on Cuyler's triple to the center garden.

The Cubs' 13th run was Hack's first homer of the season and his first in a week. O'Doul also got a homer in the eighth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mack's titleholding Athletics proved again yesterday that the American league pennant affair, from a competitive standpoint, is merely a gesture. With numerous hits of various dimensions they shoved the White Sox all around Comiskey park and made away with a 10 to 4 decision before 20,000 folks, more than half of whom were ladies' day guests.

Manager Bush did the best he could do for his clients by starting Pat Caraway, his choicest bit of pitching ability, but the lengthy Pat, instead of a deterrent, proved a tonic for the Macks' batting averages. Pat fell behind in the first inning and his mates gave him a fresh start by tying it up with a salvo against Bob Grove in the third, but Pat refused to be encouraged. He continued to be thumped with regularity, and in the fifth Bush yanked him so that Jim Moore and Red Faber could suffer through a few uncomfortable moments trying to fool the enemy.

Macks Hit for Distance.

The mode of attack employed by the Mackmen was that old but effective style known as hitting for distance. Al Simmons, who didn't seem to be annoyed by Bush's theory of pitching low and slow to him, reeled off a homer, not to mention two singles. All these were off Caraway. Mr. Todt, an understudy, exploded two homers for a total of five runs. These were at the expense of Moore and Faber. And Haas added to the day's confusion with a triple. He followed with four singles, thus making for himself one of those cherished days known in the trade as five for five.

In making their futile attempt to win their second in eight starts this year against the titleholders, the Sox thumped the speed balling Grove fairly hard, but much of the hitting was done after two were out. The exception to this was the third, which put Caraway back on even terms. In this episode they got four hits, preceded by a pass. One of the hits was a round trip smash by Lew Fonseca with two on base. Subsequently Fonseca got two more safeties.

A two run jump for the supremely confident champions in the first inning was due mainly to Fonseca's lack of familiarity with the fly catching art. Caraway started the game by walking Bishop. Haas followed with an ordinary lofter close to the line in left and it dropped for a triple. Bishop scoring. Todt bounced to the

BY WILFRID SMITH.

All plans have been completed for forming the 5,500 contestants into the inaugural parade of the Chicagoland Sports Congress tomorrow afternoon at Soldiers' field. And Capt. T. J. Howard of the South Park police also has announced the rules which will govern traffic in Grant park tomorrow. The South Park officers will be assisted by a detail from the city police.

CAPT. T. J. HOWARD

All contestants will report at the Court of Honor north of Soldiers' field at 1 o'clock tomorrow. No traffic will be permitted in this space except the thirty-four buses which will bring contestants from outlying districts.

Fifteen Units in Parade.

The parade will have fifteen units. Each unit will form at a standard and will be in charge of its own leaders and guides from THE TRIBUNE Athletic association. The order of march, which will start promptly at 1:45 o'clock, follows:

Band, Czecho-Slovaks, Turner drum corps of the Illinois district, Illinois district turners, Forman Junior High school band, Foreman Junior High school and other high school students, Polish Falcons, Northwest Parks' drum corps, Northwest Parks' athletes, Norwegian A. A., Norwegian Girls, Catholic Slovaks, 33d division Illinois National Guard, band, Ukrainians.

The parade will march south along the west stands, cross the south end of the Stadium, and the first units will circle the field marching to their reserved seats in the west stands. All other contestants will be seated in the east stands.

Dunne Leads Tug of War Team.

Two hundred and fifty soldiers, who will compete as a team in the gigantic tug of war, will be under the command of Duke Dunne, athletic officer of the 33d division of the Illinois guard. Six hundred feet of rope, twice as long as the gridiron on Soldiers' field, is necessary for the mammoth test of strength.

Arrangements also have been made for an emergency hospital, which will be located under the west stands. Dr. Lewis K. Eastman will be in charge. He will be associated by Dr. William Rothman, Dr. R. M. McCulley, Dr. Harold Marsh, and Dr. C. T. Plaut and Nurses Grace Meinking and Margaret Stahn.

The Eleventh street bridge will be closed at noon tomorrow to vehicular traffic. It will be used solely as an entrance to Grant park by pedestrians arriving at the lake front by street car, elevated and Illinois Central trains.

Buses Unload at South End.

All buses, except those bringing contestants, will unload at the south end of Soldiers' field. Twenty ticket booths will be distributed on the west, south and east sides of the Stadium. Twenty-seven gates will be open to facilitate handling the crowd.

Parking will be permitted as usual in the spaces at the south and east sides of the Stadium.

East side—Poles, Catholic Slovaks, Norwegians.

Frain in Charge of Ushers.

Two more large rooms are available on the east side of the Sadium, but many of the contestants will come uniformed. The Foreman Junior High school boys have made arrangements so that they will not need to use the dressing rooms, relieving the congestion.

Sections in the stands in which the contestants will sit until their numbers on the program will be in charge of ushers. Andy Frain, and a corps of his men, who have handled Golden Gloves boxing bouts so efficiently in previous years, will direct the crowd at the ticket booths and the gates. South Park police also will be stationed at the booths, gates and inside the field.

The Program

1:45 to 2:10—Parade and flag raising.

3:50 to 4:10—German turnverein.
4:15 to 4:20—Tug of war, 500 competing.
4:25 to 4:40—Massed apparatus drill, 700 competing.
4:45 to 5:05—Polish Falcons.

ED DUDLEY'S 139 TAKES LEAD IN WESTERN OPEN

Collins Lowers Hagen's Record with 67.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dayton, O., June 19.—The story that Walter Hagen, the old maestro of golf, was coming back this year appeared to be just another one of those stories tonight at the end of the second round of play in the thirty-second Western Open golf tournament at the Miami Valley Golf club.

The genius that brought Hagen a record breaking 68 yesterday faded into mediocrity this afternoon, and the artist of yore became just another golfer. While Walter was turning in a rather sorry 75 for a two day total of 143, two others who had been among yesterday's pursuers sprinted past him. One of them was Ed Dudley, the loping, soft spoken boy from Wilmington, Del., who smashed out a 70, one under par, which, together with his 69 of yesterday, gave him 139 and first place among the sixty-four qualifiers in tomorrow's 36 hole final round.

Collins Breaks Record.

And early this morning, before Dudley or Hagen came near the course, a local boy rose up to defend the golfing name of his home town. He was Jock Collins, Dayton Country club professional, who held the Miami Valley competitive course record until Hagen took it away from him yesterday. Jock, a fidgety little man with a pair of anemic mustachios adorning his upper lip, literally took the course apart with a new record score of 67.

Collins held the competitive course record until yesterday, when Hagen smashed it with 68. Collins' 67, with his 74 of yesterday, gave him 141 and placed him second.

Hagen Slips to Fourth.

Hagen slipped back into a tie for fourth place with Gene Sarazen, defending champion, and Olin Dutra, younger of the two California brothers. They finished the second round with 143. George Von Elm, still handicapped by a dislocated left thumb, went into third place by shooting 70 for a second round total of 142.

Back of the fourth place trio were a stranger from Little Rock, Ark., Julius Ackerbloom, and Bob McDonald, Chicago, with 144, while Olin Dutra's big brother, Mortie, who played with Hagen, finished with 145.

Dudley, who attracted a larger following on his round today than yesterday, was dashing along on the second nine as though bent on breaking the course record set by Collins earlier in the day. He had birdies on the fifth and ninth and was over par on the third, seventh, and eighth, where he was two over when he got into a trap and took five.

Four Birdies in Row.

He played par golf until the twelfth, where he knocked down the first of four successive birdies, getting his seventh of the day on the fifteenth green. All of them came as the result of one putt greens.

He was one over par on the sixteenth, but his poorest luck of the day lurked in the shadow of the clubhouse on the home green. His second shot carried a bit too much force, and the ball bounded onto the green and over. It crawled up the slope near the press headquarters, wavered at the top of the rise, and finally fell back into a little valley off the green.

He overchipped the hole by ten feet, missed the putt, and finally pushed the ball in for a five, one over par.

Six Birds Help Collins.

Collins was one of the first players to leave the first tee this morning, and he proceeded to get under way by hanging up birdies on the first and second holes, adding two more on the fifth and sixth. He wound up his collection of six for the day by going under par on the eleventh and thirteenth.

Jock was irked after the round be-

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New London, Conn., June 19.—With an Irisher named Jerry Cassedy pulling the stroke oar, the Harvard boat crew beat Yale for the first time in four years this evening in a race that brought two of the stalwart young Yales crumpling down in exhaustion in the last quarter-mile.

Yale finished with a crew of six surviving toilers at the sweeps and two passengers who could only manage feeble pecking motions at the water of the American Thames. Sheldon Foster in the bow crossed the line flat on his back, too badly beaten by a final desperate sprint to keep his hands on his oar. Bill Garnsey, rowing number four, had had to give up for a few strokes as the boats neared the finish line, but came weakly into action again as the beaten ship drifted across.

Harvard Captain Collapses.

Capt. John Hallowell, number two in the undefeated Harvard boat, lasted long enough to see his crew win going away from Yale, but the punishment of the four mile pull up river on slack water beat him, too, as soon as the race was won. After a short delay a launch came alongside and he was helped out of the shell and replaced by a substitute for the short, leisurely pull down to the Harvard boathouse.

Harvard jumped away to a lead of almost a length in the first 100 yards and with the exception of a brief instant in the final quarter-mile when the Yale bow shoved ahead to a point about amidship of the winning shell, the margin never was less than a length. Harvard's time was 23 minutes 21 seconds, against a record of 20:14 2-5, and Yale's, 22:21, more than two lengths behind. The race that put three men down, two of them before the finish, was a fierce struggle from the big black skeleton of the railroad bridge in New London until the Yale crew finally went to ruin just a few seconds from the end.

Yale's killing sprint, if it had been sustained, might have caught Harvard, for those young men were not unaware of the strain themselves and were losing their lead when the crash came and Yale's boat lost momentum as suddenly as if it had rammed a rock.

Yale's Bow Gives Up.

A shout along the river, "Yale's bow is down," focused the gaze of the gayest throng in American sport on the reclining figure of a young man yanking at his oar with the last flicker of his strength. Foster came up once and tried to resume his work, but it was too much. He let go, fagged back and was sick and [illegible]

BY FRENCH LANE.

The American Derby, carrying an added money prize of $50,000 will be run for the 23d time at Washington Park this afternoon.

Overnight fifteen 3 year olds, hailing from many parts of the country, were named for the famous old race. If the skies remain clear the Derby will be witnessed by a crowd of 40,000.

Forget about Twenty Grand, the champion, and Jamestown, the champion two year old of last year, and you have all the fashionable 3 year olds of the year in the parade to the post in today's Derby. Perhaps it is fortunate that Twenty Grand isn't here. For if he were on hand most of today's Derby field would have been frightened completely out of the race.

East Backs Mate.

But Twenty Grand isn't here to scare out the weak hearted; so the Derby speculation went merrily along last night, more brisk than ever since the Derby has been renewed at new Washington Park. Mate was the favorite at 2 to 1. Sun Meadow was the second choice at 3 to 1, with Knight's Call, Lightning Bolt, Spanish Play and Oswego all having plenty of backers.

A strange angle to the Derby eve speculation was the lack of support for Boys Howdy, the Canadian colt which won the Derby trial last Tuesday. Nobody wanted to play him but the persons who were laying the odds didn't take many liberties and it was not possible to get more than 10 to 1.

Backers of long shots yesterday were recalling how Reveille Boy won last year's Derby and paid something like $113. Many folks seem to think the same thing will happen today.

Don't Overlook Sun Meadow.

Maybe it will. But while this is written as a sweltering sun beats down on the scene of the Derby a big bay colt over in barn No. 7 (you've heard of old lucky 7) neighed across the infield and seemed to be saying, "Don't forget I'm the big horse." The big bay colt in barn No. 7 was Sun Meadow.

The east is going to bet on Mate, the Preakness winner, and that was the only thing last night that caused him to remain a shorter priced favorite than Sun Meadow. Perhaps there will be so much support for Sun Meadow along about 5 o'clock this afternoon that he will supplant Mate as the public choice.

Joey Bibb, a colt from Lexington, which has been showing some great stretch runs lately, will be the longest priced horse in the race. If he should win, he will pay more than Reveille Boy did last year. But there is no certainty that Joey will win. He would not be the extreme outsider but for the grouping of six horses which will run as the field. The field horses will include Ladder, Don Leon, Royal Ruffin, Morpheus, Sunny Lassie and The Mongol.

Ladder Doubtful Starter.

With the exception of Ladder and Morpheus there isn't much in this sextet. It is doubtful if Ladder starts. With Ladder out of it the field will parade toward the post at something like 20 to 1.

The American Derby will be staged in all its pomp and splendor, although there will be no tallyhoes, tandems or four in hands. The new generation is going to this Derby in automobiles, on the train or in a bus while grandpa and grandma stay at home and recall the days when they could sip a bottle of wine with their chicken sandwich and see horses like Highball, Spokane and other notables race to victory.

While the Derby visitors at Washington Park yesterday were awaiting the appearance of the 3 year olds they watched an orgy of long shot victories take place at the Homewood course. Twenty to one shots were as common as an old shoe.

Oscillation, Wayne, Panchio, Canfit, Rolling Sea and Coady were some of the outsiders to triumph. But just because a lot of long shots rambled home yesterday it is no sign it will happen today. Better watch the favorites and Sun Meadow in the Derby.

Polo Ponies of Argentine Team Arrive

Polo ponies valued at $200,000, which will serve as mounts for the Santa Paula sextet of Argentina for the international matches here next month, arrived in the city yesterday and immediately were transported to Lake Forest. The string, consisting of thirty-one ponies, was accompanied by eight grooms and Thomas C. Nelson, manager of the team.

Two of the horses, Fiorette and Mio Mio, are regarded as two of the most valuable polo mounts in the world, both being valued at $25,000 apiece. Despite the heat, the horses made the trip from Caramillo, Cal., in good shape and in a few days will go through final conditioning for the international matches at the Onwenstia Country club grounds.

The Argentine poloists, who now are at sea, are due to arrive in Chicago July 1 for their three game series with the Old Aiken quartet of Long Island. The opening contest will be played July 11 with the others on July 15 and July 18.

Mr. Nelson made the trip from Argentina to the coast by airplane and directed the transporting of the horses from California to Onwentsia. He feared the heat would work a hardship on the ponies, but was relieved to find that the animals held up well on their crosscountry ride.

New York's Six Game String Broken.

New York, June 19.—[Special.]—Paul Mitchell and Joe Heving held the Pittsburgh Pirates to five hits today, but they collected four of them in the first two innings and defeated the Giants, 4 to 1, in the second game of the series. Ray Kremer, who pitched the full game for the winners, kept the six hits he allowed scattered. The Pirates had lost six straight and the Giants had won the same number in a row before today's game. AMERICAN DERBY.

WILL it be Mate, Sun Meadow, Ladder, all from the east, or another Reveille Boy in the American Derby at Washington Park this afternoon? That is a question which might not be asked if Twenty Grand were a starter. Because the Greentree stable champion is not required to run again so soon after his Belmont victory is why this historic stake fixture, borrowed from old Washington Park days, is an open race.

Sun Meadow may prove that he is "coming," that his second to Twenty Grand in which he outfinished Jamestown, is just the start toward greater 3 year old honors. Mate, winner of the Preakness and third to Twenty Grand and Sweep All in the Kentucky Derby, may prove he deserves the rating to which his Pimlico victory then entitled him. Ladder, third in the Preakness and unplaced at Louisville, may claim a position in the sun again.

Against this trio the west will offer the best it has. And what is that? Handicappers already have grown balmy trying to classify these western performers which have such a disconcerting habit of beating one another. But that also is the reason why if the eastern colts are beaten, the winner is likely to pay a liberal price, although hardly as liberal as the juicy odds recorded against Reveille Boy a year ago.

It is unfortunate for the class but not for the contention that Twenty Grand, Jamestown and Epithet are not among the starters. It is therefore a race of the type which sends many punters to the long shots in the hope of upsetting the choices. And if a long shot wins, what a shout of acclaim, for the punters at race tracks are the fellows who make the noise when the favorite falls. Incidentally, the Wake this time is likely to be among the $2 bettors trying to find one to down the favorites.

"What do you do," we asked the president of an outlying bank, "when you see a chap approaching whom you feel sure is about to make a touch and whom you suspect of being a professional?" The Wake wishes it distinctly understood by readers that we do not subscribe, except as humorous sallies, to the anecdotes of depression submitted by some Helpers. We're an optimist. Why? Because no period of depression ever lasted. The world has not completely reversed itself in two years. Even if it had, what good would it do to moan about it?

Macks' Bats Subdue Sox in Opener, 10-4

The Haas - Simmons combination functioned again in the third, one run being registered to make it 3 to 0 in the champs' favor. Haas started the session with a single too hot for Kerr to handle. Todt laid down the customary sacrifice bunt. Simmons immediately contributed the usual single to left, Haas scoring.

Fonseca Hits Homer.

The process of tying the count at 3 apiece in the Sox portion of the third started when Cissell walked with one out. Reynolds singled through short for his second hit. Grove slipped over a couple of strikes on Fonseca and apparently decided that he could suprise the batter by aiming another across the middle instead of following the usual method of wasting a couple. When the ball came sailing over Fonseca swung and it went into the left field seats.

The deadlock existed only until the Macks could unload a few more swings against Caraway in the fourth. The inning opened with Reynolds making a one handed stab of Dykes' long fly. Heving walked and was forced by Grove. Bishop's single sent Grove dashing to third and he moved the remainder of the distance on Haas' third hit. Then Mr. Simmons came up in the fifth and added another to the champions' total by blowing his homer into the first floor of the left field structure. A moment later Caraway was told that he could dress for dinner.

After what happened to Moore in the sixth the Sox decided they were definitely out of the argument. For a starter Grove fanned but this wasn't a real indication of Moore's skill. Proof to this effect was furnished almost immediately. Bishop walked and scooted to third on Haas' fourth consecutive hit. Then Todt stepped into the center of activity with his slam which whistled its way into the right field stands, first floor.

The scoring of a run by the Sox on singles by Appling and Blue and Cissell's long fly evidently aroused the Athletics' pride. At any rate they bounced back in the eighth to disturb Faber, who had just started work. Red set down the first two men, whereupon Haas beat out a doubtful hit to Kerr. Todt brought him in out of the torrid sun by booming his second homer into the right field spaces.

Tilden Tech went into a tie with Lindblom for the south and central sectional championship of the Chicago Public High School Baseball league yesterday by defeating Bowen in its last game of the semi-final round, 17 to 0, at Hamilton park. It was Bowen's second defeat.

Bowen will complete its schedule Tuesday, meeting Parker which has won one game and lost one, at Hamilton park. Victory over Bowen will give Parker its second triumph and a tie with Tilden and Lindblom for the sectional title, the winner facing the north and west champion at Wrigley field on June 27 for the league crown.

Sheldon Brunner, Tilden southpaw, yesterday held Bowen to one hit until the sixth inning when he was relieved by Roland Carlson, who also allowed only one hit. The victors collected 15 hits off Bill Haarlow and Eddie Orr.

Bob Raginis, Tilden's third baseman, led the attack. He scored a home run, a double, and sacrifice in three times at bat.

Lane Tech will attempt to move another step toward defending its 1930 championship this afternoon, when it meets Schurz, also of the north section, in the final game for the north and west side title at Logan Square park. Eldon McLean probably will be on the mound for Schurz, while Johnny Hari will pitch for Lane.

THALHEIMER AND WILLIAMS REACH DOUBLES FINALS

Beat Jennings-Braudt in Western Net Meet.

Louis Thalheimer and Luke Williams, former intercollegiate stars, qualified for the doubles finals in the western tennis championships at River Forest yesterday by defeating George Jennings and Gordon Braudt, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, 6-2.

The match was played beneath a blistering sun, which took its toll from every member of the quartet. Better following earned Thalheimer and Williams the decision after two and a half hours of intensive play.

Braudt and Jennings worried their opponents by sending a mixture of sizzling drives and lofty lobs across the net, which the victors had difficulty in returning. The heat finally affected the younger pair, however, who lacked the stamina to keep up their original pace.

An Important Match.

The match had assumed championship importance, despite the fact that it was only in the semi-final stage, because it was fairly certain that the winners would be sent to Boston to represent the western district in the national doubles.

In the quarter-final round the Lejack brothers, Charles and Leo, upset the early dope by defeating the doubles team of Marcel Rainville and Herbert Bowman, seeded No. 1. Because they had better coöperation and team ability, the two brothers were able to affect the individual efforts of the two tournament stars, who failed to pool their play satisfactorily.

Catherine Wolf Wins.

In the women's singles Catherine Wolf, Indianapolis school teacher, played a better brand of tennis than Mrs. Ruth Riese and won, 6-3, 6-2, to qualify for the final bracket. Mrs. Riese seemed listless under the hot sun and unable to extend herself to return the accurate placements of Miss Wolf.

Miss Wolf, present western women's champion, will meet either Clara Louise Zinke of Cincinnati or Mae Cuerverst of Wichita for the title tomorrow. The semi-final match between the latter two was postponed until today because of the terrific heat.

The process of determining a men's singles champion will be simplified today when the tourney goes through the semi-final brackets. Marcel Rainville, the little Montreal star, is to meet Herbert Bowman, New York clay courts champion.

In the lower bracket Harris Coggeshall and George Jennings will fight today to enter the finals tomorrow.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE IS OVERCOME IN APARTMENT FIRE

Two gold coast apartments, a high school and a drug store were damaged by a series of fires on the north side yesterday morning. Families were routed from their homes. The 2,700 students at the Lake View High school, 4015 North Ashland avenue, marched from the building to safety in the blaze there.

The worst blaze occurred in the home of Walter H. Brandenburg, wealthy member and former vice president of the school board, whose apartment is on the 14th floor of the building at 3240 Sheridan road. Mr. Brandenburg, alone in his apartment, narrowly escaped death when he was overcome by smoke. He was carried to safety by his brother, Otto H. Brandenburg, who occupies an apartment across the hall and who was aroused by the fire.

Furnishings Catch Fire.

The school trustee apparently had left a lighted cigaret in a tray when he retired. A lake breeze is believed to have tossed the cigaret onto a carpet, setting fire to the costly furnishings. The damage was estimated at $70,000.

A similar fire started almost at the same time in the apartment of Albert Birkenstein, president of a metal company, who resides at 426 Aldine avenue, only two blocks from the Brandenburg building. The fire there originated in a rear bedroom where Miss Ruth Birkenstein, daughter of the manufacturer, had stored her trousseau. She was awakened by the flames and sounded an alarm. Walter J. La Buy, county commissioner and owner of the building, who occupies one of the first floor apartments, was aroused and warned the other occupants of the building who fled to safety. The loss was estimated at $10,000.

The fire in the Lake View school was discovered shortly after 8 a. m. in the girls' gymnasium as the students were arriving for their first classes. The school alarm was sounded and all the students marched out in good order, following the regular fire drill routine. The cause of the fire was not determined. Principal O. C. Winter dismissed classes for the day. Repair work was begun at once. The damage to the gym was estimated at $4,000.

A drug store at Clark street and Montrose avenue was damaged to the extent of $10,000 in another blaze.

BOMB $40,000 SUMMER HOME ON LAKE MINOCQUA

Rhinelander, Wis., June 19.—[Special.]—Authorities here today were investigating an attempt to destroy Pinewood Retreat, $40,000 summer estate on Lake Minocqua which was damaged by a mysterious explosion early yesterday morning. The Retreat, owned by Louis Neuville, Minocqua real estate man, was offered to former President Coolidge as a summer White House three years ago.

The living room, dining room and other parts of the lower floor of the thirteen room residence were badly damaged by the blast. The explosion aroused Joseph Shinard, caretaker, who resides in an adjoining building, but he could not explain the cause. Mr. Neuville, who was preparing to move into the estate for the summer, said he could not account for it unless his property had been mistaken for some one else's. He said he had had no serious trouble with anyone.

Car Hits Obstruction and Overturns.

A young bride was killed and her husband, father, and brother were slightly bruised late last night when their automobile struck an obstruction in Irving Park boulevard a mile west of Mannheim road. The fatality victim was Mrs. Ruth Fowler, 18 years old, wife of Roe Fowler, 112 East Superior street, employed in the editorial department of THE TRIBUNE.

The injured are Fowler; Frank Swagler, 2643 North Richmond street, and Frank Jr., 13 years old. They were taken by a motorist to the Chicago State hospital at Dunning, where Mrs. Fowler was pronounced dead. The Fowlers and the Swagiers were riding west in the boulevard with Mrs. Fowler's father at the wheel. The machine hit the obstruction and turned over. The Fowlers were married last February.

Three other deaths were reported, increasing the Cook county motor toll to 518 since Jan. 1.

Unidentified Boy Killed.

One of the victims was about 13 years old and unidentified. He was clad in a bathing suit and trousers and was evidently returning home from a beach when he was killed. The accident occurred at 32d street and Kedzie avenue when the boy dropped off a truck and stumbled in front of the machine of Rudolph Novak, 20 years old, 3032 West 62d place.

John Retta, 16 years old, 4542 North Kilpatrick avenue, died at the Belmont hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an auto as he was about to board a street car at Montrose and Kilpatrick avenues.

George Smith, 63 years old, of 5151 South Tripp avenue, was killed late last night by a speeding automobile which failed to stop. The accident occurred in Archer avenue at South Kolin avenue. Smith was taken to the Holy Cross hospital by witnesses.

Motorcycle Policeman Hurt.

Motorcycle Policeman Carl Carlson, attached to the Morton Grove county highway station, and three other persons were injured when his vehicle crashed into a milk wagon in the 3300 block, Irving Park bouleyard. The others are John Pantas, 3235 Warner avenue; Samuel Strowiss, 3226 Haddon avenue; and John Retka, 4606 Wilson avenue.

Mrs. Bessie Weeks, 30 years old, of Ligonier, Ind., was probably fatally injured and burned yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into a truck outside of Michigan City, Ind. The car, driven by her husband, Fred, burst into flames, trapping Mrs. Weeks and two children. The husband and Peter S. Mackay of Hansons Mills, Ind., driver of the truck, rescued the children, neither of whom was injured, and Mrs. Weeks.

Seek to Reduce Fatalities.

Aiming to prevent and curtail fatalities in automobile accidents, a series of conferences is being held by city officials, it became known last night.

Announcement of the meetings was made by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the council committee on traffic. Among those participating in the conferences are Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, and City Traffic Engineer Sorenson.

SWOPE AND FORD TO BE HEARD ON RADIO TONIGHT

Two of America's industrial executives will be heard over a nation-wide radio hookup this evening when Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, will present the one millionth General Electric refrigerator to Henry Ford for the latter's Edison Institute of Technology.

GERARD SWOPE.

Mr. Swope will make the presentation from the National Broadcasting company studios in New York City, while Mr. Ford will accept the gift at the Edison institute in Detroit. Floyd Gibbons will be in Detroit to describe the scene to the radio audience.

"In less than four years more than a million electric refrigerators have been made and sold by the General Electric company," said Richard Cooper Jr., head of R. Cooper Jr., Inc., distributors here for the product.

"This is an outstanding achievement in production, as well as sale. It was 22 years before there were a million users of electricity in this country; it was 32 years before the first million telephones were in use; it took 25 years before a million automobile trucks, of all makes, were registered; and it even took Henry Ford much more than four years to build his first million automobiles."

Two veteran employes of the board of education were found dead in their beds yesterday from heart attacks. They were Patrick Winn, 68 years old, 1107 Albion avenue, engineer custodian of the Schurz High school; and Peter Nix, 56 years old, 6059 South Francisco avenue, chief clerk in the engineer's office of the board.

Both men were at work on Thursday. Winn is survived by his widow, Annie, and four children. Nix is survived by his widow, Christiana, and two sons and a daughter. John Howatt, chief engineer of the board of education, said that all employes of the department would attend the funerals on Monday.

Mr. Thornburgh was 64 years old, and was born in Cleveland. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marion Thornburgh.

Frederick W. Seymour, 100 years old, veteran of the civil war who carried the Stars and Stripes for Gen. Sherman during the march to the sea, died yesterday afternoon in his home in Maywood, 614 South 8th avenue. He had been ill only since Monday, and two months ago had been the central figure of a civic celebration in Maywood in joint recognition of his 100th birthday and the dedication of a new American Legion building.

Born in Utica, N. Y., on April 14, 1831, Mr. Seymour enlisted in the Union army with the 22d Wisconsin volunteers and served throughout the conflict. He was wounded four times and imprisoned twice. He was regimental color sergeant under Gen. Sherman and placed the Union flag on the steps of the courthouse at the capture of Atlanta.

Mr. Seymour settled in Maywood 43 years ago and for 16 years was a police magistrate there. He was one of the suburb's widest known citizens.

JUDGE WHO PUT SINCLAIR IN JAIL DIES SUDDENLY

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—Justice Frederick L. Siddons of the District of Columbia Supreme court, who sentenced Harry F. Sinclair to jail, died suddenly today, aged 67, of heart disease.

He sentenced Sinclair to serve six months in jail for contempt of court after the oil man's trial for conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of Teapot Dome had been interrupted by the disclosure that the jury had been "shadowed."

Later, when the trial was resumed, a jury in Justice Siddons' court acquitted Sinclair and the jurist nolprossed a similar conspiracy charge against Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior.

Justice Siddons had served 15 years on the local Supreme court bench. He was a native of London and was a great-grandson of Sarah Siddons, a noted English actress.

GRAF TAKES A DIP; GLIDES A MILE ON LAKE CONSTANCE

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 19.—(AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin settled down on the surface of Lake Constance today. The alighting on the water was effected without the assistance of an outside crew, such as is used when the ship is descending on land. A couple of police boats were standing by in case of need, but they were not called on.

Capt. Lehmann in command of the ship, manuevered so the passenger gondola was the first to touch the water. A moment later the engine gondola astern touched the lake, and, after a couple of rubber lifeboats had been lowered and tested, the dirigible taxied along for about a mile. A specially devised mushroom anchor also was tried out.

WHAT MAKES PEOPLE MOODY?

Did you know that our health and our moods are closely related to intestinal cleanliness?

When the system is clogged by constipation, poisons are generated. Often these bring on headaches and listlessness. You feel blue, or become irritable.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

Try it with milk or cream. Use in cooking too. Recipes on the red-and-green package. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FRAUD CHARGED BY SON IN WILL OF G. H. WHITE

Charges that the will of his father which disinherited him, was a forgery and that he believes his father, George Hastings White, rental agent for the Chicago Title and Trust company, came to his death "by an unlawful act," were made in a petition filed yesterday by Stanley Warner White in the Probate court.

A rehearing on the will, which was admitted to probate on June 12, will be held today.

Miss Elfrieda Prestel, 1303 Newport avenue, secretary to Attorney Luther D. Swanstrom, law associate of United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, was made sole heir by White to his estate, which has been variously estimated as worth from $15,000 to $50,000.

The son states in his petition that Miss Prestel kept company with his father for thirteen years, and was engaged to marry him for four years before his death.

"And further," the petition states, "the first page of the will was substituted for the original first sheet of the will, so as to leave the property to her, and the signatures on the first and second sheets are a forgery."

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

FIND SUMMER TRADE SLUMP OF SLIGHT EXTENT

Let-Down Seen Most Noticeable in East.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—The customary dullness in retail trade every summer again is apparent in all sections of the country, the weekly trade review reported today, but it shows only a slight letdown in general activity.

Demands for seasonal goods continue, Bradstreet's reported, but in many cases has not sustained satisfactory volume of business. The slackening from last week seems most noticeable in the east and east central states, while wholesale and jobbing lines, still less active than retail, appear to be making progress upward.

Six and five retailers to replenish their low stocks, the review said, was helpful to have an actual effect on wholesale business, and a certain amount of optimism evidently was being justified. Most of the retail business was being done in moderate and low priced merchandise. Women's wear and millinery, although somewhat in demand than earlier in the year, continue to be among the best sellers. Bathing suits and other summer wear are among articles in demand. Sporting goods also were doing well.

Feel the Bottom, Is Belief.

Business shows no sign that business will break through the bottom on which it has been stabilizing itself for some time, the Business Week reported today.

The seasonal letdown in the general trend of activity seems on the whole to be little, if any, more than usual for the time, the review said, and, in some sections slow improvement since the beginning of the year has become evident. This is most marked in trade that is closest to the consumer. Retail trade reports are reassuring as to sales.

The trade situation has been helped somewhat by greater stability in prices for wheat, R. G. Dun & Co.'s summary of general business said. While conditions continues in many lines of industry, others showed renewed activity.

Bank Clearings Increase.

Bank clearings this week cover large international settlements, also some corporation tax payments due at this time, and are therefore in excess of the preceding week. These payments, however, are greatly reduced from those of a year ago, which were included in the bank settlements of this week last year; hence the decline this week from last year's record is usually marked.

Total bank clearings in the leading cities of the United States are reported by Dun's review at $5,788,951,000, and are 18.3 per cent below those of one week ago. New York City clearings of $3,163,165,000 are 23.8 per cent less, while the aggregate at centers outside of New York of $2,575,786,000 is 25.4 per cent smaller.

Reductions at most cities outside of New York are somewhat less than at that city, as many of the exceptionally large settlements made for these annual payments last year centered at New York. Losses were especially severe at Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, and San Francisco. At some southern cities less serious declines were shown.

U.S. Lead Production in May Increases Over April

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—United States lead production in May totaled 43,117 tons, against 38,439 in April, and 42,111 in March, according to the monthly report of the Bureau of Metal Statistics. Stocks at the end of May were 142,370 tons, against 133,457 in April, and 130,813 in March. Shipments were 31,-, in May, against 35,324 in March.

Domestic mine production in May was 36,137 short tons, against 39,637 in April, and 37,339 in March, according to the bureau. United States production totaled 35,688 tons, in April, and 32,328 in

These heaped up commodities now constitute an enemy to broad economic recovery, says the article by Edward Jerome Dies, writer on speculation and marketing, and a member of the Board of Trade.

"Red lights that have blinked down the highways of business for two years will continue flashing their warnings. Business is stymied. Broad recovery is impossible while these vast surpluses hang over world markets. Until they are removed millions of cotton workers will remain impoverished and grain farmers will see more of their lands seized through foreclosure.

"Removal would at once revivify grain and cotton industries with their immense farmer buying power; factories would reopen; retail stocks would move; freight and passenger business would swing upward, preserving the rail system and the holdings of millions of small investors; and the armies of idle would again find work.

Bonds Under Farm Board Load.

"Today the back of the nation is bent under the farm board load. These stocks should be withheld for a definite stated period, to be used only in event of war or famine.

"Professional farm spokesmen forced the government into a tragic blunder in enactment of the law. It is but one step more to socialism if their unsound doctrines are further pursued. The hour for swift, courageous government action has tolled."

Enactment of the farm relief law is characterized as the culmination of "a golden age of rural racketeering in which organizers grew rich." The law did not represent farmer wishes, and Washington misjudged sentiment, it is asserted. Farmers have been injured, "but labor is scowling at this government aid, not realizing it has brought only distress. The murmuring masses of idle cannot understand apparent government favoritism to agriculture.

"Meantime all lines of business quake under every new blast of politics. Extension of government into other branches of commerce is deeply feared. This fear grips the purse strings of thousands of business leaders who would like to start the wheels of industry humming once more. But all sit tight and wait.

Asks Relief from U. S. Relief.

"Farmers, anxious to fight their own battles, are now appealing for relief from government relief. They complain they have had enough bad advice and futile tinkering with economic laws. They point out that an army of 22,000 people are on the pay roll of the department of agriculture, which issues 33 million publications yearly, and which should be adequate for the busy farmer.

"Again we hear loud complaints on the nation's steadily increasing tax bill. The cost of government in the United States this year will run between 12 and 13 billion dollars. Seven years ago there was one family on the tax pay roll for each thirteen families providing that pay rool. Today it is one family to twelve. The time for serious thinking and quick action has arrived."

Tragedy of Price Pegging.

"It has been asserted by neutral observers that Europe's anger over America's price pegging policy decided Europe to do with less American wheat, to lift tariffs and to enforce milling regulations curtailing the use of imported wheats. Germany put her wheat tariff at $1.62; France at 85c, and Italy at 87c. Yet the law is intended, among other things, to broaden our foreign markets and control our surplus.

"With the 1930 crop year drawing to a close, the farm board expected to have upwards of 200 million bushels of wheat on hand July 1. Carrying charges on this wheat and cotton, also held, have been estimated at over $175,000 a day.

"Far back in the days when markets were used by adventurers who sought to bludgeon and control the channels of trade and work squeezes and corners, there was an old saying that it was easy to corner a market but hard to bury the corpse. The government has a ghastly wheat and cotton corpse to bury."

TREASURY DEFICIT TO BE LOWER THAN HOOVER ESTIMATED

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(AP)—Taxpayers today seemed determined to prove even the President can be wrong about federal finances. Recently President Hoover estimated the deficit would stand at about $950,000,000 when the financial year closes June 30. The treasury was then deeper in the red than since 1919.

But the deficit was tumbled abruptly below the chief executive's predicted figure today by second quarter installment payments on 1930 incomes. Judging by past records, treasury officials believed the year would close with expenditures exceeding receipts by less than $900,000,000.

On the credit sheet for the day were income tax payments of $89,910,855, a total which exceeded payments on March 17 by $1,000,000.

In estimating a last day deficit of less than $900,000,000, officials had placed June income tax collections at $290,000,000. Tabluations to date show $165,807,977 of this sum is already in government coffers.

Another explanation of the declining deficit was found in the expenditures column. Earlier estimates had placed the fiscal year aggregate at about $4,435,000,000, while, with only a dozen days remaining, government expenses are running nearly $350,000,000 below this sum.

For the financial year to June 17 the treasury had collected $3,140,884,200 in revenue, of which income taxes supplied $1,730,436,800, customs receipts $365,045,300, and other internal revenue taxes $549,067,500.

Activity in High Grade Bonds Precedes Return to Normal

BY SCRUTATOR.

It has been the history of business depressions that the beginning of a trend back to normal in securities buying is preceded by a period of extraordinary activity in highest grade bonds.

A large part of these first class bonds fall into the class known as "legals," which means that they are qualified for purchase by savings banks, insurance companies, and trust funds in such states as New York, Massachusetts, and Connecticut.

A tumbling down of security prices following an era of inflation frightens investors. They demand the most conservative and highly marketable paper they can buy, no matter how low the yield.

Widening of Spread.

There results a widening of the spread between the market prices for first grade issues and those of the other classes of bonds. This spread continues wide until confidence begins to return. Then the less popular issues begin to attract a following because of the high yield offered. Buying begins and prices react favorably.

About a year ago there began a boom in legals. The normal demand for such issues by banks, trust funds, and insurance companies was greatly augmented by increased buying by individual investors. This business increased in succeeding months. And it continues good.

How soon this buying will broaden into other divisions bankers will not hazard a guess. But they agree that very little buying would be required to push prices materially upward.

The market for other than topnotch bonds just now is exceedingly thin. Institutions that have set out to buy more than ten or twenty bonds of any good issue find that not more than a few are to be had at the current offering price. Any evidence of the entrance of a buying element into the market immediately sends the price up 5, 10, or more points.

Little Distress Selling.

There has been some distressed selling of late, but not much. But it is on the prices of the few bonds that have been thus sold that the market quotations rest.

The very thinness of the market and its readiness to rise under the least stimulus indicates that it is not a fair gauge of the real value of many issues.

In the last week or two some houses have been lending a little support to their issues. They have found that a very little backing is required to bolster prices considerably.

It is not likely, however, that a concerted effort will be made to stiffen prices until investment bankers are convinced that the public is ready to go along with them.

Awaits Public Confidence.

The second phase of the investment cycle, the spreading of purchases into other than first class issues, will arrive just as soon as public confidence in general business recovery proceeds to a point where the high income possibilities of good bonds outside the gilt edge class begin to attract investors who have bought more safety and marketability than they really need.

There are, of course, many bonds selling low because they are not worth much. But there are others whose speculative element is not as great as the current quotations would indicate.

SURFACE LINE RIDES, REVENUE DECLINE IN MAY

The monthly report of the Chicago Surface Lines issued yesterday shows a decline in the number of revenue passengers carried in May as compared with the same month last year and also a shrinkage in gross earnings for the month.

Revenue passengers carried by the system during May totaled 64,999,715 which was a decline of 6,805,553 from May, 1930. Gross earnings for the month were $4,451,847, a decline of $470,343 from the same month last year. After deducting operating expenses residue receipts totaled $739,265 for the month. After fixed interest on the purchase there remained $34,695 to be divided between the city and company.

HEAR N. W. HARRIS & CO. NOW PLANS TO ENTER WALL STREET SOON

N. W. Harris & Co., one of the oldest bond houses in the country, which was organized in Chicago nearly 50 years ago, and from which was formed the Harris Trust and Savings bank in 1907, will enter Wall street soon, according to plans under consideration by the Harris interests. Formal statement of the plans may be made within a few days.

The need to enter New York became apparent when the Chase National bank acquired control of Harris, Forbes & Co., which had been in close association with the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago. With the merger of Harris, Forbes & Co. with the Chase interests into a new distributing organization, the Chase-Harris-Forbes corporation, scheduled to take place as of July 1, the need for a direct security distributing outlet for the Harris bank would become necessary, it was said.

Although N. W. Harris & Co. have, in effect, been the bond department of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, new offerings of securities have heretofore been made through the nationwide system of offices of Harris, Forbes & Co. and the branches of the bank itself. It is believed that the opening of a Wall street office of N. W. Harris & Co. may be followed by the opening of branches in other cities, as the Harris Trust and Savings bank has been an important originator of new security issues. While Harris, Forbes & Co. have been closely associated with the bank in many bond offerings, notably in the case of municipals, the name of the bank itself has appeared in the advertising of these securities.

Investment bankers in New York expressed the view that the entrance of the Harris interests of Chicago into the New York field would be of considerable importance, as the Harris Trust and Savings bank has been a large distributor of securities in the Chicago territory and in the far west.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 19.—A general tendency toward lower prices prevailed in the stock market today despite a moderate rally in the oil group. Railroad stocks were especially weak, but numerous better grade industrials dropped from fractions to as much as two points.

Losses among the railroads run as high as three points. Trading was carried on at a slightly brisker pace, but most traders suffered from lassitude induced by exceptionally warm weather and the news from Washington that President Hoover had called a conference of congress leaders, supposedly to talk over the possibility of debt revision.

Total sales were about 1,200,000 shares.

Other Cheerful News.

The most heartening exhibition in today's somnolent session was the way oil shares responded to news from the Pacific coast that Standard of California had advanced the tank wagon price of gasoline in an attempt to end the "distressing" situation in that field. California led the advance with a net gain of two points, but other stocks in the Standard Oil group also moved up fractions. Shell and Mexican Seaboard were firm throughout, and elsewhere a healthy tone was apparent.

Other outstanding cheerful market tidbits were: Strength of local traction stocks and selected utility shares, such as American Water Works and American Foreign Power; and a rise of one point in Westinghouse Electric, which has been under pressure on the theory that a dividend cut is coming.

Moderate recessions took place in some of the pivotal issues, such as United States Steel, American Can and General Motors. A fairly steady market was maintained in most of the stocks that are regarded as market indicators, however. More volatile favorites lost ground, Auburn dropping 1⅝. Consolidated Gas 1, Eastman Kodak 1 and National Biscuit 1½.

Railroad Pressure.

Pressure exerted against the railroads was looked upon in some circles as a natural backwash to the high tide of bullish enthusiasm raised by the recent move for higher freight rates. The public is gradually absorbing the idea that final disposition of the rate action will probably take considerable time—and the public is no patient trader.

Salient points in today's recession of railroad stocks were the quick weakening of Southwestern Road Shares and the comparatively gradual decline of stocks of lines in other sections of the country. In the end, however, prices of nearly all important issues in the group sagged one point or more. Union Pacific had a net loss of 3½ points, St. Louis and Southwestern 2¼, St. Louis and San Francisco 2, Santa Fe 1⅝, New York Central 1¼, Northern Pacific 1¼, Baltimore and Ohio 1½, and Canadian Pacific ⅝.

The advance in local traction issues was accompanied by reports that plans for unification of the lines have been making satisfactory progress. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit had a net gain of 1½ points to show for the day, while Interborough Rapid Transit gained 1⅛.

Ten Years Ago in Finance

The mood of the stock market during the last week is described in a New York dispatch as one of "haphazard pessimism regarding values rather than of reasoned despondency regarding actual conditions. The markets may make a sudden discovery, when the readjustment has run its course, of the immense economic strength which the country has acquired through its liquidation, its economies, new methods of prudent enterprise, and its adaption of credit, capital and labor bedrock resources. Everything teaches that the nation is preparing for a forward movement again."

Carloadings of the Burlington railway for the first two weeks in June were 59,800, compared with 83,152 for the same two weeks in 1920. This is a decline of 23,352 cars or 28.1 per cent. The grain movement, however, gained 24.1 per cent. Coal shipments were down 42.9, livestock 10.7, and miscellaneous freight 20.8 per cent.

The United States mint has resumed the coinage of silver dollars after a lapse of seventeen years. Approximately $30,000,000 worth have so far been turned out. Since May, 1920, the treasury has purchased 55,000,000 ounces of United States silver at $1 an ounce.

Business lags on the London stock exchange. Rail issues have been lifeless, while oil shares show pronounced weakness.

Announces 20% Cut in All-Expense Tours

A twenty per cent reduction on all-expense tours leaving Chicago on July 1 and 15 for the Black Hills of South Dakota over the Chicago and Northwestern railway was announced yesterday by C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager. Reductions in rates were also announced for tours leaving Chicago Aug. 1 and 15.

OFFERS 16 RULE PLAN FOR RETURN OF PROSPERITY

Philadelphia, Pa., June 19.—(AP)—William Guggenheim of New York, captalist, philanthropist and president of the Benjamin Franklin Institute of America, tonight offered a 16 rule plan "for the return of better times."

Mr. Guggenheim prepared an address for delivery at the annual dinner of the University of Pennsylvania college class of 1889, but in his absence, due to illness, it was read by Edward W. Mumford, secretary of the university and secretary of the class of 1889. The 16 rule plan follows:

"Don't interfere in European politics.

"Infuse the nation with the spirit of a man like former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

"When business expansion begins to well overtake depression see that inflation is avoided. For, remember, that inflation, deflation and prohibition are the triology of crime."

TRADE DWINDLES ON BOARD HERE; PRICES EASIER

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The volume of trading again dipped below the 50,000 share mark and an easier tone in prices prevailed on the Chicago exchange yesterday. The trading community is settling down to what is expected to be a long siege of dullness in the security exchanges.

La Salle street does not expect that the influx of second quarter statements, which will start soon, will have any important effect on the market. Some observers express the opinion that the early June lows may be tested in the near future, but the general opinion is that the statements will contain nothing which has not already been anticipated.

Faces Adverse Dividend.

The fact remains that the market is now facing a week which may produce further unfavorable dividend action on the part of a number of corporations. Whether such developments will have an important influence on security prices is still a matter of some doubt.

Many brokers are advising reduction of commitments on rallies, but the majority of houses believe present prices are attractive for long term positions. Public participation, however, shows no signs of increasng and the current trading is calculated to be between 75 and 85 per cent professional.

Moderate price declines ruled yesterday in nearly all classes of active shares. The utilities receded fractionally, with the trading centering in Middle West and Insull utilities. Motor shares followed the same course as did the majority of the leading specialties.

Discuss Reported Loan.

The street is talking about the reported huge refunding scheme of the Commonwealth Edison company. Despite the prevalence of the gossip there has been no comment from officials or from the company's banking representatives. If, as rumored, the company is chartering a $100,000,000 refunding program, it will be the largest utility financing ever undertaken by a Chicago concern.

The Public Service company of Northern Illinois, another Insull company, recently carried through a $40,000,000 refunding plan and the success of that step has undoubtedly led to the report of the Edison program. It is logical that companies which are now in a position to do so should take advantage of current conditions to reduce their fixed interest charges.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today and demand less active. The only sales reported were 8,000 tons of Cubas for prompt shipment and 21,000 bags of Cuban from store at 3.55c to a local refiner, and 9,000 bags of new crop Philippines for March-April shipment to an operator at 3.10c.

Futures were easier, but trading was not very active and consisted principally of exchanging from the July to later positions. Final prices were at the lowest of the session and from 2 to 3 points below the previous close. Sales were 58,000 tons. Prices follow:

BIG U. S. HOLDING OF WHEAT ACTS AS TRADE BRAKE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish factors count for little in the world's wheat market at the present time, and according to the views expressed by some of the ablest men on the Chicago Board of Trade this condition is likely to continue until such time as the trade is assured that there will be dumping of the 200,000,000 bu or more wheat secured by the government during its stabilization operations.

The action of the wheat market is having some effect on security prices, and messages from Wall street claimed that the rally which came in wheat toward the last yesterday was a factor in making a stronger close in stocks.

Scattered selling developed in wheat early which carried all deliveries off around ½c to a new low for the season and since 1896, with the July touching 55¾c, but there was not the pressure so much in evidence on Thursday due to less assuring reports as to the moisture situation in the Canadian northwest. Sufficient local buying and short covering developed later on the strength in wheat to bring about a rally of ⅝@1c from the inside, with the close ⅛ lower on July which finished at 55⅝c, while the deferred futures were ½c higher, with September, 56⅝c, and December, 60⅛c to 60¼c.

Liverpool Near Record Low.

Liquidation was under way in wheat at Liverpool, with the July selling at a new low for the season and closed at the bottom at 59c, the lowest figure at which any future has sold during the crop year. This was within a fraction of the record low established in 1895 when some No. 2 spring sold in the cash market there at about 55c. The finish there was ⅝@1⅛d lower, and the July was ¼c discount as compared with the same delivery in Winnipeg. The latter market was strong on dry weather reports and closed ⅛@⅝c higher.

Northern Alberta and Saskatchewan, the sections in the Canadian northwest which needed moisture the least, received the greater part of the precipitation during the recent storm, while the real dry areas had practically nothing, according to reports received from Winnipeg yesterday. Dust storms prevailed in parts of the three provinces. Reports from H. C. Donovan, George M. Le Count and E. H. Miller, who represent Chicago houses covering various parts of Saskatchewan, showed poor conditions generally.

The belief was generally expressed by the trade that neither North America nor European buyers are likely to take hold of either cash wheat or futures unless they are assured the government's immense holding will not be thrown on the market. Farmers in Oklahoma were reported as receiving 35c to 40c per bu for new wheat yesterday, and around 80 cars of new grain were received at the various terminals, with weather conditions favorable for harvest.

Local Trade in Corn.

Local shorts were fair buyers of July corn, but the aggregate trade was not large and the market easily influenced. Closing trades were ⅛@⅜c higher, with July finished at 56¼c to 56⅝c; September, 52⅛c to 53c, and December, 46¼c. The dry and hot weather over the belt was regarded as extremely favorable for the new crop which is making rapid growth. Shipping demand was slow and the country showed little disposition to sell to arrive. Purchases of 100,000 bu were said to have been made from elevators by a local industry and a like amount was sold to go to store.

Country commission houses were made buyers of oats futures and with the firmness in corn the close was ½c higher, with July, 25½c; September, 26⅛@26¼c, and December, 28⅝c. Rye gained ⅛@⅜c for the day with unfavorable crop reports from the northwest a factor. July finished at 37½; September, 39c, and December, 41⅝c.

CROP REPORTS

George M. Le Count's wire to Stein, Alstrin from Davidson, Sask., says: "From Saskatoon here crops very poor generally. Much wheat in boot and will be coming into head soon. Straw will be short and heads forming now are small. Do not think territory seen can raise over half a crop under best conditions."

E. H. Miller, the J. E. Bennett & Co. crop statistician, wired: "In a ride of 170 miles from Ancroid to Weyburn, Sask., dust storm all the way with no rain. Three feet of sand drifted on railroad track over night and some places to fence tops. Do not believe rain will help this section much now.

A Sioux Falls, S. D., message to Jackson Brothers says hot, heavy hot wind Thursday, with temperatures ranging from 95 to 100. Small grain being damaged. Most all heading out very short and generally crop over that section will be light.

Bartlett-Frazier company had reports that indicate rain in Canada in the last 24 hours had been in northern Alberta and northern Saskatchewan, the districts that have suffered least from drought. Southern Saskatchewan, western Manitoba, and southeastern Alberta have been the centers of the drought and apparently have received little or no relief, with reports of high winds and dust storms in last 24 hours.

"Eastward from central Saskatchewan to near Manitoba border wheat shows some better, but none anywhere as good as average," wires H. C. Donovan, crop expert of Logan & Bryan, from Craven, Sask. Terrific dust storms continue, but now too late to do any more serious damage to wheat, as plants tall enough to shade soil. Wheat seen nine days ago this vicinity has made scarcely any growth."

Broomhall cable confirms recent reports of rain seriously delaying seeding in Australia, with prospects of 40 per cent reduction in acreage in the provinces of New South Wales and Victoria.

The Canadian Pacific railroad report for 24 hours ended at midnight Thursday says hot dust storms in Manitoba, with temperatures up to 94. Heavy rain in part of southern Alberta and five hour rain in Macklin, Radford, and Reifield districts of northern Saskatchewan, with scattered showers elsewhere. Good rains in Alberta, which covered the country mostly to Lethbridge.

DRY GOODS.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Cotton goods were barely steady today, finished goods [illegible] cur easily weak. Rayon manufacturers were doing more business on spot, celanese and acetate cellulose yarns. Silk merchandise of a styled character for spring continued to be offered at low prices. Wool goods continued in fair demand.

SMALL MARKET IN LARD

A little scattered commission house selling, with moderate buying, attributed to market interests in July and September lard, was the only interesting feature of yesterday and the market closed 2½@5c lower on the active futures. Liverpool lard was unchanged. Export clearances were 599,000 lbs of lard. A little attention was given bellies, with a few trades in July and prices at 2½c decline. Cash trade in lard and meats was said to be good. Hogs, although higher early, had a sharp break. Prices follow:

WORLD'S WHEAT STOCKS

World's supply of wheat, as compiled by the Daily Trade Bulletin, decreased 48,478,000 bu in May, compared with 63,848,000 bu in April, and with 59,021,000 bu last year. The decrease during the past month was mainly in Canada, the United States and Australia. Details follow, last three ciphers omitted:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

There is said to be no question about damage to the spring wheat crop, particularly in Canada, but the extent of injury is dependent upon weather condition for the next few weeks. A few scattered reports from private individuals intimate that western Canada will not have over 200,000,000 bu against 376,000,000 bu last year. Traders who lean toward the constructive side of the market are buying futures in Winnipeg and selling in Chicago. With an increasing movement of new winter wheat the disposition of traders is to sell the July and buy September. A few days ago changes were made even. Yesterday September was at ⅛@⅝c premium. It is said that a number of local professionals who have been bearish have covered their lines, owing to continued deteriorations in the Canadian crop.

The government is moving but around 1,500,000 bu of wheat from Chicago to make storage space for corn, the expectation being for a larger movement of the latter grain in the near future.

"Harvesting of winter wheat in the southwest is progressing rapidly, with satisfactory yields," says the Modern Miller. "Highly beneficial rains have fallen over a wide area in the three Canadian provinces, but owing to lack of subsoil reserve more moisture is needed within a week. Drought on the Pacific coast and parts of the northwest has been relieved by rains but western North Dakota and eastern Montana remain dry."

COTTON HAS LATE ADVANCE

A feature of the cotton market yesterday was slowness, with little change in prices early in the day, followed by activity, with light offerings and a covering movement that advanced prices sharply, making the close around the top, scoring net gains on futures in Chicago of 23@28 points and also the same appreciation in other markets. Spots advanced 25 points, New York being 8.85c, New Orleans 8.70c, Galveston 8.85c, and Houston 8.70c. Liverpool closed 6@7 points net lower, with spot sales of 5,000 bales, including 3,000 bales American.

Late buying was attributed to a report issued by a New York news bureau showing deficiency in the rainfall since Jan. 1 amounting to 2.57 inches in Texas, 3.07 in Oklahoma, while in the eastern belts it ranged from 5.75 in Georgia to 12.31 in Mississippi. This started the shorts to cover and they found offerings comparatively moderate.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week were 147,000 bales, compared with 155,000 bales the previous week and 117,000 bales last year. Into sight movement for the week was 23,000 bales, compared with 36,000 bales a year ago. Decrease in the visible supply was 124,000 bales, against 51,000 bales last year. Total visible is 5,774,000 bales, compared with 3,637,000 bales a year ago. Prices follow:

An early flurry in the hog market of a few sales were steady to 10 higher and some bids showed 10 higher and some bids showed 15 higher, but there was a break of 15@25 with the greater part of the day's decline falling at the full loss in addition and later. The general trade some down 90c to $6.55 and is only 10 above the general average at the close of last week.

Fancy light weights at the start brought $7.85, which was 5c above the previous day's peak and highest since April 27. Bids of $7.70@7.80 were lost on the late weakness. The decline was good, however, and only 1,000 remained at the close, the low point of the day. In spite of the somewhat hot weather there was another advance in the wholesale price of fresh pork loins.

Monday Hogs Bid $7.50.

Just averaging 170@210 lbs., for next Monday's delivery were bid $7.50 as the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no offers to sell at the price. July and August light were bid $7.35. September light were bid at $6.15. Mediums for September were offered at $6.80 and bid $6.65, while heavy grades were offered at $6.90 and bid $7.00.

Cattle receipts at 8,000 were small, but for Friday the available supply was large enough, and buyers succeeded in lowering the price of some of the medium and weighty steers. The latter are closing 25@50c lower than a week ago, while light steers and yearlings are still in line with last week's close.

Lambs Sell Steady.

Native lambs were sorted closely at nearly prices yesterday, with some sale showing strength, considering quality. Bulk sold at $8.00@8.25, with top to city butchers at $8.50. Western range lambs were sold straight at $8.15. Aged sheep were unchanged. Feedings ruled weaker, the best here going at $6.65. There has been a rather sensational decline in the lamb market since June 1.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 8,000 to 10,000. C. Southwick marked 50 head, W. Garrett, 40,000; F. W. Tenny, 41,000; J. T. Brown, N. R. Denny and F. B.
